Syllabus: PHIL 3005
Nineteenth-Century Philosophy: Self and World, Reason and Will Winter 2018
Wednesdays and Fridays, 10:05-11:25AM
Southam Hall 501

Instructor: Simon Gurofsky
Instructor e-mail: simongurofsky@cunet.carleton.ca or through cuLearn
Office: 3A38 Paterson Hall
Office hours: Wednesdays and Thursdays, 11:30AM-2:30PM (tentative)

1. Description
We will read some key works of continental European philosophy in the 19th century. Our narrative will be framed by the question: What is a human being? At the end of the 18th century, Fichte presented an account on which each human being is a harmonious unity of reason and will, free, rational, and at home in a world constitutively congenial to beings like us. Yet less than a hundred years later, the German Idealist project that Fichte had initiated had largely collapsed. And that process of collapse terminated in Nietzsche’s arguing that the human being is primarily will, and that, far from being at home in the world, modern humanity’s condition is diseased and alienated. Our goals will be, first, to reconstruct the arguments that lead from Fichte’s optimistic Enlightenment rationalism to Nietzsche’s decidedly more dour view of the modern human condition and, second, to see what those arguments can tell us about how we should conceive of the human being today.

Along the way, we shall consider a variety of philosophical topics, perhaps including self-consciousness, intentionality, objectivity, idealism and realism, the basis of morality, suffering, cruelty, and death.

2. Schedule
NB: I have listed readings by name of document and by ID number as listed on Ares.

3. Where to Find the Readings
Most readings are available on Ares; any that are not will be made available by me. Note that some readings are required, others merely optional (as specified in the readings list above).

4. Evaluation

NB: All assignments are to be submitted through cuLearn. See below.

1) Attendance and participation (15% of final grade). Students are expected to attend every lecture, to have read the material assigned and to be prepared to discuss it thoughtfully. However, students may miss one lecture, no questions asked. Beyond that, if you need to miss a class, you’ll need to provide me with a compelling explanation in writing beforehand and to receive a written acknowledgement from me. For every class missed without compelling explanation beyond the first, this mark will drop 2% from its 15% starting point (to 13%, 11%, etc., down to 0).

2) Weekly reflections (15% of final grade). At 5PM every Wednesday beginning in second week, students shall submit 300-400-word reflections on some element of the reading for that week. It can be about something that interested you, that provoked you, that you did not understand, that you disagreed with, etc., so long as it shows substantial engagement with the texts. Grading is for completion only and is similar to that for attendance above: You can miss one reflection no questions asked, but thereafter, you’ll need to provide me with a compelling explanation in writing beforehand and to receive a written acknowledgement from me. For every reflection you miss without compelling explanation, this part of your final grade drops by 2% (to 13%, 11%, etc., down to 0). What you write in your reflections will often bear on the contents of my lectures, so reflections cannot be submitted late.

3) Exegetical essays (1 x 15% + 1 x 20% = 35% of final grade). Twice during the semester, students shall submit papers of no less than 1300 and no more than 1600 words explaining a passage or argument from a work assigned in class. These papers will be primarily exegetical, meaning that your task will be to explain the passage or argument in question as clearly and precisely as you are able. These will be written in response to set topics, distributed by me no less than two full weeks before the due date. You are not to engage with secondary literature in these papers.

4) Final essay (35% of final grade). Students shall submit a final paper of no less than 2000 and no more than 2500 words on the final day of the exam period (April 26th, 2018). Topics will be distributed no later than one week before the end of term. However, students may write on a topic of their choosing provided they arrange a meeting with me to discuss it by the last day of term (April 11th, 2018). This paper will have both an exegetical and an evaluative component, meaning that you will not only be asked to explain a text but also (1) to consider what you take to be a compelling objection to the text you’ve explained, and (2) to take a stand on whether the objection succeeds or fails and to make an argument for that stance. For this paper, you are not required to engage with secondary literature, but you may feel free to do so, and I am happy to make recommendations.

5. cuLearn
This course will have a cuLearn page. A variety of resources may be made available through the cuLearn site, including some readings for the course. You can access your cuLearn account by going to www.carleton.ca/culearn and entering your MyCarletonOne username and password.

Students will be fully responsible for reading and responding appropriately to all information distributed to students through the cuLearn course page. Information provided on this page will be considered to have been provided to all registered students within 24 hours of posting.

All assignments are to be submitted through cuLearn.

6. Additional Policies
Assignment formatting: All assignments should be submitted in .docx or .pdf, and should have on the first page:
1) Student name
2) Student number
3) Course number and section
4) Instructor’s name
5) Word count

Assignment submission: All assignments are to be submitted via CULearn. All assignments are due by 11:59PM on the due date except for reflections, which are due Wednesdays at 5PM (see schedule above).

Electronic devices: All cellphones are to be silenced or turned off and put away during class. Laptops are not permitted in class unless you require academic accommodation; if you do, see me at the beginning of the semester.

Extensions/late assignments: For the two exegetical essays, extensions will only be granted under extraordinary circumstances (e.g., documented illness or family emergency) and only if the extension is requested in writing and acknowledged by me before the assignment due date. Otherwise, for every day late, you will lose one third of a letter grade (A+ to A, A to A-, etc.) from your mark for that assignment. For the final paper and for weekly reflections, NO EXTENSIONS/LATE SUBMISSIONS ARE POSSIBLE. For all assignments, failure to submit an assignment will result in a grade of 0.

Missing assignments and corrupt files: Students are required to keep copies of their assignments. If an assignment is lost at any point or the file containing it is corrupted, you will be considered not to have submitted it if you cannot produce a copy immediately upon request.

7. Kant Reading Details
Let me again stress that these readings from Kant’s three Critiques are optional. My aim is to give you an adequate preparation for the post-Kantian philosophy with which the course begins in lecture. However, it is undeniable that Kant is a major touchstone for everyone we will be reading in this course. My recommendation is that especially those who have no contact at all with Kant’s philosophy take a look at these readings. Students with some background in Kant can read more selectively or treat them as a resource to consult at your discretion.

Because there is quite a lot, I have marked the readings that are absolutely the most important with a *

a. Readings from Kant’s Critique of Pure Reason (aka the ‘first Critique’)
For the readings from the Critique of Pure Reason (aka the ‘first Critique’), I had hoped to use a particular translation, but only some of those readings are available on Ares as of now. Hopefully they will all be up eventually, but until then, it is less complicated to guide you to another translation freely (and legally!) available online that is still very good. It is available here:
I have listed the readings by the standardized marginal numbers used across most English editions of the first Critique, A and B followed by several numerals (e.g., the section called the Transcendental Aesthetic begins at A19/B33, meaning page 19 in the first German edition and page 33 in the second).

B Preface (Bvii-xliv)
*Introduction (A1-16/B1-30)
*Transcendental Aesthetic, §1 (A19-22/B33-36)
*Transcendental Logic and Analytic, introductory materials (A50-65/B74-90)
*B Deduction, §§15-20 (B129-143)
B Deduction, §§26-27 (B159-169)
Refutation of Idealism (B274-279)
Transcendental Dialectic, introductory materials (A293-340/B349-398)
The Discipline of Pure Reason (A712-738/B740-766)

b. Readings from Kant’s Critique of Practical Reason (aka the ‘second Critique’)
These readings are available on Ares. They are listed by their title there and ID number:

*Critique of practical reason. Basic law of pure practical reason [excerpt]. (189881)
Critique of practical reason. On the deduction of the principles of pure practical reason [excerpt]. (189996)

c. Readings from Kant’s Critique of Judgment (aka the ‘third Critique’)
These readings are also available on Ares. They are listed by their title there and ID number:

Critique of judgment. On the peculiarity of the human understanding that makes the concept of a natural purpose possible for us. (189882)
Assignments:

Unless specifically told otherwise by their instructors, students:
- must not use a plastic or cardboard cover or paper clips
- must staple the paper (there is a stapler on the essay box)
- must include the following: student name, student number, course number and section, instructor’s name
- No assignments will be accepted after the last day for handing in term work – see dates in next column.
- Assignments handed in through the essay box (just inside the glass doors, Paterson Hall, Floor 3A) must be dropped into the box by 4:15 on a regular business day in order to be date-stamped with that day’s date. Assignments handed in after 4:15 or on a non-business day will be stamped as having been handed in on the next business day.
- Students are required to keep copies of their assignments. If your paper is lost at any point, you will be considered not to have submitted it if you cannot produce a copy immediately on request.

Deferrals for Final Exams:

If you miss a final examination (formally scheduled or take-home) because of circumstances beyond your control, you may apply for a deferral. You must apply within 3 working days after the scheduled date of your formally scheduled exam or within 3 working days after the due date of a take-home exam. Visit the Registrar’s Office for more information:

softtheuniversity/acadrepsum2/#2.5

Plagiarism:

It is the responsibility of each student to understand the meaning of ‘plagiarism’ as defined in the Undergraduate or Graduate Calendars, and to avoid both committing plagiarism and aiding or abetting plagiarism by other students. https://carleton.ca/registrar/academic-integrity/

Academic Accommodation:

You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request the processes are as follows:

Pregnancy obligation: write to your professor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website:
http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/

Religious obligation: write to your professor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website:
http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with your professor to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable) at http://www2.carleton.ca PMC/new-and-current-students/dates-and-deadlines/

You can visit the Equity Services website to view the policies and to obtain more detailed information on academic accommodation at http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/
