Course Description:

Canada is one of the more stable and longstanding federations in the world yet curiously, it has failed to entrench a constitutional framework that has garnered the unanimous support of its constituent units. For long stretches of the country’s political development, defining what the country stands for and which sociopolitical collective agents it recognizes as constitutional actors became entangled with day to day politics, culminating in a constitutional compromise that to many observers remains incomplete. This course examines the political context of the many constitutional issues in Canada since 1867. In the pre-1960 period, these issues primarily involved the evolution of Canadian federalism, the search for a constitutional amending formula, and a concern with rights and freedoms. The Quiet Revolution in Quebec, and later the mobilization of Indigenous Peoples, broadened the constitutional agenda and led to various attempts at mega-constitutional change, which preoccupied the country for about 30 years. The introduction of the Charter of Rights and Freedoms and a homegrown amending formula broadened the field of salient constitutive actors yet did little to quell fundamental concerns around competing visions of the purposes of the constitution, on both procedural and substantive grounds.

Class Format:

The class will proceed as a traditional lecture, yet the instructor strongly encourages interaction and discussion throughout the class. Students are expected to actively participate in these discussions and questions are encouraged.

Please ensure that you have the proper edition of the book. The book is available at the Carleton University Bookstore. Reserve copies will also be made available at the library.

Evaluation:

15% - Attendance and participation
15% - Short assignment (Due on Week 4, October 1, 2019)
5% - Research paper proposal (Due on Week 7, October 29, 2019)
30% - Research paper (Due on Week 12, December 3, 2019)
35% - Final Take-Home Exam (To be posted on CuLearn on Week 12, December 3, 2019; Due on the last day of the formal examination period, December 21, 2019).

- Attendance: Students are expected to attend class having read the required materials for that week and be prepared to participate in class discussions. Attendance will be taken in class each week.

- Short assignment: On Week 2 (September 17), the instructor will post a list of 4-5 articles on CuLearn. Students are expected to write a short review essay (700-1000 words) that provides a critical assessment of the author’s contributions to the study of the constitution in Canada. It is not necessary to do any additional research for this assignment, and the aim is simply to allow students to engage more profoundly with particular theoretical, conceptual or methodological issues in the body of literature on constitutional politics in Canada. The short assignment is due on Week 4 (October 1), at the beginning of class. As per early feedback guidelines, the short assignment will be returned on Week 5 (October 8).

- Research paper proposal: All students are required to submit a research paper proposal. These proposals are due on Week 7 (October 29), at the beginning of class. The proposal is intended to allow students to develop and frame their research topic through some preliminary work, and to receive feedback. The instructor will not provide a list of research topics, but students are encouraged to discuss their intentions with the instructor prior to submitting their proposals. The proposals should be no longer than 500 words in length, should clearly state a research question, and should provide some preliminary sources. The proposal is worth only 5% of your final grade, so it does not have to be exhaustive.

- Research paper: The research paper must be between 14 and 17 typed pages – double-spaced, using 12 point font. The paper must follow proper essay style and structure, and must use a recognized referencing style (which must be consistent throughout). Students are expected to undertake research using sources beyond those listed in the course outline. The papers are due at the beginning of the class on Week 12 (December 3). If you do not bring your essay on time to the beginning of class, you must deposit it in the Political Science drop box. These essays will be counted as ‘late’ (see late policy below). Secondary research is all that is required to write the paper, yet students may draw upon primary sources if they wish. The goal is to allow students to grasp the body of literature on a particular topic by providing a cogent and coherent synthesis, and to be able to articulate and defend a particular position based on the assessment of the literature. Please avoid overly drawn-out summaries in exposing what has been written on a topic – the exercise is meant to allow students to critically assess the state of research in their chosen topics.

- Final Take-Home Exam: On Week 12 (December 3), the instructor will post the final take-home exam on CuLearn, which is due on December 21, 2019. Students can submit the exam to the instructor or in the Department of Political Science Drop Box at any time throughout this period, and I will be in my office all day (9am-4:30am) on the due date. The exam will consist of three sections, each containing three essay questions. Students will select one question from each section. Each answer should be about 800-1200 words. Moreover, students are expected to draw from class lectures and reading assignments in writing the essays, and students are not expected to include any research outside of class materials.

Other Information:

Submitting assignments and late policy: Extensions beyond the original due date will only be granted in the case of exceptional circumstances. If you are ill (with a doctor’s note) or have another legitimate reason for lateness, please see the instructor as soon as possible (preferably before the due date). All assignments must be handed in as hardcopies directly to the instructor, at the beginning of class, or in the case of the final take-home, during the instructor’s office hours or all day on the last day of the formal examination period. For late assignments, the Department of Political Science’s drop-off box may be used (located outside B640 Loeb Building, the box is emptied every weekday at 4 p.m. and papers are date-stamped with that day’s date). Please recall that if an assignment is submitted via the drop-box on the day it is due, it will be considered one day late. Assignments sent by email will not be accepted. Assignments will be returned in class or during the instructor’s office hours. If handed in with a self-addressed stamped envelope, they will be returned by mail. Late assignments will be penalized by five percentage points (5%) per day (including weekends); assignments submitted more than ten days late will receive a mark of 0%.

Grading: Assignments and exams will be graded with a percentage grade. To convert this to a letter grade or to the university 12-point system, please refer to the following table.

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Percentage</th>

Office Hours and E-mail: My office hours are posted on this outline, and I strongly encourage students to use them for any reason related to the course material. If students cannot make it during the posted times, we can arrange individual appointments. If I have to cancel my office hours for any reason, I will make every effort to inform the class regarding make-up office hours. Please do not e-mail me with questions regarding the course material. Plagiarism
The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another’s data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs.

Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course’s instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They may include a mark of zero for the plagiarized work or a final grade of "F" for the course.

Student or professor materials created for this course (including presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the author(s). They are intended for personal use and may not be reproduced or redistributed without prior written consent of the author(s).

For essays not returned in class please attach a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you wish to have your assignment returned by mail. Final exams are intended solely for the purpose of evaluation and will not be returned.
