Academic Accommodations:

You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request the processes are as follows:

Pregnancy obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website: <http://carleton.ca/equity/>

Religious obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website: <http://carleton.ca/equity/>

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send me your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with me to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable) at <http://carleton.ca/pmc/students/dates-and-deadlines/>

You can visit the Equity Services website to view the policies and to obtain more detailed information on academic accommodation at <http://carleton.ca/equity/>

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one's own. Plagiarism includes reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else's published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one's own without proper citation or reference to the original source. Examples of sources from which the ideas, expressions of ideas or works of others may be drawn from include but are not limited to: books, articles, papers, literary compositions and phrases, performance compositions, chemical compounds, art works, laboratory reports, research results, calculations and the results of calculations, diagrams, constructions, computer reports, computer code/software, and material on the Internet. Plagiarism is a serious offence.

More information on the University's Academic Integrity Policy can be found at: <http://carleton.ca/studentaffairs/academic-integrity/>

Student Services: The Centre for Student Academic Support (CSAS) is a centralized collection of learning support services designed to help students achieve their goals and improve their learning both inside and outside the classroom. CSAS Offers academic assistance with course content, academic writing and skills development. Visit CSAS on the 4th floor of MacOdrum Library or online at carleton.ca/csas

Department Policy

The Department of Law and Legal Studies operates in association with certain policies and procedures.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course offers an introduction to the study of international organizations and global governance from the political, political economy, and institutionalist perspectives. It is designed to familiarize students with different theoretical approaches to international organizations, various areas of international regimes and governance, and some important issues and debates that occupy the interest of students and observers of international institutions. By the end of the course, students should be accustomed with these subject matters, deepen their knowledge and understanding on certain international organizations and international regimes through their critical review papers and research project, and be able to extend their understanding to contemporary development of global governance and action of a number of key international organizations.

REQUIRED TEXTS

There is one required textbook for this course:

*Rittberger, Volker, Bernhard Zangl, and Andreas Kruck, International Organization, 2nd edition, Houndsmill, Basingstoke, and Hampshire: Palgrave Macmillan, 2012.

Students are encouraged to purchase the required textbook from the University Bookstore. Other required readings are accessible either through ARES (the University Library's online reserves) or cuLearn (cuLearn access is indicated on the reading list). Supplementary readings, which can be useful for students' further background readings and research projects, can be accessed through the Library's e-journal collection.

COURSE FORMAT

Classes meet once a week on Friday 14:35-17:25. Each session consists of a lecture and a discussion session. The instructor may use a variety of formats to organize class discussion.

Attendance is very crucial for students to succeed in the course. Regular attendance, therefore, is strongly encouraged. Besides attending classes, students are encouraged to follow the news on world politics and economy, with special interest for international organizations and regimes from available credible news sources such as newspapers (e.g. the Globe and Mail, Wall Street Journal, New York Times, Financial Times), and other online news sources and news magazines (e.g. the BBC, the Economist).

EVALUATION

Students will be evaluated based on their attendance and participation, two critical review papers, a term paper, and a final exam.

Attendance and Participation	15%
Critical Papers (2)	30%	(15% each)
Term paper	30%	(Due on Dec. 8)
Final Exam	25%	(during formal exam period between Dec. 10-22)

Attendance and Participation: It is important for students to attend lectures regularly and participate actively in class discussions. To do this successfully, students must complete the required readings for each weekly session and give them careful thought before attending class. Evaluation is based on regular attendance (5%) and the quality of class contribution (10%). A good-quality contribution should reflect students' knowledge and critical views of the various issues raised by the readings and their active participation during class discussion. It is recommended that the instructor be informed when students have to miss class with legitimate reasons.

Critical Review Paper: Students will write two short (3-4 pages, double-spaced) papers on two of the weekly topics of their choice. The paper should focus on at least one key issue discussed in the weekly readings. The objective is to analyze and provide an argument (not simply summarize) on how the issue(s) in question is addressed by the authors. Your review may include your agreement and/or disagreement with the views presented in the readings, an evaluation of the policy discussed and its relevance in today's context, or a critique on the bias of the author(s), etc. The most important thing is to present a thematic discussion and elaborate your arguments coherently and convincingly. Evaluation will be based on your ability to present a critical and sound analysis that demonstrates that you have carefully and critically thought about the readings and the issue(s) at hand. Good organization and ability to write persuasively and coherently are also expected in a good paper. The assignment does not require consulting other sources aside from the required readings. Students will submit this assignment electronically through the course's cuLearn drop-box. It is due the following week after the selected topic has been discussed. The first critical review should be submitted by week 6, while the second review by week 12.

Term Paper: Students will write a medium-sized paper (8-10 pages double-spaced) on a topic of their choice chosen from a list provided by the instructor (instruction will be given and explained later in the course and post on cuLearn). This assignment requires a critical examination of an issue-area in global governance (drawing from the weekly topics) and the role of an international organization in that particular issue-area. To ascertain that the preparation for the paper is on the right track, students are expected to submit a brief (one page) preliminary outline of this paper to the instructor by Nov. 3 (proposal format will be provided through cuLearn). The paper is due on Dec. 8. Students will submit this assignment electronically through the course's cuLearn drop-box. It is worth 30 % of the total grade.

Final Exam: The 2-hour final exam will consist of two essay questions. A guideline for exam preparation will be provided at the last class. The exam is worth 25 % of the total grade. Exam date and location are to be announced later in the semester. It is to take place during the formal exam period (December 10-22).

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Department and of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by the instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Department and the Dean.

SCHEDULE

Items marked by an asterisk (*) are required readings. Students are encouraged to explore and make use of the supplementary readings, particularly for their research paper. The instructor reserves the right to make changes to the reading list.
