Secularisms
and Other Challenges
“A totally secularised society with contempt for religion sinks into materialism and self-absorption and gradually goes slack, without leaving an artistic legacy.”

– Camille Paglia
“We drifted from having a market economy to being a market society.”

“Serious debate about the role and reach of markets remains largely absent from our political life.”

– Michael J. Sandel
• inner, interior reality (in which the individual suffers from angst, not least death angst)

• exterior, interpersonal reality (in which the individual must find a way to live peaceably and constructively with others)

• a wider, cosmic reality (in which the individual must seek a way of living with the eternal mysteries of Life and the Universe)
“…capable of being in uncertainties, mysteries, doubts, without any irritable reaching after fact and reason.”

– John Keats
“...faith asks that we learn to live with mysteries, and not to wipe them away—for in wiping them away we may wipe away the face of the world.”

– Roger Scruton
“God may be dead, but the urgent issues which impelled us to make him up do not go away when we have been nudged to perceive some scientific inaccuracies in the tale of the seven loaves and fishes.”

– Alain de Botton
