

PHIL 2380: Introduction to Environmental Ethics

Fall 2018, Tuesdays and Thursdays 4:05-5:35pm

Prof: Katherine Wayne

E-mail: katherinewayne@cunet.carleton.ca

Office hours: Tuesdays 1:30-3:30pm

Teaching Assistant: TBD – see cuLearn for TA contact information and office hours

NOTE: This syllabus is as complete as possible. Details will be filled in as the class progresses, and some minor changes may be implemented as necessary.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course addresses a series of questions relevant to the evaluation of environmental issues from a philosophical perspective. For instance, what is nature? Why and how is the natural environment valuable, if it is at all? What role do—and should—humans occupy in the non-human realm? What are our obligations to nature and its constituent non-human individuals and collectives—including ecosystems, future generations, plants, and non-human animals? Which ethical theories and philosophical tools could best guide our responses to these questions? What might be some practical implications of our responses to the above, e.g. in public policy, environmental activism, and basic life choices? Our primary course text and other (mostly) contemporary work in environmental ethics will guide our examination and discussion of the above questions.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

- Understand philosophical theories and concepts pertinent to environmental ethics
- Critically analyze and compare different approaches to environmental issues
- Produce clear arguments in defense of particular ethical positions on environmental issues
- Address specific environmental issues in peer discussions using the methods, theories, and concepts introduced in the course

CLASS TEXTS

Primary textbook: Sandler, R.L., 2017. Environmental Ethics: Theory in Practice. Oxford University Press.

The textbook will be available for purchase at Haven books. Many required course readings are not in the textbook; outside articles and chapters will be flagged on the readings schedule and made accessible through cuLearn.

METHODS AND POLICIES

While this is a lecture course, I will regularly include discussion and other peer-supported learning activities in class. I will expect you to come to class having completed the assigned readings. To ensure minimal distractions and promote active engagement, the use of laptops and other technologies should be limited to note-taking and other classroom activities.

I encourage you to take advantage of office hours wherever feasible. While my TA and I will respond to e-mails as promptly and fully as possible, e-mail exchanges should generally be reserved for brief and/or logistical/administrative questions. You can typically expect to receive a response to e-mail inquiries from me within twenty-four hours during the work week, barring noted exceptions.

You should check cuLearn regularly for important messages and information about, e.g., scheduling, readings, and assignment instructions. You are also encouraged to use the student discussion forum on cuLearn for peer discussion, forming study groups, exchanging class notes, etc.

If you have any concerns about your ability to fulfill any of the course requirements, but are unsure of how to proceed, please speak with me as soon as possible and take care to inform yourself on relevant departmental and university policies and accommodations services. There is a complete list of these on the last pages of this syllabus, with which all students should become familiar.

Violations of academic integrity will not be tolerated. If you are unclear on the nature of academic integrity or Carleton's academic integrity policy, please consult with me and/or the information and links to further resources on the last page of the syllabus.

EVALUATION

Further information and instructions will be posted on cuLearn and discussed in class.

1) In-class group assignments (15%)

Four classes will be primarily devoted to in-class small group exercises involving analysis and critique of the assigned reading, and at times consideration of additional material, e.g. film clip or news piece. Groups submit one copy of the jointly completed assignment for grading at the end of class; each present and participating member of the group will receive the same assignment grade. Your top three assignments will contribute 5% to your final grade.

2) Two short papers (20% and 25% = 45%)

At two points in the term, students will choose a topic in environmental ethics from a set list and write a paper of 1000-1200 words on that topic.

3) Final exam (40%)

The final exam (during exam period, date and time TBA) will cover all course material, but emphasize what we covered in the last third of the course. The exam will include short and long answer questions.

Department of Philosophy and Carleton University Policies (Fall/Winter 2018-19)

Assignments:

Unless specifically told otherwise by their instructors, students:

- Must not use a plastic or cardboard cover or paper clips.
- Must staple the paper (there is a stapler on the essay box).
- Must include the following on the first page: student name and number; course name and number; instructor's name.
- No assignments will be accepted after the last day for handing in term work – see dates below.
- Assignments handed in through the essay box (just inside the glass doors, Paterson Hall, Floor 3A) must be dropped into the box by 4:15 on a regular business day in order to be date-stamped with that day's date. Assignments handed in after 4:15 or on a non-business day will be stamped as having been handed in on the next business day.
- Students are required to keep copies of their assignments. If your paper is lost at any point, you will be considered not to have submitted it if you cannot produce a copy immediately on request.

Evaluation:

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by the instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

Deferrals for Final Exams:

If you miss a final examination (formally scheduled or take-home) because of circumstances beyond your control, you may apply for a deferral. You must apply within 3 working days after the scheduled date of your formally scheduled exam or within 3 working days after the due date of a take-home exam. Visit the Registrar's Office for more information:
