Exploitation and Commodification

Tuesdays 2:30-5:00

Course Description:

The concepts of exploitation and commodification are called upon frequently to explain the immorality of certain kinds of financial transactions in a market economy. But do they identify the same kinds of transactions as wrongful, and what reasons do they supply for a ban on these kinds of transactions? Commodification calls out wholesale practices in which a good's social meaning or inherent value is degraded by its assignment of a price tag. Exploitation calls out specific transactions in which a good or service is traded between parties asymmetric in their vulnerability to coercion and distributive injustice. In this course we will explore the arguments supplied by various contemporary moral and political philosophers as to why, and how, we should understand certain kinds of financial transactions as harmfully commodifying or harmfully exploitative, or both. We will concentrate on how these arguments apply to financial transactions involving the sale of bodily goods and services specifically. Examples we will focus on will include prostitution, surrogacy, gamete sales, and kidney sales.

Course Assignments:

- Reading responses: 4 x 10 = 40%. These should be 3-4 pages double-spaced. You must submit 4 of these throughout the term, in hard copy at the beginning of class. You may submit them on days of your choose but you must submit at least one per month. That is, at least one must be submitted in September, one in October, and one in November. You may focus on one claim or the general argument from one of the week's readings, or on themes that connect the week's readings. These responses must be both expository and evaluative in nature, and as they account for almost half your term mark must be taken seriously and will be marked accordingly
- Participation: 10%. Students are expected to come to class, and to come prepared to discuss the readings. This is a seminar, not a lecture course.
- Take Home Exam: 50%. This is effectively your term paper. A topic will be chosen by the student, and approved by the instructor. Individual meetings will be held with each student to discuss topics, additional research materials and a general outline for the paper. Length: 20 pages. Due on the last day of the December exam period.

Course Readings:

The readings are either online, available in the library's electronic journal database, or posted as PDFs on CuLearn (see  in the schedule below).

Department of Philosophy and Carleton University Policies (2015-16)

Assignments:

Unless specifically told otherwise by their instructors, students:

- must not use a plastic or cardboard cover or paper clips
- must staple the paper (there is a stapler on the essay box)
- must include the following:
 - student name
 - student number
 - course number and section
 - instructor's name
- No assignments will be accepted after the last day for handing in term work – see dates in next column.
- Assignments handed in through the essay box (just inside the glass doors, Paterson Hall, Floor 3A) must be dropped into the box by 4:15 on a regular business day in order to be date-stamped with that day's date. Assignments handed in after 4:15 or on a non-business day will be stamped as having been handed in on the next business day.
- Students are required to keep copies of their assignments. If your paper is lost at any point, you will be considered not to have submitted it if you cannot produce a copy immediately on request.

Deferrals for Term Work:

If you miss a final examination and/or fail to submit a final assignment by the due date because of circumstances beyond your control, you may apply for a deferral of examination/assignment. For deferred examinations, you must apply within 5 working days after the scheduled date of your exam. To apply for deferral of a final assignment, you must apply within 5 working days of the last scheduled day of classes. Visit the Registrar's Office for more information.

Plagiarism:

It is the responsibility of each student to understand the meaning of 'plagiarism' as defined in the Undergraduate or Graduate Calendars, and to avoid both committing plagiarism and aiding or abetting plagiarism by other students. (Undergraduate Calendar Academic Regulations, section 14.3, or <http://calendar.carleton.ca/undergrad/regulations/academicregulationsoftheuniversity/acadregsuniv14/>)

Academic Accommodation:

You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request the processes are as follows:

Pregnancy obligation: write to your professor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website: <http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/>

Religious obligation: write to your professor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website: <http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/>

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with your professor to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable) at <http://www2.carleton.ca/pmc/new-and-current-students/dates-and-deadlines/>

You can visit the Equity Services website to view the policies and to obtain more detailed information on academic accommodation at <http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/>
