Course Description

Over the course of the eighteenth century, something extraordinary happened in Scotland. This small and poor country produced a startling array of philosophers, historians, scientists, and other authors whom we recognize today as pioneers in fields as diverse as philosophy, geology, history, engineering, mathematics, medicine, economics, political theory, chemistry, and sociology. Many of these individuals knew each other well. Some were close friends. Today, we commonly term the intellectual developments in eighteenth-century Scotland the Scottish Enlightenment.

In this course, we will combine historical and philosophical perspectives with an aim to developing greater appreciation and critical understanding of the Scottish Enlightenment. To this end, we will read works by David Hume, Adam Ferguson, and Adam Smith, three authors who are particularly notable for how they thought and wrote about politics in an increasingly commercial world, a new context that raised questions about the continued relevance and adequacy of prevailing conceptions of political community, commerce, governance, despotism, and other central elements of social and political life. In studying these three authors, students will gain insights into some distinctive elements of Scottish Enlightenment political thought while also gaining familiarity with some of the important debates that marked the period.

The course will be delivered in person. Meetings of the class will include a lecture and less formal discussions, based in part on questions that students in the class will submit in advance (see below under “Participation”)

The principal learning objectives for the course are:

- 1) For students to develop knowledge and understanding of some principal texts and contexts of the Scottish Enlightenment.
- 2) For students to critically examine the texts under study.
- 3) For students to identify and critically examine key concepts and key debates in Scottish Enlightenment political thought.
- 4) For students to distinguish elements of Scottish Enlightenment political thought from other theories of politics with which they are already familiar.
- 5) For students to develop their critical and analytical skills through written assignments and in-class discussions.

Evaluation at a Glance

- Question Assessment	10%	(Due October 15)
- Essay (max. 3000 words)	35%	(Due November 27)
- Final Exam	35%	(During December Exam Period)
- Participation	20%

Evaluation in Detail

Question Assessment: 10%

Students will submit a brief assessment of the discussion question that they submitted in week 3, 4, or 5 (see below under “Participation” for an explanation of the discussion questions). The assignment will be due in Brightspace by 11:59pm on October 15.

Students will choose which of their three discussions questions to assess. In roughly one page, they will describe the value of their question (e.g. What is at stake in this question? Why is it an important or significant question? What does it help us to make sense of or to understand? Why is it important to make sense of or understand whatever that is? Etc.) The assignment will be discussed in greater detail in class.

Essay: 35%

Each student will write one essay (maximum 3000 words in length). The essays will be due in Brightspace by 11:59pm on November 27. This assignment will call for research beyond the assigned course readings. This assignment will be distributed through Brightspace and will be discussed in greater detail in class.

Final Exam: 35%

Each student will write one Final Exam during the University's formally scheduled December exam period (Dec. 8-20). The University will release the exam schedule on October 10. Students are advised to refrain from making holiday travel plans until after that date.

The Final Exam will be cumulative and comprised of essay questions. The content and form of the exam will be discussed in greater detail during the term.

Participation: 20%

Attendance will be taken in every class except for Weeks 1 and 14. Students will receive one mark for every class they attend.

In advance of the class in every week except for 1, 2, 6, 7, and 14, each student will have the opportunity to submit one discussion question through Brightspace. The questions must be based on the readings for that week. They will structure part of the discussion in class.

Students will receive one mark for every discussion question that they submit, conditional upon them attending the corresponding class (maximum one question per week).

Participation grades in the course will be calculated out of 20 marks (9 discussion questions and attendance in 11 classes). Participation grades will be discussed in detail in class on Sept. 8.

Summary

Students are required to:

- 1) Complete assigned readings prior to each class
- 2) Attend weekly meetings of the class and submit one discussion question in advance of assigned weeks (20%)
- 3) Submit one written question assessment (10%)
- 4) Submit one essay (35%)
- 5) Write one final exam (35%)

Copyright: Lectures and course materials (including any PowerPoint presentations, videos, or similar materials) are protected by copyright. You may take notes and make copies of course materials for your own educational use. You may not allow others to reproduce, distribute, or make available lecture notes and/or course materials, whether publicly or for commercial purposes, without the professor's express written consent.

Citations and Bibliography

All written assignments must include a full list of sources used. In addition, students must indicate all references to the texts in footnotes or in-text citations. You are free to use either MLA or Chicago style references, so long as you employ your chosen style consistently and correctly throughout your assignment. For more details on how to provide proper citations, please consult the MacOdrum Library website:

<https://library.carleton.ca/help/citing-your-sources>

As a university student, you are a member of a community of scholars in this class, at Carleton University and, more generally, with others around the world. A core ethical principle that undergirds all of these scholarly communities is the responsibility of every scholar to give credit to others for the work that they have produced and to refrain from taking credit for work that is not their own. This ethical principle is very democratic. It applies equally to the internationally renowned scholar whose list of published works runs for many pages and to the first-year university student, fresh out of high school, who has yet to publish their first piece of writing.

If you have any questions at all about your obligations as a member of these scholarly communities, please consult your professor. Every student should familiarize themselves with Carleton University's Academic Integrity Policy (<https://carleton.ca/secretariat/wp-content/uploads/Academic-Integrity-Policy-2021.pdf>). For examples of what constitutes plagiarism and for details of possible consequences for students found to have violated the Academic Integrity Policy, please see below (p.11) and consult the University's page on academic integrity: <https://carleton.ca/registrar/academic-integrity/>

Oral Examinations of Written Assignments

The professor reserves the right to examine any student in-person on the content of written work they have submitted in the class.

Late Penalties & Extensions

Written assignments (essays and term papers) submitted after the due date will be subject to a penalty of 4% per day (including Saturdays and Sundays). The professor will accept late submissions up to seven days past the deadline. Assignments that are more than seven days late will not be accepted except in cases where the student has received an extension from the professor.

Extensions will be granted at the discretion of the professor and only for serious medical reasons or for other emergency personal circumstances. Please note that having assignments and/or exams due in other courses will not be considered sufficient grounds to justify an extension in this course. Requests for extensions submitted after the due date will usually not be considered.

If you are ill or have any other legitimate reason for requesting an extension, it is your responsibility to contact the professor as early as possible. Do not assume that you will receive an extension until one has been granted by the professor. Students should be prepared to provide proper documentation to support their request for an extension.

At any point, if you are experiencing mental health-related challenges, please consider availing yourself of the resources that Carleton University offers:
<https://carleton.ca/wellness/>

Grade Appeals

If you feel that an assigned grade does not fairly reflect the quality of your work, the professor will be happy to discuss your assignment and the grade with you. If you would like to have your grade reviewed, you must submit a one-page justification for your position that responds directly to the comments and grade that you received. You must also indicate the grade that you believe your assignment deserved. Submit your one-page justification to the professor no later than one week after receiving your grade. A request for review can result in the professor raising or lowering your original grade.

Academic consideration for medical or other extenuating circumstances: Students must contact the instructor(s) of their absence or inability to complete the academic deliverable within the predetermined timeframe due to medical or other extenuating circumstances. For a range of medical or other extenuating circumstances, students may use the online self-declaration form and where appropriate, the use of medical documentation. This policy regards the accommodation of extenuating circumstances for both short-term and long-term periods and extends to all students enrolled at Carleton University.

Students should also consult the Course Outline Information on Academic Accommodations for more information. Detailed information about the procedure for requesting academic consideration can be found here.

Pregnancy: Contact your Instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For accommodation regarding a formally-scheduled final exam, please contact Equity and Inclusive Communities (EIC) at equity@carleton.ca or by calling (613) 520-5622 to speak to an Equity Advisor.

Religious obligation: Contact your Instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details click here.

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, please request your accommodations for this course through the Ventus Student Portal at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). Requests made within two weeks will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis. For final exams, the deadlines to request accommodations are published in the University Academic Calendars. After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with me to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally scheduled exam (if applicable).

Survivors of Sexual Violence: As a community, Carleton University is committed to maintaining a positive learning, working, and living environment where sexual violence will not be tolerated, and its survivors are supported through academic accommodations as per Carleton's Sexual Violence Policy. For more information about the services available at the university and to obtain information about sexual violence and/or support, visit: <https://carleton.ca/equity/sexual-assault-support-services>.

Accommodation for Student Activities: Carleton University recognizes the substantial benefits, both to the individual student and for the university, that result from a student participating in activities beyond the classroom experience. Reasonable accommodation will be provided to students who compete or perform at the national or international level. Write to me with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist.

PETITIONS TO DEFER

Students unable to write a final examination because of illness or other circumstances beyond their control may apply within three working days to the Registrar's Office for permission to write a deferred examination. The request must be fully supported by the appropriate documentation. Only deferral petitions submitted to the Registrar's Office will be considered. See Undergraduate Calendar, Article 4.3

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Student or professor materials created for this course (including presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the author(s). They are intended for personal use and may not be reproduced or redistributed without prior written consent of the author(s). Permissibility of submitting substantially the same piece of work more than once for academic credit. If group or collaborative work is expected or allowed, provide a clear and specific description of how and to what extent you consider collaboration to be acceptable or appropriate, especially in the completion of written assignments.

WITHDRAWAL WITHOUT ACADEMIC PENALTY

Please reference the Academic Calendar for each term's official withdrawal dates

OFFICIAL FINAL EXAMINATION PERIOD

Please reference the Academic Calendar for each term's Official Exam Period (may include evenings & Saturdays or Sundays)

For more information on the important dates and deadlines of the academic year, consult the Carleton Calendar.

GRADING SYSTEM

The grading system is described in the Undergraduate Calendar section 5.4.

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by the instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Academic integrity is an essential element of a productive and successful career as a student. Students are required to familiarize themselves with the university's Academic Integrity Policy.

PLAGIARISM

The University Senate defines plagiarism as "presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one's own." This can include:

- any submission prepared in whole or in part, by someone else, including the unauthorized use of generative AI tools (e.g., ChatGPT);
- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else's published or unpublished material, and presenting these as one's own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;

- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another's data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another's works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs."

Plagiarism is a serious offence that cannot be resolved directly by the course's instructor. The Associate Dean of the Faculty conducts a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They can include a final grade of "F" for the course.
