

The Practical Certificate in Insider Risk Management

offered in cooperation with the Canadian Insider Risk Management Centre of Excellence

September 13 and 14, 2023

Online

NPSIA-PT&D is pleased to announce the Summer – Fall 2023 offering of the Practical Certificate in Insider Risk Management workshop in cooperation with the Canadian Insider Risk Management Centre of Excellence. This two-day, online workshop provides participants with an understanding of insider risk awareness and establishes an analytical foundation for managing the security screening process of applicants and/or employees while recognizing risks inherent in the management of personnel security.

Concern about insider threat and continuous assurance has increased exponentially for government, public and private organizations, which has put the onus on employers to focus upon human factors when establishing controls to protect their critical assets. While organizations rely upon personnel screening and parameter-based security measures to prevent insider risk, these measures often prove insufficient as personal circumstances change and evolve over an employee's career. As personnel security is a driver of decision-making, the act of making judgments affecting a person's life and livelihood imposes a heavy responsibility on those individuals charged with assessing a person's reliability.

Workshop participants will learn to understand several key areas of consideration involved with personnel security screening processes in either public or private industry. A criteria framework is utilized to evaluate individual behaviour and circumstances to arrive at an objective and defensible employment decision.

Learning objectives of the workshop:

- broadened understanding of insider risk and the security screening process,
- heightened ability to recognize (red flags), detect and defend against insider risks within their organizations,
- introduction to motives or personal situations that may increase an employee's likelihood to act out against an employer,
- practical knowledge of a risk factor framework used to recognize behaviours indicating potential employee concern and management of residual risks,
- awareness of continuous assurance (aftercare) measures that can be used with current employees, as well as considerations upon departing an organization,
- understanding of personal social media presence and related company strategies.

Who should attend?

This workshop is ideal for all professionals who work in institutions that have concerns for, or have identified Insider Risk threats to operational integrity, property and / or reputation. This workshop will appeal to both public servants, at all levels of government, employees of commercial enterprises and personnel who work with Critical Infrastructure.

FEE: $ 700.00 + HST
