Course Description and Learning Objectives
This course is intended as an in-depth and holistic sharing/learning opportunity for students and participating community members. Its focus will be on an international approach to Indigenous Studies inside/outside the Settler States of North America. Grounded in Indigenous approaches to knowing/being/learning it will be collaborative in nature and innovative in methodology. An emphasis on historical and comparative studies will locate indigenous themes and issues in Indigenous/Settler relations from colonial to contemporary times. As a social science course, with a focus on politics, political theory and praxis, it will critically examine the inter-sections between politics, economics, culture and gender from historical, theoretical and practical public policy perspectives. Students will be encouraged to follow their own interests and develop their own voice through an emphasis on independent study, class participation and emphasis on establishing the scope and content of their own research programs within the context of the course outline.

Course Texts: There are no required texts for this class. Selected Chapters and Journal Articles available through ARES or through the MacOdrum Library Reserve Readings System
Course Requirements and Evaluation:

Component #1: 30% Group Presentation

A 4th year/grad seminar class is not a small lecture. The class is designed as a student lead seminar with each presentation team, in collaboration with the professor, taking leadership responsibility for the class and co-creating content and materials to be shared with the rest of the class. Central to the ethics and praxis of the class will be the building of solidarity and community through shared activities and leaning styles. Group Presentations are very important and will require conflict resolution and co-operation skills as the grade will be a group (not an individual mark) and students are expected to divide up the work agreeably and equitably among themselves. A self-assessment will also be part of the total grade and all team members must contribute to and sign off on this important component of the presentation exercise. Failure to resolve conflicts resulting in the mediation and/or intervention of the Professor will affect the overall assessment and participation grades of the presenters, both individually and collectively.

- The Group Presentation itself will consist of four parts:

  - Part 1: (10%) a critical analysis of the assigned reading material; each team will be required to write a brief (1 – 2) page Presentation Summary composed from each of the required reading for the relevant class. Hard copies of the reading analysis will be distributed in class to fellow students on the day of the presentation. The team is responsible for composing two (2) discussion questions and leading a Q & A session with the class.

  - Part 2: (10%) Independent Class Contribution will comprise at least five (5) additional sources on the class topic. Team members are expected to conduct independent research and select book chapters, journal articles, web-sites, traditional and social media sources, images, video and audio-visual samples, pod-casts, You-tube selections and any other materials of relevance to share with the class. Power Point and/or Presi style presentation are recommended. The team will provide the class with a presentation bibliography consisting of a brief statement out-lining each source referenced and a brief explanation of why it was chosen for the class.

  - Part 3: Experiential Exercise (5%) will comprise a class participation activity designed to involve students in a hands-on learning experiences appropriate to the class topic. The idea is to add a component to the class that is innovative and creative that engages fellow students in a non-text based learning experience. Examples could include, debates, visual and/or multi-media arts and analysis, story-telling exercises, poetry, slam poetry, songs and musical presentations, theatre and dramatic arts, role-playing games etc. The experiential exercise will take place in the second half of the 3hr class and is designed to help students learn and understand class topics in a holistic, reflective and integrative way. Presenters will be responsible for time-management and ensuring that the experiential exercise concludes in time for a round of peer-reviewed reflection/assessment of how well the experiential exercise was executed as well as useful/beneficial in overall understanding of the presentation material.

- Part 4: Self-Assessment Exercise (5%) For this assignment the team will be required to submit a separate sheet with the following components (i) the grade you believe you deserve for the totality of the presentation out of (100%) (ii) 2 – 3 paragraphs explaining why the team deserves this grade including a) amount of work/prep time of both group and individual efforts,
b) a description of co-operation and conflict/conflict resolution between team members and how effectively the team worked together c) what the team learned from the collaborative/co-creative process with team-mates and Prof and d) a reflection on how well the presentation was received by the class; levels of student engagement, critical discussion and depth of learning, etc., and e) overall impression and recommendations for improvements.

Component #2: 20% (5% Each) Seminar Reflection Papers

Students will be expected to use critical and analytical skills to engage with the main theme and topic of each of the required readings for a class topic and form a reflective response to the subject. These are not simple summaries of the material, but demonstrate a clear understanding of the issues under discussion and the respective positions/perspectives taken by the different authors. Students will be expected to clearly articulate their own ideas and positions on the topic and relate it back to the reading in a critical and comprehensive manner.

In addition to a critical analysis of the core reading material, students will be expected to integrate classroom learning components into their reflection papers, including sources and knowledge gained from the group presentation and experiential exercises. Attendance and participation are vital to earning a high grade on the reflection papers as use of reading materials alone will be insufficient to earn a grade above a B (75%)

The Reflection papers will require the student to write a 4 - 5 page critical reflection on four (4) of their choice of class topics from the course outline.
The first set (2 classes selected from before the mid-term break) of Reflection papers will be due at the end of class 6, Oct. 18, 2018. The second set of Reflection papers (2 classes selected after the mid-term break) will be due on the last day of Class, Dec. 6, 2018
30% Independent Research Paper – The Research Paper must be 15 – 20 pages in length and is intended to develop independent research and analytical skills to a university standard. Research topics will be fairly open, but must be broadly chosen from the themes and subjects identified in the Course Outline. Students are strongly advised to submit their research topics along with an outline and bibliography after the mid-term Reading Break. The structure and scope of the paper remain the responsibility of the student, but must include an identifiable thesis statement, clearly defined terms and concepts, at least 3 distinct supporting arguments, a consideration of counter-arguments and a conclusion. More details and instructions to follow. The Independent Research Paper is due at the end of Class 10, November 22, 2018.

20% Participation Students will be expected to complete all required reading and to be familiar with group presentation materials as introduced to the class by the Professor and fellow class-mates and to actively participate in class discussions. Attendance will be taken at each seminar, but the participation grade is not assigned by attendance alone and is meant to reflect the critical contributions of the student to the overall success of the class and will be assessed at the discretion of the Professor. Students will be expected to attend all classes and engage in structured activities such as experiential exercises, group work and class debates and use this material/experiences in their oral/written contributions to the class as a whole. Class Participation grades will be awarded at the end of the Term.

*All Assignments must be handed in Hard-Copy at the end of Class or deposited in the Political Science Drop-Box: Email submission is not permitted.

Late Submission of Work: Papers/assignments must be submitted in class to the Instructor on the day they are due. The Political Science drop-box is intended to collect late assignments only, or if a student has extenuating circumstances which have been approved by the instructor, at least a week before the due date.

There will be a mandatory late penalty for any papers/assignments collected from the drop box without prior approval, even on the date the assignment is due. This policy has been implemented to ensure students attend class on assignment due dates. The drop box is emptied every weekday at 4 p.m. and all items collected at that time are date-stamped with the day’s date. Late penalties are one-third letter grade per day late, i.e. a paper grade B+ is downgraded to B the first late day, followed by B- the next etc. Papers more than 1 week late will not be accepted without a prior extension being granted by the instructor. Valid medical excuses only accepted for term work extensions.
Note: Attendance is required at all lectures. Valid excuses accepted, otherwise absenteeism will not be tolerated; participation is a key course component. Students are expected to bring the book we are reading to class lectures.

Schedule of Lectures and Required Readings:
 Students are required to read any 2 of the 3 Required Readings listed for each Seminar Topic and be prepared to give oral executive summaries and critical analysis of the readings in Class, as this will greatly inform individual participation grades. ***

Plagiarism

The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another's data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs.

Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course’s instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They may include a mark of zero for the plagiarized work or a final grade of "F" for the course.

Student or professor materials created for this course (including presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the author(s). They are intended for personal use and may not be reproduced or redistributed without prior written consent of the author(s).
Submission and Return of Term Work
Papers must be submitted directly to the instructor according to the instructions in the course outline and will not be date-stamped in the departmental office. Late assignments may be submitted to the drop box in the corridor outside B640 Loeb. Assignments will be retrieved every business day at 4 p.m., stamped with that day’s date, and then distributed to the instructor. For essays not returned in class please attach a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you wish to have your assignment returned by mail. Final exams are intended solely for the purpose of evaluation and will not be returned.

Grading
Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor, subject to the approval of the faculty Dean. Final standing in courses will be shown by alphabetical grades. The system of grades used, with corresponding grade points is:
