General Calendar Description

PHIL 3502 [0.5 credit]

Mind and Action

Philosophical thought concerning the relation between mentality and agency. Topics may include: the relation between belief, desire, and behaviour; rationality and normativity; representing and doing; subjectivity and intersubjectivity; physical and psychological laws; mental causation. Authors may include: Wittgenstein, Heidegger, Ryle, Sellars, Anscombe, Davidson, Taylor, McDowell.

Prerequisite(s): PHIL 2501 or PHIL 2502, or permission of the Department.

Specific Course Description

In this course, we will examine fundamental issues related to human action and the psychological mechanisms that give rise to it. We will start by looking at classic attempts to satisfy the need for a basic account of what it is that distinguishes things that merely happen to us from things that we do, that is, from expressions of our own agency. It will emerge that such attempts force us to confront a host of puzzling questions, among them the following: What psychological events, states, and processes are responsible for the initiation, guidance, and control of intentional action? What challenges arise in attempting to reconcile an understanding of agency and intentional action with a scientific understanding of the universe? What about an understanding of ourselves as free, morally responsible agents? How exactly do we come to know what we are doing, if it is not simply by observing our behaviour? What is the best way to understand the experience of acting and the role of consciousness in causing our behaviour, especially in light of recent empirical findings that seem to cast doubt on the existence of such a role? How do agents come to develop into highly skilled experts within certain action domains, and what is it that distinguishes skilled experts from novices? Through detailed engagement with key texts that have addressed these and other questions, this course aims to set a theoretical foundation for understanding human action and its fascinating complexity.

Course Objectives

Our aim in this course will be to support and develop the following:

- An understanding of key issues, questions, and debates in contemporary action theory.
- An ability to clearly and effectively articulate a critical viewpoint on issues within contemporary action theory.
- An understanding of how contemporary action theory relates to broader philosophical questions in philosophy of mind, philosophy of cognitive science, metaphysics, epistemology, and moral psychology.

Course Materials

- All required readings and additional resources will be made available on cuLearn.

Course Requirements

Course Component	Percentage of Final Grade
Participation	10%
Writing Assignments x 2 (worth 10%, and 15% respectively)	25%
Midterm Exam	25%
Term Paper (incl. Abstract)	40%

Readings

Readings will be assigned for every class session except the first one. All readings are required, except for those marked as 'optional' on cuLearn. While optional, you are strongly encouraged to do these readings, as they'll help to both fill in the background for and expand on some of the material we'll be covering in class. Please ensure you complete all required readings for a class session before that session. Come prepared to discuss them.

Writing Assignments

The main purpose of these writing assignments is to help you develop the skills necessary for writing your final term paper.

Writing Assignment #1 (10%): (Approx. 2-3 pages)

DUE: FRIDAY, OCT. 4 by 5pm

We will go over instructions and a grading rubric in class.

Writing Assignment #2 (15%) (Approx. 3-4 pages)

DUE: FRIDAY, NOV. 8 by 5pm

We will go over instructions and a grading rubric in class.

Writing assignments should be submitted via cuLearn by 5pm on the due date. Late assignments will not be accepted except under extenuating circumstances (e.g., family emergency, extreme illness) with appropriate documentation.

Midterm Exam

The midterm exam will be in the form of written answer questions. It will be held in class on October 29th and worth 25% of your final grade.

Term Paper

You will write one term paper (8-10 pages) due on Friday, December 6th and worth 40% of your final grade. It will be submitted via cuLearn.

You will submit (via cuLearn) a short (approx. 150 words) abstract of your paper (thesis statement plus a brief description of how you will go about arguing for it), worth 5% of your paper grade. You have until Tuesday, November 19 to submit your abstract. The purpose of this abstract is to articulate the basic outline of your paper, and receive some feedback prior to writing it. It will be graded for completion only (pass/fail).

We will discuss further instructions/guidelines for the final paper and abstract in class.

Participation

Active participation is a key component of this course and is worth 10% of your final grade. This means, among other things, attending each class on time having done the readings carefully, being prepared to discuss them, asking questions during class, responding to questions asked by myself or a classmate, engaging in class activities, posting questions, responses, or comments to our class discussion forum on cuLearn, and visiting office hours to discuss course material.

Electronic Devices in the Classroom

Please turn off (or silence) your cell phones and put them away before the start of class. The use of laptops for the sole purpose of note-taking is permitted.

Office Hours and Availability

My regular office hours are as stated up top. I'm happy to meet you at other days/times as well—just make arrangements with me over email or in person.

I will do my best to respond to your emails within 24 hours, but I may not always be able to do so. If you think your message will require a lengthy reply from me, please arrange to come and see me in person instead.

Assignments:

Unless specifically told otherwise by their instructors, students:

- Must not use a plastic or cardboard cover or paper clips.
- Must staple the paper (there is a stapler on the essay box).
- Must include the following on the first page: student name and number; course name and number; instructor's name.
- No assignments will be accepted after the last day for handing in term work – see dates below.
- Assignments handed in through the essay box (just inside the glass doors, Paterson Hall, Floor 3A) must be dropped into the box by 4:15 on a regular business day in order to be date-stamped with that day's date. Assignments handed in after 4:15 or on a non-business day will be stamped as having been handed in on the next business day.
- Students are required to keep copies of their assignments. If your paper is lost at any point, you will be considered not to have submitted it if you cannot produce a copy immediately on request.

Evaluation:

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by the instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

Deferrals for Final Exams:

If you miss a final examination (formally scheduled or take-home) because of circumstances beyond your control, you may apply for a deferral. You must apply within 3 working days after the scheduled date of your formally scheduled exam or within 3 working days after the due date of a take-home exam. Visit the Registrar's Office for more information:
