Contract or Other Funded Research Projects

Project Director (2018 to 2026)

Civil society and the global refugee regime: Understanding and enhancing impact through the implementation of global refugee policy

SSHRC Partnership Grant: C$2.49 million over 7 years

Cash and in-kind contributions from partners: C$1.1 million over 7 years

- 38-partner global collaborative research project focused on understanding and enhancing the role of civil society in the functioning of the global refugee regime
- Co-creation of knowledge with partners in Jordan, Kenya, Lebanon and Tanzania
- Provide training and support to 120 emerging scholar and national civil society actors
- Knowledge mobilization program to include launch of McGill-Queen's University Press series on Refugee and Forced Migration Studies
- Delivered through LERRN: Local Engagement Refugee Research Network

Project Director (2022 to 2026)

IDRC Forced Displacement Research Chairs' Network: Strengthening Knowledge, Evidence Use and Leadership in the Global South on Forced Displacement

IDRC funded: C$904,800

60-month initiative to support the co-design and implementation of a network to support the individual and collective work of 12 IDRC-funded research chairs on forced migration in major displacement-hosting regions of the global South, including Latin America, East Africa, the Middle East and South Asia. Core objectives of the initiative include:

- Supporting peer-to-peer and collaborative learning, cross-regional exchange, and collaborative research and analysis;
- Supporting joint knowledge mobilization activities in the form of webinars, publications, newsletters and social media and online presence;
- Supporting sustainability, training, and capacity-building activities;
- Supporting access to global for a to disseminate the work of the Research Chairs to better impact global policies on forced displacement, particularly UN and government policies, as a supplement to the work of individual research chairs in national and regional contexts;
- Developing and documenting best practices to support South-South academic networking.

Research Director (2021 to present)

R-SEAT: Refugees Seeking Equality at the Table

Open Society Foundation: C$400,000

Bosch Foundation: C$158,000

Porticus: C$280,000

Hilton Foundation: C$260,000

Initiative to support the inclusion of refugee leadership ecosystems in national government decision-making and the participation of states in the global refugee regime.

Research Director will:

- Provide overall and country-specific strategic advice to the Co-Managing Directors
- Commission and supervise research to support the strategic decision-making and implementation process
- Document the work and impact of the initiative to contribute to future scholarly publications

Principal Investigator

(2023 to 2025)

The politics and process of refugee leadership: A comparative analysis of factors conditioning refugee leadership in the global South

Gerda Henkel Foundation: $211,000

Research examines the conditions that enable or constrain refugees from demonstrating leadership in navigating local, national and regional power structures to influence the development and implementation of policy and programs intended to affect the daily lives of refugees. Funding to support:

- Recruiting two postdoctoral research fellows, one in Latin America and one in East Africa
- Co-designing methodology with refugee communities to undertake comparative case study analysis between national contexts in the two regions
- Recruiting and training research assistants from within refugee communities
- Co-producing knowledge on opportunity structures conducive to refugee leadership

Principal Investigator

(2021 to 2023)

Evaluation of Refugee-Led Organizations in East Africa and the Middle East

Open Society Foundations: C$176,000

Bosch Foundation: C$202,000

International Development Research Centre (IDRC): C$100,000

Rockefeller Brothers Foundation: C$66,500

Global Whole Being Fund: C$33,500

24-month initiative to support refugee-led research on refugee-led responses in four countries in East Africa and three in the Middle East, in collaboration with partner organizations in the regions and in collaboration with the Refugee Studies Centre, University of Oxford.

The goals of the project are to:

- Document the nature and scope of refugee-led responses to refugee needs across contexts in two regions, including the perceived impact of these responses
- Explain variation in the impact of refugee-led responses across contexts
- Understand the factors that condition the configuration of refugee-led responses

Principal Investigator

(2019 to 2022)

Localization of Knowledge on Refugee and Forced Migration in the Global South

IDRC Research Support Project: C$400,000

36-month initiative to map research capacity on refugee and forced migration issues in the global South and to propose models to ensure more sustainable research ecosystems in major refugee-hosting states. Initiative includes:

- Phase 1 (September 2019 to January 2020): Mapping of capacities and key informant interviews with current research centres across the global South
- Phase 2 (September 2020 to March 2022): Collaborate with partners in East Africa and the Middle East to:
  - Map existing research networks on forced displacement in the two regions
  - Develop a typology of localized research ecosystems
  - Prepare synthesis reports on research ecosystems in each region

- Research and prepare case studies of examples of localized research ecosystems contributing to changes in policy and practice
- Develop and draft regional reports and a synthesis report on mechanisms for ensuring sustainable support for localized research ecosystems in major refugee-hosting regions in the global South
- Manage the implementation of a partner engagement strategy to build support for the initiative with key donors and research councils
- Mobilize results through key stakeholder events, publications and academic outputs
- Phase 3 (August 2021 to July 2022): Support development and launch of IDRC Research Chairs in four regions across the global South

Principal Investigator

(2021)

Support for Meaningful Refugee Participation in the Development of New or Existing Solutions among UNHCR Executive Committee Member States

Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada (IRCC): C$28,170

Innovation in teaching methods

Collaborated with Akaysha Humniski to develop an initiative to enhance experiential learning in Political Science courses, including the development and delivery of experiential learning modules for three undergraduate courses, a survey for current students and alumnus, and the presentation of results to the Department with recommendations for future engagement (2019-20).

Developed and implemented agreement between Carleton University and the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) in Canada to host three Carleton graduate student interns per year, and for interns to receive modest remuneration and 0.5 credits through a directed reading course, supervised by Milner (2018-19).

Facilitated the transition of Global Politics internship option (GPOL3100) from the BA to BGINs degree streams (2017-18).

Successfully negotiated a Memorandum of Understanding with CARE Canada and the Centre for Refugee Studies, York University, to enable graduate students to undertake fieldwork in CARE's field operations for refugees and IDPs (2014).

Facilitated the transition of the Global Politics program from the BA stream to become a specialization in the new Bachelors in Global and International Studies (2013-14).

Developed the specialization in Migration and Diaspora Studies for the Bachelors in Global and International Studies (2013-14).

Developed PSCI5209, Migration and Global Politics, a graduate-level course considering the relationship between the phenomenon of human migration and debates in global politics. Course will be taught for the first time by Milner in Winter 2014, and will eventually contribute to a proposed collaborative MA in Migration and Diaspora Studies.

Developed and coordinated the internship component for the BA in Global Politics (GPOL3100) through contact with 120 potential host organizations on four continents, developing course requirements and communicating with students on program development and the application process, resulting in 14 internship placements in Winter 2011.

Developed an internship option for Political Science students through PSCI3906 (1.0 credits) and PSCI3907 (0.5 credit).

Developed a new fourth-year undergraduate seminar in Political Science: PSCI4817: The International Politics of Forced Migration (2009)

Developed a new third-year undergraduate course in African Studies: AFRI3100: Summer Seminar in African Studies: Selected topics in African Studies (2009-10)

Organized and presented an International Careers Workshop for undergraduate students to discuss the nature of careers with international organizations and job search techniques to help begin a career (Winter 2009; Fall 2009; Winter 2010; Winter 2011), as profiled in Success Bytes, #2, Faculty of Public Affairs, 27 January 2011.

Coordinated the Undergraduate Research Symposium in the Department of Political Science for students writing Undergraduate Honours Research Essays to present their work and receive feedback from graduate students (2009)

Working with Vladimir Aleman Delfs (Political Science Teaching Assistant), designed and implemented a three-class simulation of the United Nations Security Council for use in PSCI3600: International Institutions (2009)
