Course Aims and Objectives
The main aim of this course is to provide Ph.D. students with information and guidance on research methods and strategies that will assist them in both the preparation of their thesis proposal, and the research and writing of their doctoral thesis. Students will learn about a wide variety of approaches and issues related to scholarly research in different areas of Political Science. Students will have the opportunity to present their ideas and work to the class so that they can receive feedback from the other students in the course.

The workshop is student-led; the instructor will act as a facilitator. Some of the class sessions will include guest speakers who will discuss different aspects of the research enterprise. The main objectives of the course are to expose students to different perspectives on how to conduct scholarly research, and thus to assist in the development of students' original research projects. Together with PSCI 6908, the ultimate goal of the course is to help you produce a defendable PhD thesis proposal.

Course Requirements
The course is evaluated on a satisfactory/unsatisfactory basis. Students will not be assigned a letter grade for course work. However, students are required to complete ALL of the following requirements in order to achieve a satisfactory grade:

1) Regular attendance and participation in each of the class sessions.
2) A 15 minute oral presentation on the readings assigned for a particular week. The presentation should briefly outline the main points of the assigned readings, offer a critical analysis of the strengths and weaknesses of the readings themselves, and of the methodological approaches or tools that they describe.
3) A 15 minute oral presentation, presented during Weeks 10-12. The presentation involves developing a justification for your proposed research topic and a preliminary methodology section of a research proposal. Ideally, you will be relating the methodological approaches and research methods that we have studied this term to the topic of your thesis research. The presentation (and the written paper, below) should answer the following questions:
a) What is the substantive topic of your research, briefly? (If you are sufficiently advanced in your thinking to be able to set out a research question, this should also be included).
b) What is the intellectual justification of your project – why are you pursuing this topic? Try to situate your topic within your chosen field (e.g. how does your topic fit into the history of the field? How does your topic contribute to an old, or new, debate in the field?)
c) Broadly speaking, how do you plan to approach the research of this topic? Will it involve quantitative or qualitative research, or both? If it is quantitative, what particular research methods will you employ? If it is qualitative, what general approach will you use: comparative, case studies, interpretive/historical, interviews, or critical methodologies?
d) How does your methodological orientation tie in to a wider epistemological approach? How do you understand the nature of ‘knowledge’ in the context of your research? Can one ‘know’ by ‘observing’ in that context? Is there an ‘objective’ reality to which you can refer? Will your analysis be ‘contextual’ (i.e. historical) or ‘textual’?
e) What particular tools might be useful: surveys, interviews, archival research, discourse analysis or ethnography?
f) What is the goal of your research? Is it to describe, compare, explain, predict, critique, emancipate, challenge or disrupt?

4) A 12 page written paper which sets out the methodology presentation (above) in writing. The paper should be well-organized, clearly written, and properly documented.

Remember: it is not required that you have all this figured out completely! The purpose of this assignment is for you to consider what you are going to research and to address the important problem of how you are going to do your research. The aim is for you to devote time to reading and thinking about methodology in the context of your own research, and to have a chance to discuss it with your peers. You will continue to work on this in PSCI 6908.

Academic Accommodations
For students with Disabilities: Students with disabilities requiring academic accommodations in this course must register with the Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (500 University Centre) for a formal evaluation of disability-related needs. Registered PMC students are required to contact the centre (613-520-6608) every term to ensure that the instructor receives your request for accommodation. After registering with the PMC, make an appointment to meet with the instructor in order to discuss your needs at least two weeks before the first assignment is due or the first in-class test/midterm requiring accommodations. If you require accommodation for your formally scheduled exam(s) in this course, please submit your request for accommodation to PMC by (November 11, 2011 for fall term examinations and March 7, 2012 for winter term examinations).

For Religious Observance: Students requesting accommodation for religious observances should apply in writing to their instructor for alternate dates and/or means of satisfying academic requirements. Such requests should be made during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist, but no later than two weeks before the compulsory academic event. Accommodation is to be worked out directly and on an individual basis between the student and the instructor(s) involved. Instructors will make accommodations in a way that avoids academic disadvantage to the student. Instructors and students may contact an Equity Services Advisor for assistance (www.carleton.ca/equity).

For Pregnancy: Pregnant students requiring academic accommodations are encouraged to contact an Equity Advisor in Equity Services to complete a letter of accommodation. Then, make an appointment to discuss your needs with the instructor at least two weeks prior to the first academic event in which it is anticipated the accommodation will be required.

Plagiarism: The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:
reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
using another’s data or research findings;
failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs.
Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course’s instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They include a mark of zero for the plagiarized work or a final grade of "F" for the course.

Oral Examination: At the discretion of the instructor, students may be required to pass a brief oral examination on research papers and essays.
Submission and Return of Term Work: Papers must be handed directly to the instructor and will not be date-stamped in the departmental office. Late assignments may be submitted to the drop box in the corridor outside B640 Loeb. Assignments will be retrieved every business day at 4 p.m., stamped with that day's date, and then distributed to the instructor. For essays not returned in class please attach a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you wish to have your assignment returned by mail. Please note that assignments sent via fax or email will not be accepted. Final exams are intended solely for the purpose of evaluation and will not be returned.

Grades: Final grades are derived from the completion of course assignments. Failure to write the final exam will result in the grade ABS. Deferred final exams are available ONLY if the student is in good standing in the course.

Approval of final grades: Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by an instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

Connect Email Accounts: All email communication to students from the Department of Political Science will be via Connect. Important course and University information is also distributed via the Connect email system. It is the student’s responsibility to monitor their Connect account.

Carleton Political Science Society: The Carleton Political Science Society (CPSS) has made its mission to provide a social environment for politically inclined students and faculty. Holding social events, debates, and panel discussions, CPSS aims to involve all political science students in the after-hours academic life at Carleton University. Our mandate is to arrange social and academic activities in order to instill a sense of belonging within the Department and the larger University community. Members can benefit through numerous opportunities which will complement both academic and social life at Carleton University. To find out more, please email carletonpss@gmail.com, visit our website at poliscisociety.com, or come to our office in Loeb D688.

Official Course Outline: The course outline posted to the Political Science website is the official course outline.
