Office: 5117 Richcraft Hall
Office Hours: Monday and Wednesday, 16:30 – 17:30

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course will focus on the contemporary issues in Turkish foreign and security policy. It will provide a historical overview of Turkish foreign and security policies since the establishment of the Republic in 1923 and discuss key foreign policy and security challenges and issues today. The course will pay particular attention to Turkey’s relations with the West, NATO, Russia, and the Middle Eastern countries.

Organization of the Course: Week 1 to Week 4 will explore the key contemporary issues in Turkish foreign policy after providing a brief background on the history of Turkish foreign policy since 1923. After the take home mid-term examination in Week 4, weeks 5 and 6 will focus on the policy briefs presented by the students and discussions of the issues identified therein.

Learning Outcomes:
By the end of the course, students will be able to:
• Situate Turkey in the regional and global context
• Develop skills to critically analyze Turkey’s relations with various regional and global actors
• Compare and contrast key concepts that relate to Turkish foreign and security policy
• Improve their ability to engage in well informed discussions about Turkey
EVALUATION

Mid-term Examination (40%): There will be a take home mid-term examination on July 29. The exam questions will cover the course material up to the date of the exam.

If a student misses an exam, a makeup exam will be scheduled only in cases of documented medical or family emergencies.

Policy Brief and presentation (60%): Policy brief (40%) and its presentation (20%) together constitute 60% of students’ overall grade. The policy briefs will be around 3000 words and have to address a current challenge/issue for Turkish foreign policy. Students will have to present a draft of their brief in class. Final briefs will be due the last day of classes. There will be a workshop/feedback session in July 24. Further guidance and instructions will be provided in due course.

COPYRIGHTS

Carleton University is committed to compliance in all copyright matters. Noncompliance is a violation of the Canadian Copyright Act. In addition to any actions that might be taken by any copyright owner or its licensing agent, the University will take steps against any breach of this policy.

In Canada, copyright for a work is given automatically to the creator of the work. The work does not need to be marked or declared as copyrighted in order to be copyrighted. The majority of works in Canada are copyrighted.

It is important for students to understand and respect copyright. Copyright determines your usage rights for a particular work, which includes textbooks, web pages, videos and images, both electronic and hard copy.

Students may not photocopy entire or major portions of books or other works, even if it is only for their personal use. Fair dealing makes some allowances for copying small portions of works. See Carleton’s Fair Dealing Policy for more information. If journal articles or portions of works are available through the library, either as hard copies or electronically, students may make a single copy for their personal use. Students may not distribute copies of works that are under copyright.

Classroom teaching and learning activities, including lectures, discussions, Presentations, etc., by both instructors and students, are copy protected and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s). All course materials, including the course outline, PowerPoint presentations, lecture notes, and other materials, are also protected by copyright and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s).

Students registered in the course may take notes and make copies of course materials for their own educational use only. Students are not permitted to reproduce or distribute lecture notes and course materials publicly for commercial or non-commercial purposes without express written consent from the copyright holder(s).

For more information, please see the Carleton’s Fair Dealing Policy and the library’s copyright website: www.library.carleton.ca/copyright.

PLAGIARISM AND COMPLEMENTARITY

The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another’s data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs.

Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course’s instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They include a mark of zero for the plagiarized work or a final grade of “F” for the course. The Academic integrity policy can be Complementarity: Students are encouraged to build up expertise in areas that may cross multiple courses. It is acceptable to write assignments on related topics. However you may not simply cut and paste your work from one assignment to another, or essentially submit the same work for two or more assignments in the same or different courses. If you plan on writing on related topics in different courses, you must inform the instructors and discuss what will be acceptable in terms of overlap, and what is not. Failure to notify the faculty members will be viewed unfavorably should there be a suspicion of misconduct.
You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request, the processes are as follows:

Pregnancy obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website: http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/

Religious obligation: write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details visit the Equity Services website: http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send me your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with me to ensure accommodation arrangements are made.

You can visit the Equity Services website to view the policies and to obtain more detailed information on academic accommodation at http://www2.carleton.ca/equity/
