1. Course description

This course is an introduction to some major philosophical questions about language, linguistics, and communication.

In Unit 1, we will examine four competing theories of language. In particular, we will look at different ways to answer some of the core questions in philosophy of language, such as: What gives the meaning of any particular word?

In Unit 2, we will look at a variety of philosophical questions about linguistic agents and communicative practices, such as: What is the role of metaphor in thought? What is lying?

In Unit 3, we will discuss two foundational problems in philosophical and scientific studies of language: How do humans acquire language? What is it for a linguistic expression to have meaning?

No prior experience in philosophy, linguistics, or communication studies is required.

Prerequisite: second-year standing.

2. Texts

Most of the readings are in Michael Morris An Introduction to the Philosophy of Language (Cambridge UP, 2007). This textbook is available at Octopus Books in the Glebe, at Bank & 3rd (116 3rd Avenue). You can also have Octopus Books ship it to you, if you order online: www.octopusbooks.ca

All other readings will be available via cuLearn.

3. Course Requirements

All of the evaluation in this course will involve writing. All the writing will either consist of writing very very short things or pretty short things. Specifically, the marking scheme is:

90% Essays – 3 essays, each worth 30%

10% Mini-papers – 6 mini-papers, each worth 1.67%

Essays

Three short essays are required. Although the length of the essays is kind of flexible, the main touchstone length should be c.1200 words. We'll talk about these essays when they get closer.

Essay#1 will be assigned on July 18 ... and is due July 29

Essay#2 will be assigned on August 1 ... and is due August 12

Essay#3 will be assigned on August 13 ... and is due August 22

Note: All essays must be submitted electronically. Exact submission details will be discussed when Essay#1 is assigned.

Mini-papers

Six mini-papers (.75-1 page each) are required. These are very brief critical evaluations of theses or arguments in the assigned readings.

You have a lot of flexibility about when to hand in mini-papers. But this flexibility is only within the following framework:

- (1) Each of your 6 mini-papers must be on a different reading.
- (2) You must hand in your mini-paper at the start of a class in which we are scheduled to address the reading that your mini-paper addresses.

Note: Mini-papers will not be accepted electronically.

Note: Often (but not always) we will spend portions of two classes on a single reading. You may hand in a mini-paper on these readings at the start of either class in which we discuss them.

See the cuLearn handout on mini-papers for more information about them.

4. Respect

Please be respectful of your classmates (and me!) at all times during classes. This includes, for example, not talking when others are, and – obviously – not espousing any sort of bigoted views. If I feel that you're being disruptive, I'll kick you out.

5. Cell phones

Please turn off your cell phones before class starts. It's really annoying when they make noises during class. If for some reason you're expecting an urgent call, just mention this to me before class.

6. Plagiarism

There will be serious repercussions if I believe that you plagiarised in any of the essays. I will immediately send an incident report to the Dean's Office, which will determine further action.

Be sure that you are familiar with the university plagiarism rules, which can be found in the Undergraduate Calendar, Academic Regulations, section 14.3, pg. 56 – or online: <http://www.carleton.ca/cu0809uc/regulations/acadregsuniv14.html#14.3>

7. Email

I do generally respond to emails ... but often not quickly. In other words, you shouldn't think of me as being 'on call' via email at all times. One reason to note this is that you should not put off contacting me about pressing matters until the last minute. Odds are that last minute emails won't reach my attention in time.

Generally speaking, my office hours, not email, should be used for extra help, questions about material, etc.

8. Feedback

The university asks for your feedback on this course at the end of the semester. That sort of feedback certainly has its place. But it doesn't help me change things on the fly – that is, in ways that will help you, as opposed to helping future students.

So give me feedback: after class, via email, at office hours, around campus, whenever. Tell me that I should go faster or slower on certain material, that such and such topic should be covered in more detail, that our discussion of such and such wasn't clear – or tell me that you think we are going a good speed, that such and such topic was covered in good detail, that our discussion of such and such topic was nice and clear. Either way, feedback is welcome and appreciated!

9. Miscellaneous Info (about formatting, references, and late penalties)

(1) Formatting requirements:

- All mini-papers and essays must be submitted type written, in double-spaced, 12pt Times New Roman font with 1" margins on all sides.
- Don't put a title page on anything
- Put your name, your student number, the course number, and my name at the topic of any document that you hand in, like this:

Student's Name, Student Number
Course Number, Course Instructor's Name

(2) Citations:

- Bibliographies and references in footnotes/parenthetical notation are not required for the mini-papers. But they are required for the essays.

(3) Late essays

- Late essays will be penalized one letter step per day late.
- So: If an 'A' paper is submitted a day late, it will receive an 'A-', and if it's submitted two days late, it will receive a 'B+', etc.
- Late essays will be accepted without penalty if, and only if, there is a well-documented, legitimate reason.

10. Read the official policies

Various official Carleton University and Department of Philosophy policies are laid out in the 'University Polices' document that is available in the 'Logistics' folder for this course on cuLearn. You are responsible for knowing all of the material that's presented there. That requirement just follows from being a student in this course.

Department of Philosophy and Carleton University Policies (Summer 2013)

Assignments:

Unless specifically told otherwise by their instructors, students:

- must not use a plastic or cardboard cover or paper clips
- must staple the paper (there is a stapler on the essay box)
- must include the following in the lower right corner of the cover sheet:
 - student name
 - student number
 - course number and section
 - instructor's name
- The Philosophy Department does not accept assignments by FAX. You may send them by courier, if necessary.
- No assignments will be accepted after the last day for handing in term work – see dates in next column.
- Assignments handed in through the essay box (just inside the glass doors, Paterson Hall, Floor 3A) must be dropped into the box by 4:15 on a regular business day in order to be date-stamped with that day's date. Assignments handed in after 4:15 or on a non-business day will be stamped as having been handed in on the next business day.
- Students are required to keep copies of their assignments. If your paper is lost at any point, you will be considered not to have submitted it if you cannot produce a copy immediately on request.

Deferrals for Term Work:

If you miss a final examination and/or fail to submit a final assignment by the due date because of circumstances beyond your control, you may apply for a deferral of examination/assignment. For deferred examinations, you must apply within 5 working days after the scheduled date of your exam. To apply for deferral of a final assignment, you must apply within 5 working days of the last scheduled day of classes. Visit the Registrar's Office for more information.

Plagiarism:

It is the responsibility of each student to understand the meaning of 'plagiarism' as defined in the Undergraduate or Graduate Calendars, and to avoid both committing plagiarism and aiding or abetting plagiarism by other students. (Undergraduate Calendar Academic Regulations, section 14.3, or <http://www4.carleton.ca/calendars//ugrad/current/regulations/acadregsuniv14.html#14.3>)

Academic Accommodation for Students with Disabilities:

The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send me your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with me to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable).

You can visit the Equity Services website to view the policies and to obtain more detailed information on academic accommodation at <http://carleton.ca/equity/accommodation>.
