Course description:
This course examines the international relations of the new states of the former Soviet Union. Over the course of the term we will explore the factors that shape the foreign policies of these states, the development of relations between them, and the changing role of post-Soviet space in the international system. While the Russian Federation dominates much of the course, as it does the region, attention will also be paid to important sub-regions, such as Central Asia and the Caucasus. We will also consider larger themes affecting all post-Soviet states, including factors encouraging and impeding regional integration, the relationship between national security and collective security, and the problem of regional stability.

Readings: The readings can be found on course’s WebCT site and on reserve in the McOdrum Library. All assigned readings are compulsory unless indicated as optional with an asterisk (*).

Course Requirements:
- Seminar Presentation: 30%
  Each student will give a 20-30 minute presentation on the readings for the week. Students should seek to do an exposition, and not a summary, of the readings (more clarification on this in class). In addition, each person should seek to focus their exposition around a central question that emerges out of the readings and discussion questions for the class.
- Final paper, 50%, due April 1, 2008.
  The final assignment is a written research paper, 15-20 typed, double-spaced pages in length, which must be submitted to the instructor in hard copy. Term papers cannot be done on the same topic as your seminar presentation. The instructor must approve all students’ paper topics in advance. See the course WebCT site for paper topics and suggested readings.
- General Participation: 20%
  General participation refers to the general quality of participation in discussions. Students should come prepared, having read the texts and thought about it, and be ready to offer their contribution to the class. Participation will be marked not on quantity but on thoughtfulness of contributions, willingness to share one’s own ideas, and attentiveness to others.

All course requirements must be completed to receive a passing grade. Written assignments must be handed in to the instructor personally. Marks will be deducted for lateness at a rate of 1% per day. Late penalties will be assessed on the basis of the date that the instructor receives the paper. Exceptions will be considered for medical reasons (with appropriate documentation) or a family emergency. University deadlines for handing in term assignments will apply. Once term assignments are graded, students may collect their completed papers during the instructor’s scheduled office hours, or by providing a stamped, self-addressed envelope in which the assignment may be returned by mail.

All electronic communication with the instructor is to be conducted through the course WebCT site.
All written assignments should answer a specific question and make a clear argument, providing facts and evidence to back up statements made. Papers should analyze, rather than describe, the issues and events discussed. All papers should conform to the style guide posted on the WebCT site for the use footnotes or endnotes to acknowledge sources consulted and bibliography. In particular, the final assignment is a research paper and should demonstrate that you have consulted a range of scholarly sources: a minimum of eight published books or articles. Footnotes should be complete and accurate, inserted into the text of your paper as appropriate whenever you have referred to someone else’s idea, argument, or research. Any time you quote directly from a source, the citation should be indicated in quotation marks and footnoted. Quotations from secondary sources are to be avoided, as are quotations of more than fifty words in length from any one source.  If you are unsure about how to use footnotes or endnotes, please see the instructor for advice. Students who do not write the final examination, but whose term work is otherwise complete and satisfactory, will receive a grade of ABS.

Academic Accommodations

For Students with Disabilities: Students with disabilities requiring academic accommodations in this course are encouraged to contact the Paul Menton Centre (PMC) for Students with Disabilities (500 University Centre) to complete the necessary forms. After registering with the PMC, make an appointment to meet with the instructor in order to discuss your needs at least two weeks before the first in-class test or CUTV midterm exam. This will allow for sufficient time to process your request. Please note the following deadline for submitting completed forms to the PMC for formally scheduled exam accommodations: March 14th, 2008 for April examinations.

For Religious Observance: Students requesting accommodation for religious observances should apply in writing to their instructor for alternate dates and/or means of satisfying academic requirements. Such requests should be made during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist, but no later than two weeks before the compulsory academic event. Accommodation is to be worked out directly and on an individual basis between the student and the instructor(s) involved. Instructors will make accommodations in a way that avoids academic disadvantage to the student. Instructors and students may contact an Equity Services Advisor for assistance (www.carleton.ca/equity).

For Pregnancy: Pregnant students requiring academic accommodations are encouraged to contact an Equity Advisor in Equity Services to complete a letter of accommodation. Then, make an appointment to discuss your needs with the instructor at least two weeks prior to the first academic event in which it is anticipated the accommodation will be required.

Plagiarism: The Undergraduate Calendar defines plagiarism as: "to use and pass off as one's own idea or product, work of another without expressly giving credit to another." The Graduate Calendar states that plagiarism has occurred when a student either: (a) directly copies another's work without acknowledgment; or (b) closely paraphrases the equivalent of a short paragraph or more without acknowledgment; or (c) borrows, without acknowledgment, any ideas in a clear and recognizable form in such a way as to present them as the student's own thought, where such ideas, if they were the student's own would contribute to the merit of his or her own work. Instructors who suspect plagiarism are required to submit the paper and supporting documentation to the Departmental Chair who will refer the case to the Dean. It is not permitted to hand in the same assignment to two or more courses. The Department's Style Guide is available at: http://www.carleton.ca/polisci/undergrad/Essay%20Style%20Guide.html

Oral Examination: At the discretion of the instructor, students may be required to pass a brief oral examination on research papers and essays.

Submission and Return of Term Work: Papers must be handed directly to the instructor and will not be date-stamped in the departmental office. Late assignments may be submitted to the drop box in the corridor outside B640 Loeb. Assignments will be retrieved every business day at 4 p.m., stamped with that day's date, and then distributed to the instructor. For essays not returned in class please attach a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you wish to have your assignment returned by mail. Please note that assignments sent via fax or email will not be accepted. Final exams are intended solely for the purpose of evaluation and will not be returned.
Approval of final grades: Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by an instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

Course Requirements: Students must fulfill all course requirements in order to achieve a passing grade. Failure to hand in any assignment will result in a grade of F. Failure to write the final exam will result in a grade of ABS. FND (Failure No Deferred) is assigned when a student's performance is so poor during the term that they cannot pass the course even with 100% on the final examination. In such cases, instructors may use this notation on the Final Grade Report to indicate that a student has already failed the course due to inadequate term work and should not be permitted access to a deferral of the examination. Deferred final exams are available ONLY if the student is in good standing in the course.

Connect Email Accounts: The Department of Political Science strongly encourages students to sign up for a campus email account. Important course and University information will be distributed via the Connect email system. See http://connect.carleton.ca for instructions on how to set up your account.
