Course Description

Philosophy is all around us; it permeates culture. This course explores philosophical questions through the lens of popular culture. Materials used may include films, shows, music, novels, video games, advertising, comic books, and so on. This semester, the course will focus in particular on the genre of science fiction, in particular in film and television.

Learning Outcomes

This course will serve as a general introduction both to the genre of science fiction and to the discipline of philosophy. In the first place, students will become familiar with the history of science fiction, its subgenres and characteristic elements. They will also learn to analyze texts using key works of science fiction in film and television from the 1960s to the 2010s.

In the second place, students will be introduced to contemporary debates in contemporary analytic philosophy. They will learn to think critically about arguments and thought-experiments in contemporary epistemology, metaphysics, and ethics. Special emphasis will be placed on argument reconstruction. No prior knowledge of philosophy is required.

Course Materials

Materials for this course include both audiovisual materials and readings. Almost all required audiovisual materials can be accessed via the MacOdrum library website. The remaining materials may be accessed on Netflix Canada or purchased individually online. All readings are also available online via the ARES course reserves system. Students do not need to purchase any books or course packs for this course.

Course Requirements

This is an online course. All classes will take the form of synchronous lectures on Zoom. Students are expected to watch the relevant media and to review readings ahead of time and to come prepared to discuss them. Attendance is strongly recommended; however, sessions will be recorded for students who cannot attend.

Assignments:

Please follow your professor's instructions on how assignments will be handled electronically. There will be NO hard copies placed in the essay box this coming year.

Evaluation:

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by the instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

Deferrals for Term Work:

If students are unable to complete term work because of illness or other circumstances beyond their control, they should contact their course instructor no later than three working days of the due date. Normally, any deferred term work will be completed by the last day of the term. Term work cannot be deferred by the Registrar.

Deferrals for Final Exams:

Students are expected to be available for the duration of a course including the examination period. Occasionally, students encounter circumstances beyond their control where they may not be able to write a final examination or submit a take-home examination. Examples of this would be a serious illness or the death of a family member. If you miss a final examination and/or fail to submit a take-home examination by the due date, you may apply for a deferral no later than three working days after the original due date (as per the University Regulations in Section 4.3 of the Undergraduate Calendar). Visit the Registrar's Office for further information.

Plagiarism:

It is the responsibility of each student to understand the meaning of 'plagiarism' as defined in the Undergraduate or Graduate Calendars, and to avoid both committing plagiarism and aiding or abetting plagiarism by other students. (Section 10.1 of the Undergraduate Calendar Academic Regulations)

Academic Accommodation:

You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term:

§ Pregnancy or religious obligation: write to your professor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the EDC website. § Academic accommodations for students with disabilities: The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class test or exam requiring accommodation. After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with your professor to ensure accommodation arrangements are made.

§ Survivors of Sexual Violence: As a community, Carleton University is committed to maintaining a positive learning, working and living environment where sexual violence will not be tolerated, and where survivors are supported through academic accommodations as per Carleton's Sexual Violence Policy. § Accommodation for Student Activities: Carleton University recognizes the substantial benefits, both to the individual student and for the university, that result from a student participating in activities beyond the classroom experience. Reasonable accommodation must be provided to students who compete or perform at the national or international level. Please contact your instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist.
