Course Description, Aims and Objectives

PSCI 1200 is one of two introductory courses in Political Science. While PSCI 1100 focuses on democracy and politics within the state, PSCI 1200 introduces students to the study of global or world politics. This course is designed to give students an overview of the history of world politics, introduce students to basic concepts and theories that will enable them to better understand developments in world politics, and engage students in contemporary debates in world politics.

Learning objectives and how to achieve them:

1. Gain an intellectual framework to aid in the understanding of the history, development, and current state of world politics. This course will help the student to think critically and constructively about the broad range of issues and approaches to world politics presented in this course. An intellectual framework is an important starting point in helping students to better understand their own point of view as well as to better evaluate the work of others.
   • Read the assigned readings before class, attend lectures, take notes.
   • Study for and complete assignments and exams.
   • Participate in tutorials.
   • Note: Power point slides give headings only. Substance is covered in class.

2. Become familiar with how to undertake academic research.
   • Research a topic in the Carleton University online data base.

3. Develop written communication skills.
   • Write a research paper and final exam.
4. Develop verbal communication skills.
   - Complete the assigned readings before the tutorial. Read critically. Organize thoughts. Listen to other students and contribute to furthering the discussion in the tutorial.

Texts

There is one required textbook for this course:

All other readings can be accessed from ARES (the library’s online reserves).

Students are strongly encouraged to purchase the required textbook.

Evaluation

The course is organized around a combination of weekly lectures and tutorials. Students are asked to read material for each lecture and tutorial. You are also asked to read and use material related to the completion of assignments. Please note that you are expected to be conversant with all this material for the final exam. Attendance at lectures and tutorial seminars is not mandatory, however, attendance is highly advisable and strongly encouraged. In the case of tutorials, if you do not attend you will forfeit the opportunity to earn oral participation marks. Attending and contributing to tutorial discussion is the only way to earn your oral participation.

I. Grading Summary

1. Tutorial participation 20%
2. Research Paper Outline due in tutorial 5%
3. Research Paper due in tutorial 35%
4. Final Exam in exam period 40%

Students must complete all the components of the class to receive a grade other than F.

II. Grading Details

i) Tutorial participation (20%)

As noted in the schedule you will meet for one hour tutorials organized around a set of suggested questions and the lecture topic for that week. Tutorials will consist of small group discussion and general debate with some open format discussion. You will also have the opportunity to discuss upcoming assignments. While attendance is not compulsory, you cannot earn participation grades if you are absent and your grade cannot be made up after the fact. Attendance will be taken. Each tutorial you miss will affect your final grade.
Both quantity and quality of participation will be taken into account. Good quality active participation should reflect the student’s knowledge and understanding of the readings and their ability to engage in constructive discussion with other students. It is important to complete all required readings and give them some thought before coming to class.

At the end of each tutorial you will be asked to submit a card naming one thing that worked for you in the tutorial, one thing that could be improved in the tutorial, and one thing that you agreed with, disagreed with, learnt or found interesting in the lecture or the tutorial.

ii) Research Paper (5%+35%)

Students are required to write a 2000 word research paper (7-8 pages text, double spaced) excluding bibliography. Please use 12 point Times New Roman Font with one inch margins.

Further details and a list of possible topics will be posted in CU Learn. Please note this list is by no means exhaustive. You are welcome to choose your own topic and confirm with your TA or myself that your topic is acceptable. You are encouraged to read ahead for topic ideas.

Research Paper Outline (5%)

To be sure your paper is on the right track a brief one page preliminary outline must be submitted in hard copy in tutorial to your TA on October 18, Week 7. This should include:

- The provisional title of your paper
- The research question your paper will address
- A thesis statement
- A preliminary list of at least three references drawn from academic sources (i.e. peer reviewed books or refereed journal articles).

Research Paper (35%)

The content of your paper should follow the following structure:

- In a paragraph or two highlight/discuss the importance of your topic/question.
- State your research question. What is it about this topic that you want to investigate?
- State your hypothesis, your argument as it pertains to the research question.
- Conduct an analysis of your hypothesis. Present evidence and arguments. Briefly address counter arguments.
- Bring together conclusions.
- Complete reference list

Papers will be evaluated on form (grammar, syntax, and presentation), content (use of relevant material), and analysis (nuance, balance and critical assessment). Papers should include at least four references from academic sources. Use Chicago style for citations and references. A style guide will be posted on CU Learn. Don’t forget page numbers!
A hard copy of the Research Paper must be submitted in tutorial to your TA on November 22 Week 11. Please note the original marked copy of your research paper proposal must be resubmitted attached to your final paper. Only a hard copy of the term paper will be accepted, unless permission is granted by the instructor.

There will be a penalty for late papers. Extensions can only be granted by the instructor and, with few exceptions, are granted only for documented medical reasons. Late assignments will be deducted one letter grade category per calendar day. For example, a B paper that is one day late will be reduced to a B-. Students are strongly encouraged to organize their time to avoid late penalties! Aim to have your paper complete before the deadline so you can resolve any printing problems. Remember to back up your work and keep a copy for your records in case of problems.

Please note the Political Science drop box is intended for late assignments or for students who, due to extenuating circumstances, are unable to submit the paper directly in tutorial. Please note the Departmental Drop box is emptied and date stamped at 4 pm Monday to Friday and penalties are assessed based on the date stamp.

iii) Final Examination (40%)

The final exam will be three hours long and consist of short answers as well as two essay questions. It is designed to test your overall comprehension of the course material. The last class of the semester will provide an overview of what to expect in the exam. It will be held in the formal exam period. The date and location will be announced later in the semester.

Other issues

It is important to arrive on time and participate in the entire lecture and tutorial. Late arrivals and early departures are disruptive to other students. It is recommended that the instructor be informed when students have to miss tutorial for legitimate reasons.

Students are expected to demonstrate ongoing mutual respect for one another in all class activities and discussion. This entails speaking respectfully, listening carefully, supporting one another, offering constructive feedback, being open to alternate points of view, and generally giving each other the opportunity to express and develop ideas. The class agrees to use their personal devices with respect and consideration for those around them.

In addition to attending lectures and tutorials, students are encouraged to follow the news on world politics available from credible news sources (e.g. the Globe and Mail, Wall Street Journal, New York Times, Financial Times, The Guardian, CBC, PBS, BBC, The Economist). Official websites and social media can also be useful sources. Always remember to think critically and consider the source.

Plagiarism
The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another’s data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs.

Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course’s instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They may include a mark of zero for the plagiarized work or a final grade of "F" for the course.

Student or professor materials created for this course (including presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the author(s). They are intended for personal use and may not be reproduced or redistributed without prior written consent of the author(s).

Submission and Return of Term Work
Papers must be submitted directly to the instructor according to the instructions in the course outline and will not be date-stamped in the departmental office. Late assignments may be submitted to the drop box in the corridor outside B640 Loeb. Assignments will be retrieved every business day at 4 p.m., stamped with that day’s date, and then distributed to the instructor. For essays not returned in class please attach a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you wish to have your assignment returned by mail. Final exams are intended solely for the purpose of evaluation and will not be returned.

Grading

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor, subject to the approval of the faculty Dean. Final standing in courses will be shown by alphabetical grades. The system of grades used, with corresponding grade points is:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

Approval of final grades

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by an instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

Carleton E-mail Accounts

All email communication to students from the Department of Political Science will be via official Carleton university e-mail accounts and/or cuLearn. As important course and University information is distributed this way, it is the student’s responsibility to monitor their Carleton and cuLearn accounts.

Carleton Political Science Society

"The Carleton Political Science Society (CPSS) has made its mission to provide a social environment for politically inclined students and faculty. By hosting social events, including Model Parliament, debates, professional development sessions and more, CPSS aims to involve all political science students at Carleton University. Our mandate is to arrange social and academic activities in order to instill a sense of belonging within the Department and the larger University community. Members can benefit through our networking opportunities, academic engagement initiatives and numerous events which aim to complement both academic and social life at Carleton University.
