II Course description

The course will examine the evolution of Russian domestic politics and society since the collapse of the Soviet Union until winter 2022. The themes discussed include the transformation of Russia's political system, changes in the behavior of political elites, the evolution of Russia's social structure, and federal-regional relations.

III Course Format

This course will be delivered synchronously in person.

IV Learning outcomes

Russia is rapidly transforming, and her international behavior frequently overshadows a complex and dynamic domestic evolution. The purpose of the course is to critically examine key processes in Russian domestic politics and society since the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991 and to explore a complex evolution of the interplay of the Russian political, social, and institutional system at the federal and regional levels.

V Texts/ Readings

Most required readings (journal articles and book chapters) will be in electronic format via the Ares Course Reserves system. Compulsory readings assigned for all students are marked with an asterisk (*). There are also suggested additional readings (without mark *). Most of these optional supplemental readings are also available online. It is advisable for given week presenters to read additional readings as well.

If you find that required reading is not available for a given week, please notify the instructor for that session immediately.

VII Evaluation in detail

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

- Seminar participation: Regular weekly online attendance is compulsory for this class. Unexcused absences will reduce the participation mark for the course, which can have a pronounced impact on the course grade. Students will be graded based on attendance, the quality of regular contributions to the class discussion, and, most importantly, demonstrated familiarity with required course readings. Each student will be evaluated according to these criteria during each seminar session.
- Discussion paper: The paper should address specific issues (considered as main arguments in the required readings) selected by the student from the required readings for the week. Its length should be 5-6 pages (typed, double-spaced, 12-point font). The paper should contrast, critique, and analyze the required readings offering a concrete argument with respect to the given question. The instructor may specify additional reading(s) beyond what is needed for the week to enrich your discussion. Clarity and conciseness are essential; the paper should NOT simply describe or reiterate the readings but critically assess them. The paper should be submitted electronically to the instructor for the respective session by 10 a.m. each WEDNESDAY before the class presentation. The paper must be submitted on time since both the instructor and the class need time to read it before the session. The presenter of the discussion paper must perform on the agreed day and time.
- Discussion paper presentation: All students will present their discussion paper to the class (dates will be assigned after the first meeting). In the presentation of their discussion paper, each student should focus on the critical arguments made within the written discussion paper, drawing on examples from the readings where appropriate. The student should be prepared to present the ideas verbally in a presentation of a maximum of FIFTEEN minutes. Presenters should NOT simply read the written paper. PPP are a welcome component of the presentation but they are not obligatory. The discussion paper and presentation will be evaluated based on the coherency of the argument, presentation form, the effectiveness of communication, and demonstrated familiarity with and reflection on course readings, with a combined grade for the oral and written components. Please note: Neither the paper nor the oral presentation should provide lengthy summaries of course readings. (Presenter may give a short synopsis of the relevant reading, up to one page in the written paper).

○ Strategic / Predictive policy analysis: The paper shall analyze the potential trajectories of Russian domestic policy's development in one of the critical areas chosen by the student. The areas can either be based on the seminars' topics (e.g., migration or regional policy etc.) or address the issues not mentioned explicitly in the course outline. In the latter case, the student shall contact the course instructor to get his authorization prior to preparing the paper. The consent shall be received no later than three weeks before the deadline for the paper's submission. Predictive policy analysis shall thoroughly analyze the current state of a specified area's policy, identify the crucial factors impacting (likely to be impacting) the policy's development, and reflect the student's assumptions (suggestions, expectations) regarding policy's evolution. The paper shall be no longer than five pages (typed, double-spaced, 12-point font). The student might want to provide recommendations for improving (altering) state policy. In such a case, the paper's length shall not exceed six pages. The course instructor will give more information about the assignment in early February.

○ Critical comment (1 page) on suggested video: Pick up ONE video related to area of your interest. After watching it please evaluate it in a one page review. The comment shall critically evaluate the video's clarity, key message, potential bias, and main conclusion suggested to the viewer. The deadline for this assignment is March 24, 2023. I will accept earlier delivery throughout January 14 – March 24, 2023 period.

Submission, Return, and Grading of Term Work:

Written assignments must be submitted directly to the instructor according to the guidelines in the course outline. Alphabetical grades will show final standing in courses. The system of grades used, with corresponding grade points, is:

Percentage	Letter grade	12-point scale	Percentage	Letter grade	12-point scale
90-100	A+	12	67-69	C+	6
85-89	A	11	63-66	C	5
80-84	A-	10	60-62	C-	4
77-79	B+	9	57-59	D+	3
73-76	B	8	53-56	D	2
70-72	B-	7	50-52	D-	1

Late Penalties and Failure to submit assignments:

Any student who fails to hand in the discussion paper will receive a failing mark in the course. Penalties for late assignments will be as follows:

Discussion paper: late assignments will have an immediate deduction of 15% (on a 100% scale) and 3% for each day late.

Students absent on the date of oral presentations or commentary will receive a “0” unless a valid medical (or equivalent) excuse is provided. Advance notice should be provided to the instructor.

COURSE OUTLINE

WEEK 1 (Jan. 11) INTRODUCTION

1. Explanation of requirements and contents of the course.
2. Minilecture on significant transformations in Eastern Europe (key issues).
3. Discussion of academic resources.
4. Selection of presenters.

WEEK 2 (Jan. 18) RUSSIA AFTER THE COLLAPSE OF THE SOVIET UNION (From Yeltsin to Putin)

The demise of the Soviet Union caused the emergence of the new Russia led by President Boris Yeltsin. Yeltsin's rule was marked by dramatic events turning the period of the 1990s into one of the most challenging and turbulent periods in Russian history. The war in Chechnya, drastic impoverishment of the citizens, and troubled transition from a "planned economy" seriously affected Russia's much anticipated "democratic turn" and forestalled the ascendance of Vladimir Putin.

Weekly goals:

- Identify the main trajectories of Russia's evolution in the 1990s.
- Identify events that defined the Yeltsin era.
- Analyze whether President Yeltsin was capable of shaping democratic society.
- Discuss whether Russia's internal problems of the 1990s predetermined the choice of Putin as Yeltsin's successor.

WEEK 3 (Jan. 25)
GOVERNANCE AND REGIME EVOLUTION
(Who rules Russia and how)

From Yeltsin's moderate and cautious attempts at democratization, Russia made a noticeable turn to authoritarianism under President Putin. President Putin's early rule was defined by the strengthening of the "vertical of power" ["vertikal' vlasti"], narrowing federalization, and arbitrary expansion of the state's interference in private affairs. President Putin's third term was a turning point in Russia's shaping as a full-fledged authoritarian state. Constitutional amendments of 2020 and Russia's invasion of Ukraine in 2022 further accelerated the regime's deterioration and its orientation toward preserving power.

Weekly goals:

- Identify the transformation of the regime during Putin's first terms.
- Evaluate the changes in regime dynamics after Putin's comeback in 2012.
- Analyze the main attributes of the Russian regime and its evolution.
- Assess the credibility of Sakwa's view of Russia as a "dual state."
- Discuss the potential dynamic for the regime's transformation.
- Discuss Kolesnikov's assessment of Russia's transition to hybrid totalitarianism.

WEEK 4 (Feb. 1)

STATE CONTROL

(How the Russian state manages society)

The steady entrenchment of authoritarianism intensified the imminent strengthening of state control. Arguably, civil society became the state's primary target. The Russian authorities consistently enhanced administrative and criminal liability measures and introduced two notorious concepts to tame regime opponents: "foreign agents" and "undesirable organizations." Simultaneously, Russia's judicial system became affected by the transformation of the Russian regime. The cases of Yukos, Pussy Riot, Ivan Golunov, and many others demonstrated the covert connection between the judiciary and the executive power.

Weekly goals:

- Find out how the Russian state uses the law to counter dissent.
- Identify how the Russian state blocks or prohibits activities of civil society.
- Analyze the influence of Russia's war against Ukraine on the state control dynamic.
- List the main characteristics of Russia's criminal justice.
- Discuss the extent of independence of the Russian judicial system.

WEEK 5 (Feb. 8)

CIVIL SOCIETY

(Civic activism as a governmental counterweight)

Under President Putin, the state started to view civil society's activities as a threat. As mentioned in the previous week, the state made apparent attempts to minimize the influence of civil society on Russian society. The state not only prohibited or restricted civil society's activities but likewise began promoting its agenda through the network of loyal state-owned or state-backed organizations.

Weekly goals:

- Evaluate the state's vision of civil society and its role.
- Formulate the main obstacles to civil society's development (formal and informal).
- Discuss how the state tries to promote its agenda through state-owned or state-backed organizations.
- Assess the harmful consequences of the "foreign agent" ("undesirable organization") designation.

WEEK 6 (Feb. 15)

IDEOLOGY

(What views drive Russia's politics)

Communist ideology was prevalent in the Soviet Union and dictated the norms and rules of everyday life. Article 6 of the 1977 Soviet Constitution stated that the Communist Party was the "leading and guiding force of the Soviet society." Any grain of dissent or disagreement with the general Party line was harshly penalized. With the fall of the USSR, the new Russia did not inherit the communist tenets of its predecessor. The 1993 Constitution prohibited the imposition of any state ideology. However, many scholars believe that the presidency of Vladimir Putin is marked by the emergence and entrenchment of distinct state-imposed ideology claiming its dominant role.

Weekly goals:

- Contrast different views on Russia's ideology.
- Identify what ideological currents influence decision-making.
- Analyze the ideology behind Putin's speeches of 2014 and 2022.
- Discuss the role of antifascist and anti-Nazi discourses in Russia.
- Model the ideological tenets of modern Russia.

WEEK 7 (Mar. 1)

SOCIETY

(Russia's societal evolution and society's structure)

Russian society has been undergoing massive transformation since the middle of the 1980s. The collapse of the Soviet Union gave birth to multiple internal conflicts and peculiarities, resulting in interethnic, interpersonal, and (at times) interterritorial disputes. The turbulent history of Russian society calls for a multi-tangled portrait reflecting its multi-ethnic and multi-confessional structure. Particular attention shall be paid to the rights of specific categories of Russian citizens, namely, women and sexual minorities.

Weekly goals:

- Identify the main attributes of modern Russian society.
- Describe the process of Russian society's evolution in post-Soviet times.
- Specify distinct changes in Russian society which occurred during Putin's era.
- Evaluate how the annexation of Crimea influenced patriotic feelings among Russians.
- Discuss Russian society's perception of sexual minorities and its reasons.
- Discuss the consequences of Russia's invasion of Ukraine for Russian society.

WEEK 8 (Mar. 8)

OPPOSITION

(Who opposes the Russian state)

During Yeltsin's era, systemic opposition was a genuine counterweight to the presidential authority. The parties present in the State Duma represented a broad range of political ideologies, namely, far left (CPRF), far right (LDPR), and liberal left (Yabloko). In 1996, the CPRF's leader Gennady Zyuganov was close enough to win the presidential race against acting President Yeltsin. Over the years, especially during the latest terms of President Putin, systemic opposition was getting less autonomous from the state. The actual center of opposition shifted toward its "non-systemic" form. As a response, the Russian state turned from moderate cohabitation with the opposition to severe resistance and greatly restricted its activities.

Weekly goals:

- Analyze the manifestations of modern Russia's protest activity.
- Discuss the obstacles created by the state for opposition activists.
- Evaluate the state's general reaction to oppositional movements.
- Discuss the figure of Alexey Navalny as a prominent opposition leader.
- Discuss the existing potential for protests amid Russia's invasion of Ukraine and the worsening living conditions.

WEEK 9 (Mar. 15)

ECONOMY

(Russia's economic transformation)

The fall of the Soviet Union called for the reconstruction of an existing economic system. The transition from "planned economy" to "market economy" became a tough challenge for Yeltsin's administration. Russia's economic transformation caused severe societal turbulence and drastically lowered the Russian citizens' quality of life. During President Putin's first terms, the Russian economy witnessed a revival largely impacted by growing oil prices. Still, it was severely injured by the repercussions of the 2008 global economic crisis and crippled by the sanctions imposed after the annexation of Crimea. Expanding tensions with the West required restructuring the Russian economy and reorientation to other partners. The 2022 invasion of Ukraine caused further intensification of sanction pressure and the departure of major brands from Russia. As of now, the consequences of sanctions are seemingly unpredictable as the unfolding of Russia's war will have a decisive role in determining the survival of the Russian economy.

Weekly goals:

- Identify the main challenges faced by Yeltsin's administration.
- Analyze the hardships caused by Russia's transition from a "planned economy" and their social impact.
- Discuss the role of oligarchs in 1990s Russia.
- Discuss the changes in the Russian economy under Putin.
- Analyze the economy's response to sanctions imposed since 2014.
- Model the economic consequences of the war against Ukraine and the sanction wave of 2022.

WEEK 10 (Mar. 22)

REGIONS

(Is there a disparity among Russian regions?)

Russia's regions vary widely in terms of economic and social development. President Putin's administration abruptly stopped the scarce federalization attempts of the 1990s. The current model of federalism does not provide for broad self-determination or self-governance of Russian regions and makes them dependent on the state authorities. The federal government exercises vast control over the distribution of resources among the regions and can manually interfere with the regions' activities.

Weekly goals:

- Discuss the model of federalism under President Yeltsin.
- Analyze the change in state's attitude to regions' autonomy change under President Putin.
- Discuss and evaluate the causes of regional disparity.
- Discuss the credibility of Prof. Zubarevich's model of "four Russias."
- Analyze the case of Chechnya as a unique example of self-governance within Russia.

WEEK 11 (Mar. 29)

MIGRATION

(Who migrates to and from Russia)

Migration flows were severely restricted in Soviet times. Even Soviet citizens were prohibited from arbitrarily changing their residence. In contrast, the new Russia ranks as one of the top destinations and origins of global migration. Likewise, the country became one of the regional centers of labor migration, with workers coming mainly from the former Soviet republics. The war against Ukraine accelerated the emigration of Russian citizens and impacted the intensity of migration from neighboring states.

Weekly goals:

- Analyze the main types of migration to and from Russia.
- Evaluate Russia's attractiveness for labor migrants.
- Discuss the manifestations of xenophobic and racist attitudes in Russian society.
- Discuss the causes of Russians' hostility (unfriendliness, caution) toward migrants.
- Model the change of migration dynamic amid Russia's war against Ukraine.

Appendix

Covid-19 Pandemic Measures

It is important to remember that COVID is still present in Ottawa. The situation can change at any time and the risks of new variants and outbreaks are very real. There are a number of actions you can take to lower your risk and the risk you pose to those around you including being vaccinated, wearing a mask, staying home when you're sick, washing your hands and maintaining proper respiratory and cough etiquette.

Feeling sick? Remaining vigilant and not attending work or school when sick or with symptoms is critically important. If you feel ill or exhibit COVID-19 symptoms do not come to class or campus. If you feel ill or exhibit symptoms while on campus or in class, please leave campus immediately. In all situations, you should follow Carleton's symptom reporting protocols.

Masks: Masks are no longer mandatory in university buildings and facilities. However, we continue to recommend masking when indoors, particularly if physical distancing cannot be maintained. We are aware that personal preferences regarding optional mask use will vary greatly, and we ask that we all show consideration and care for each other during this transition.

Vaccines: While proof of vaccination is no longer required to access campus or participate in in-person Carleton activities, it may become necessary for the University to bring back proof of vaccination requirements on short notice if the situation and public health advice changes. Students are strongly encouraged to get a full course of vaccination, including booster doses as soon as they are eligible and submit their booster dose information in cuScreen as soon as possible. Please note that Carleton cannot guarantee that it will be able to offer virtual or hybrid learning options for those who are unable to attend the campus.

All members of the Carleton community are required to follow requirements and guidelines regarding health and safety which may change from time to time. For the most recent information about Carleton's COVID-19 response and health and safety requirements please see the University's COVID-19 website and review the Frequently Asked Questions \(FAQs\). Should you have additional questions after reviewing, please contact covidinfo@carleton.ca.

For accommodation regarding a formally-scheduled final exam, you must complete the Pregnancy Accommodation Form (click here).

Plagiarism

Carleton's Academic Integrity Policy defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This includes reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source. Examples of sources from which the ideas, expressions of ideas or works of others may be drawn from include, but are not limited to: books, articles, papers, websites, literary compositions and phrases, performance compositions, chemical compounds, art works, laboratory reports, research results, calculations and the results of calculations, diagrams, constructions, computer reports, computer code/software, material on the internet and/or conversations.

Examples of plagiarism include, but are not limited to:

- any submission prepared in whole or in part, by someone else;

- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, paraphrased material, algorithms, formulae, scientific or mathematical concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another's data or research findings without appropriate acknowledgement;
- submitting a computer program developed in whole or in part by someone else, with or without modifications, as one's own; and
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another's work and/or failing to use quotations marks.

Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course's instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They may include a mark of zero for the plagiarized work or a final grade of "F" for the course.

More information on the University's Academic Integrity Policy can be found at:

<https://carleton.ca/registrar/academic-integrity/>.

Intellectual property

Student or professor materials created for this course (including presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the author(s). They are intended for personal use and may not be reproduced or redistributed without prior written consent of the author(s).

Submission and Return of Term Work

Papers must be submitted directly to the instructor according to the instructions in the course outline. The departmental office will not accept assignments submitted in hard copy.

Grading

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor, subject to the approval of the faculty Dean. Final standing in courses will be shown by alphabetical grades. The system of grades used, with corresponding grade points is:

Percentage	Letter grade	12-point scale	Percentage	Letter grade	12-point scale
90-100	A+	12	67-69	C+	6
85-89	A	11	63-66	C	5
80-84	A-	10	60-62	C-	4
77-79	B+	9	57-59	D+	3
73-76	B	8	53-56	D	2
70-72	B-	7	50-52	D-	1

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by an instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.
