Course Description

In this course, we will examine fundamental issues related to human action and the psychological mechanisms that give rise to it. We will start by looking at classic attempts to satisfy the need for a basic account of what it is that distinguishes things that merely happen to us from things that we do, that is, from expressions of our own agency. It will emerge that such attempts force us to confront a host of puzzling questions, among them the following: What psychological events, states, and processes are responsible for the initiation, guidance, and control of intentional action? What challenges arise in attempting to reconcile an understanding of agency and intentional action with a scientific understanding of the universe? What about an understanding of ourselves as free, morally responsible agents? How exactly do we come to know what we are doing, if it is not simply by observing our behaviour? What is the best way to understand the experience of acting and the role of consciousness in causing our behaviour, especially in light of recent empirical findings that seem to cast doubt on the existence of such a role? How do agents come to develop into highly skilled experts within certain action domains, and what is it that distinguishes skilled experts from novices? Through detailed engagement with key texts that have addressed these and other questions, this course aims to set a theoretical foundation for understanding human action and its fascinating complexity.

Course Objectives

Our aim in this course will be to support and develop the following:

- An understanding of key issues, questions, and debates in contemporary action theory.
- An ability to clearly and effectively articulate a critical viewpoint on issues within contemporary action theory.
- An understanding of how contemporary action theory relates to broader philosophical questions in philosophy of mind, philosophy of cognitive science, metaphysics, epistemology, and moral psychology.

Course Materials

- All required readings and additional resources will be made available on cuLearn.

Course Requirements

Course Component	Percentage of Final Grade
Participation	15%
Mini Writing Assignments x 3 (worth 5%, 10%, and 15% respectively)	30%
Midterm Exam	15%
Term Paper (35%) + Abstract (5%)	40%

Readings

Readings will be assigned for every class session except the first one. All readings are required, except for those marked as 'optional' on cuLearn. While optional, you are strongly encouraged to do these readings, as they'll help to both fill in the background for and expand on some of the material we'll be covering in class. Please ensure you complete all required readings for a class session before that session. Come prepared to discuss them.

Mini Writing Assignments

The purpose of the mini writing assignments is to help you exercise or acquire the skills necessary for writing your final term paper.

Mini Writing Assignment #1 (5%): Short exposition of a key argument (approx. 250 words)

DUE: FRIDAY, SEPT. 29 by 5pm

Pick one specific argument from the readings and explain the argument in a short paper.

Mini Writing Assignment #2 (10%): Short exposition of two related arguments (approx. 500 words)

DUE: FRIDAY, OCT. 20 by 5pm

Pick two specific arguments from the readings that are importantly related to one another (e.g., one of the arguments is a challenge to the other argument, or one of the arguments builds or expands on the other argument). In your paper: (i) explain each argument, and (ii) explain how they are related.

Mini Writing Assignment #3 (15%): Short critical response to two related arguments (approx. 750 words)

DUE: FRIDAY, NOV. 24 by 5pm

Pick two specific arguments from the readings that are related to one another. In your paper: (i) explain each argument, (ii) explain how they are related, and (iii) raise an objection to one of the arguments, showing that it is unsound (i.e., either one of the premises is false, or the conclusion does not follow from the premises).

Mini writing assignments should be submitted via cuLearn by 5pm on the relevant due date. Late assignments will not be accepted except under extenuating circumstances (e.g., family emergency, extreme illness).

We will go over the grading rubric for each of these writing assignments in class.

Midterm Exam

The midterm exam will be in the form of written answer questions. It will be held in class on November 2 and worth 15% of your final grade.

Term Paper

You will write one term paper (8-10 pages) due on Friday, December 8th and worth 35% of your final grade.

You will submit a short (approx. 150 words) abstract of your paper (thesis statement plus a brief description of how you will go about arguing for it), worth 5% of your paper grade. You have until November 23rd to submit your abstract. The purpose of this abstract is to articulate the basic outline of your paper, and receive some feedback prior to writing it. It will be graded for completion only (pass/fail).

We will discuss further instructions/guidelines for the final paper and abstract in class.

Class Attendance

Attendance is mandatory. You should arrive to each class on time and be present and engaged for the entire duration of the class. If you are excessively absent (more than twice) without a documented reason, your final grade will go down by one letter “step” (e.g., A- to B+). A sign-in sheet will be passed around at the beginning of each class, and again after the break.

If you miss class due to religious or medical reasons, you will not be penalized, but you must provide proper documentation.

For any class or part of class that you miss, for whatever reason, you are responsible for the readings and for catching up on the lecture material for that day.

Participation

Active participation is a key component of this course and is worth 15% of your final grade. This means, among other things, attending each class on time having done the readings carefully, being prepared to discuss them, asking questions during class, responding to questions asked by myself or a classmate, posting questions, responses, or comments to our class discussion forum on cuLearn, and visiting office hours to discuss course material.

Electronic Devices in the Classroom

Please turn off (or silence) your cell phones and put them away before the start of class. The use of laptops for the sole purpose of note-taking is permitted.

Office Hours and Availability

My regular office hours are as stated up top. I’m happy to meet you at other days/times as well—just make arrangements with me over email or in person.

I will do my best to respond to your emails within 24 hours, but I may not always be able to do so. If you think your message will require a lengthy reply from me, please arrange to come and see me in person instead.

Department of Philosophy and Carleton University Policies (Fall/Winter 2017-18)

Assignments:

Unless specifically told otherwise by their instructors, students:

- must not use a plastic or cardboard cover or paper clips
- must staple the paper (there is a stapler on the essay box)
- must include the following:
 - student name
 - student number
 - course number and section
 - instructor's name
- No assignments will be accepted after the last day for handing in term work – see dates in next column.
- Assignments handed in through the essay box (just inside the glass doors, Paterson Hall, Floor 3A) must be dropped into the box by 4:15 on a regular business day in order to be date-stamped with that day's date. Assignments handed in after 4:15 or on a non-business day will be stamped as having been handed in on the next business day.
- Students are required to keep copies of their assignments. If your paper is lost at any point, you will be considered not to have submitted it if you cannot produce a copy immediately on request.

Deferrals for Final Exams:

If you miss a final examination (formally scheduled or take-home) because of circumstances beyond your control, you may apply for a deferral. You must apply within 3 working days after the scheduled date of your formally scheduled exam or within 3 working days after the due date of a take-home exam. Visit the Registrar's Office for more information:

<http://calendar.carleton.ca/undergrad/regulations/academicregulationsoftheuniversity/acadregsuniv2/#2.5>

Plagiarism:

It is the responsibility of each student to understand the meaning of 'plagiarism' as defined in the Undergraduate or Graduate Calendars, and to avoid both committing plagiarism and aiding or abetting plagiarism by other students. <https://carleton.ca/registrar/academic-integrity/>

Academic Accommodation:

You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request the processes are as follows:

Pregnancy obligation: write to your professor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website: <http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/>

Religious obligation: write to your professor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website: <http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/>

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with your professor to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable) at <http://www2.carleton.ca/pmc/new-and-current-students/dates-and-deadlines/>

You can visit the Equity Services website to view the policies and to obtain more detailed information on academic accommodation at <http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/>
