EVALUATIONS

1. Positionality Statement

Indigenous pedagogies and knowledges are rooted in understanding the background and stories we bring to the teaching environment. In this short assignment, students will discuss where they come from, what degree they are pursuing, and what knowledge and experiences they have about Indigenous peoples and politics.

This assignment must use the academic voice, but does not require sources. The assignment should be between 400-500 words.

Due January 14th, 2025

2. Proposal

This is the basis for the Environmental Scan, Briefing Note, and 5-minute Presentation. You will be expected to discuss the subject and scope of your assignment, along with a brief discussion of how this assignment relates to the themes and ideas of the course. This portion should be no longer than 200-250 words.

Due February 11th, 2025

3. Environmental Scan

The environmental scan is an analysis of both academic and grey literature that is related to your proposal. You will provide a detailed summary of key themes and ideas that are a part of your subject's topic area. An environmental scan is not argument-based, you are strictly identifying arguments and themes, and synthesizing sources. This assignment must cover a minimum of 10 sources, of which six should be academic peer-reviewed sources. The environmental scan should be 2000 words.

Due March 4th, 2025

4. Briefing Note

A briefing note is a synthesized summary and argument document. It is crafted by policy analysts and researchers for senior policy analysts, managers, assistant deputy ministers, ministers and chief executive officers. A briefing note follows a typical in-house format, and uses academic or professional language. It provides a summary of a situation, the context around it, and a condensed argument or series of recommendations. A critical piece of a briefing note is that it is brief. For this assignment, the briefing note cannot be more than 750-850 words long, including citations.

Due March 25th, 2025

5. 5-Minute Presentation

This is a presentation of your briefing note. You will need to synthesize the briefing note into speaking notes for a speaker appearing in front of a Parliamentary subcommittee. The professor will be delivering the given speaking notes to the class, after which students will be able to ask questions. It is a strict time limit, with a leeway of 10 seconds over or under.

Due the day before class, March 31st, 2025.

6. Learning Reflection

This is a brief assignment that gives a summary of what you have learned throughout the term. What are ideas, concepts and topics that stood out. As learning is a transformative experience, you answer the question, "Now that I know all of this, what I am going to do with it?"

PLAGIARISM

The University Senate defines plagiarism as "presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one's own." This can include:

- any submission prepared in whole or in part, by someone else, including the unauthorized use of generative AI tools (e.g., ChatGPT);
- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else's published or unpublished material, and presenting these as one's own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another's data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another's works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs."

Plagiarism is a serious offence that cannot be resolved directly by the course's instructor. The Associate Dean of the Faculty conducts a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They can include a final grade of "F" for the course.
