PSCI 3608B – updated

MIGRATION GOVERNANCE

Thursday, 11:35 – 14:25
Mackenzie Building 3235
(reconfirm location on Carleton Central)

Instructor: Dr. Martin Geiger, Associate Professor
Office: Richcraft Hall, 3rd floor
(Institute of European, Russian and Eurasian Studies) R. 3314
Office Hours: By appointment (email): Thursdays, 15:00 – 16:00
Phone: Please contact me by email
Email: martin.geiger@carleton.ca

Important Remarks:
First class: January 10th – Last class: March 28th
No classes: February 21st (reading week) and April 4th (to accommodate extra work of students providing feedback notes and attending and assisting international conference).

The use of laptops, tablets and phones during class time will only be permitted for purposes closely related to the course, including note-taking, accessing readings and other course materials. There will be a break during which students can write text messages, use their phones and access Facebook and other social media sites. The instructor may apply a one-time penalty (five percent, to be deducted from the final grade) for any unsanctioned and not class-related use of electronic devices.

As a student enrolled in this course, you are expected to: (1) read and understand this course outline; (2) not distract others in class (e.g. by eating in class, avoiding side conversations with other students, not using mobile devices and social networking sites unless permitted to do so by your instructor); (3) come to class prepared and complete your own work (including documenting your research, and not cheating or plagiarizing); (4) fully commit to collective learning and dissemination of knowledge; (5) be aware of the resources at Carleton University that are available to help you reach your academic goals, the learning outcomes of this class, and the program you are enrolled in.

Students in this class can earn up to three bonus percentage points (applied to their final grade at the end of the course) for attending and assisting in an international workshop/conference during the Faculty of Public Affairs’ Research Month (March 1st). The workshop/conference is co-organized by the instructor of this course.

1) Course format and thematic description
This lecture course provides students with the opportunity to conduct intensive literature research, to compile a synthesis of existing scholarly knowledge and to effectively disseminate the understanding acquired to class colleagues and senior peers in the format of small group presentations (‘sharing circles’). This course differs from traditional lecture formats and includes elements of senior undergraduate and Master course seminars. Strong and consistent student involvement is necessary. Regular attendance, active participation and major individual research efforts, including independent and extensive research of scholarly literature and materials, will be required.

Following an introduction to the course and introductory lectures provided by the instructor early in the term (January 10th – February 28th). Students then have the chance to attend and assist in an international research workshop (March 1st) held at Carleton University and co-organized by the instructor of this course. The remaining class sessions will be conducted in the format of ‘sharing circles’. Students will first receive guidance in how to conduct extensive literature research. They will then compile a knowledge synthesis report (existing state of knowledge, knowledge strengths and gaps of knowledge/needs for future research). In the following, their synthesis will be shared with other class colleagues, teaching assistants and invited guests. Students will present their main findings in the format of small group-based ‘sharing circles’ that will provide them with feedback. Other students will comment on their synthesis report in the format of written summaries and constructive feedback (feedback notes). Incorporating the feedback received from sharing circles and through feedback notes written by other students, students will finalize their knowledge synthesis in the format of a take-home research paper and submit their final synthesis at the end of the term (April 27th).

International mobility, migration and closely related issues (e.g. border security, rights of migrant workers, irregular migration, trafficking and refugee movements) receive significant attention from policy-makers, media and the public. This lecture course offers an introduction to some of the key themes concerning, and related to, cross-border movements of people. The course is global in scope, with reference given to specific cross-regional/global themes and specific regional and country case studies. The goal is to link the field of mobility/migration studies with discussions on other global themes and broader political discussions.

This course critically engages with policies and approaches to migration and cross-border mobility emerging under the umbrella of migration governance/management since the early 1990s, and the proliferation of stakeholders (international organizations, NGOs, private companies, etc.) ‘beyond the state’ that have become involved in shaping and contributing to migration governance/management. Migration governance/management marks a new, and strongly contested, field of political practice, as well as theoretical and empirical inquiry. In the opinion of its proponents, governance or management of migration provide more effective and efficient solutions to tackle manifold and complex challenges and situations related to migration and mobility. Researchers, migrant advocates, support groups and human rights organizations, in contrast, often criticize the technocratic and apolitical nature of contemporary migration governance and management, while highlighting the unfavourable effects new policies and approaches entail for migrants and societies.

2) Learning Outcomes, Content and Objectives

By the end of the course, students will be familiar with fundamental concepts and theories in migration studies. They will be trained in conducting literature research, compiling comprehensive knowledge synthesis reports, and be able to speak to existing strengths and gaps of scholarly knowledge and understanding, and trained in effective oral and written knowledge dissemination. Specifically, students will be able to identify different types of mobility, be competent in evaluating political responses of states, the international system and additional actors as they relate to mobility and migration movements in different world regions, and in different thematic and country-related case studies. Students will also be able to evaluate the underpinning political causative factors and the implications of cross-border mobility and migration for individuals, societies, states and the international system. This will help participants in this course in justifying their own informed position with reference to human and migrant rights, state sovereignty, evolving governance structures beyond the state, and on the security and wellbeing of citizens and non-citizens. In turn, this will enable students to take part in academic and policy-oriented debates about migration, mobility and closely related themes and issues (including, for example, the development or the protection of human rights), the social and political effects of migration and mobility-related politics, and the future of migration governance.

3) Course Readings
The textbook which will be used in this course is available for free download from the Carleton library (you need to be signed in on campus or logged in from home):

This book will also be available for purchase from Carleton University's bookstore. In addition to the mentioned textbook, some other texts will be required (see attached schedule). Some of these readings might change or be replaced. In case this happens, you will receive timely information from your course instructor. All additional readings will be provided electronically, at no cost for students, through Carleton's ARES system.

4) Requirements and Evaluation

4.1 Evaluation at a Glance
Grading will be done on the following basis (note: you must complete all elements of evaluation to receive a passing grade):

- Participation and attendance – 15%
  - Feedback can be obtained from the instructor throughout the term. At the end of the term (all assignments submitted), students receive the grade for his section.

- Mid-term test (in-class) – 20%
  - January 31st (45 mins.). Students receive approximately 10 business days later.

- Preliminary knowledge synthesis – 20%
  - Submission deadline: February 28th (11:59 pm). Students receive approximately 10 business days later.

- Written summary and feedback notes – 10%
  - Individual deadlines apply. Students attend and provide a written summary and feedback on the knowledge synthesis of other students
  - Students will receive feedback and grade within approximately ten business days following submission of their assignment.

- Final knowledge synthesis – 35% (take-home exam/paper)
- Submission deadline: April 27th (11:59 pm). Students receive feedback and grades within approximately seven business days following their submission.

Bonus percentage up to 3%
- Attendance and assistance in an international workshop/conference (March 1st). The instructor will provide details closer to the date of the event and provide students with the possibility to earn these bonus points.

4.2 Evaluation in Detail

Participation and attendance (15%)

Students will be evaluated on the basis of their active, constant, informed and thoughtful participation in class. Students are expected to do all assigned readings and come to class prepared. Attendance and participation will be taken and noted at every class. Not actively contributing to class, missing classes, late arrivals and early departures will cause students to lose attendance and participation marks. Students that cannot attend a class for credible reasons (e.g., medical issues) need to provide the instructor with valid documentation that justifies their absence (e.g., doctor’s note).

Students have to be prepared to discuss other students’ presentations and to summarize the key arguments of course readings, contrast the perspectives of the readings, and respond to the readings within the context of the course. What contribution does the specific reading make? Is there a link/commonality/tension between the readings? Do you agree with their position? How do the arguments of the authors relate to the theme of the course and previous discussions in class? It is recommended that students take notes when reading the mandatory texts; this facilitates class discussion and individual learning progress.

Mid-term test (20%) (January 31st)

On January 31st, we will write a mid-term test. This test (45 mins.) is an in-class test and it takes place at the regular beginning of the class meeting. The test will consist of a set of short and different multiple choice questions. The test is designed to evaluate knowledge and understanding on key topics and issues, as well as the ability of students to interpret and critically discuss class contents.

The term test will be based on the content found within the required ten readings of the three previous class sessions (January 10th, January 17th and January 24th), the lectures provided by the instructor, the class discussions on the readings, lectures and additional material/content discussed during these three class sessions.

Preliminary knowledge synthesis (20%) (Deadline: February 28th, 11:59 p.m.)

Each student will be assigned an individual topic for a knowledge synthesis project. This project will involve and depend on the following elements: (1) an independent and extensive scholarly literature research (training and guidance provided by instructor, teaching assistants, library professionals); (2) the identification of the existing state of scholarly understanding and discussion, strengths and gaps of knowledge, and future research needs by each student; (3) the compilation of a written preliminary knowledge synthesis report (a template will be provided by the instructor); and (4) in the following, the preliminary report will be presented during a ‘sharing circle’ (see further below for details) and become finalized at the end of the term (submission of final report on April 27th, see below for more details).

The preliminary knowledge synthesis report needs to be submitted in electronic format (readable pdf) to the instructor in the week following reading week. It is due on February 27th, 2017, at 11:59 p.m. (at the latest). The assignment needs to be submitted by email, the recipient is the instructor of this course (martin.geiger@carleton.ca). Only submissions from the personal Carleton email-account of the student submitting the assignment will be accepted.

Each student in this course will be assigned to theme-specific, small group ‘sharing circles’. All preliminary knowledge synthesis reports submitted will become assigned mandatory readings for the participants of these theme-specific discussion groups. Other students and guests attending the sharing circles (including students from FYSM 1614) will read the preliminary knowledge synthesis in advance of the sharing circles and then comment on the student’s findings during these sharing circles. Students who have prepared the knowledge synthesis report will provide at the beginning of each sharing circle a short oral contribution, summarizing and reflecting on key findings of their preliminary knowledge synthesis. Following their presentation, they will receive written feedback provided by another student attending their sharing circle (see further below). This feedback will be designed to help students in finalizing their knowledge synthesis report (final report to be submitted April 27th, see below).

The preliminary knowledge synthesis accounts for 20% of the final grade. It needs to be well prepared and extensive and comprehensive literature research is required. The written synthesis should be around 3,500 words long, including all references, footnotes/endnotes and chapter headings etc. The purpose of this knowledge synthesis is to provide students with an opportunity to discuss the existing state of knowledge, the gaps and strengths of understanding, and future research needs in a comprehensive, scholarly format. It is expected that students conduct intensive academic research on the topic selected, that they critically engage with the existing scholarly literature and make use of what they have already learned during the course and in other courses.

The preliminary synthesis must be based on students’ own intellectual work. It is not permitted that students work together with others on their knowledge synthesis report; group work is not permitted in this assignment and all students in this course will discuss and agree on an individual topic for their paper with the instructor.

The preliminary knowledge synthesis will be marked along the following criteria: argument, organization and logic (are the state of existing knowledge, the gaps and strengths in scholarly understand and the future research needs presented in a logical and convincing manner?); research and use of evidence (does the report make extensive and effective use of available research sources and academic literature? Does the report contain proper footnotes/endnotes and bibliographic style?); communication (is the report organized and written as clearly and concisely as possible?). The preliminary and the final knowledge synthesis report should also be free of spelling and grammar errors. Knowledge syntheses that do not address the topic which was previously discussed (see above) and assigned by the instructor will receive a failing grade and not pass this course.

Written summary and feedback (10%)

Students receive 10% of their final grade for providing a written summary and feedback on the knowledge synthesis of other students (individual deadlines will apply for the submission of these feedback notes; these deadlines will be communicated at the beginning of the term in class). Students receive feedback and the grade on this assignment within seven business days following their respective assignment.
Each student in this class will be assigned to a thematic, small group sharing circle, and be asked to provide a written summary and feedback note on the work of other students. Students will provide written summaries and feedback to the presenters. These written notes (maximum 1,500 words) need to be submitted by a deadline agreed at the beginning of the term when assignments are handed out (see course schedule for more details). These notes are meant to inform and advice students in their finalization of knowledge synthesis reports. The evaluation of this assignment will be based on: (1) success in identifying, presenting and assessing relevant information on basis of knowledge syntheses disseminated and presented in oral format by other students; and (2) effective, succinct and smart communication of this information in format of a summary and feedback note.

Final knowledge synthesis (35%) (deadline: April 27th, 11:59 p.m.)
The final knowledge synthesis – a take-home exam/paper – accounts for 35% of the final grade and is based on the previous knowledge synthesis compiled by the student (see above for more details), the presentation of this report to a sharing circle and the incorporation of feedback and advice received from other students, teaching assistants, the instructor and other participants attending sharing circles.

The final synthesis report needs to be submitted electronically as a readable PDF-file via email (recipient: martin.geiger@carleton.ca). Students will receive a confirmation of their submission shortly after they have submitted their paper. Only submissions from Carleton email-accounts will be accepted.

The final synthesis report should be approximately 5,000 words long, including all references, footnotes/endnotes and chapter headings etc. It must be based on each student’s own intellectual work. It is not permitted that students work together with others on their final report. All students in this course will discuss and agree on an individual topic for their knowledge synthesis with the instructor.

The final report needs to be well prepared and extensive and comprehensive literature research is required. The final knowledge synthesis will take the preliminary knowledge synthesis into account and the progress made since the submission and presentation of this preliminary report. The final synthesis report will be marked along the following criteria: argument, organization and logic (are the state of existing knowledge, the gaps and strengths in scholarly understand and the future research needs presented in a logical and convincing manner?); research and use of evidence (does the report make extensive and effective use of available research sources and academic literature? Does the report contain proper footnotes/endnotes and bibliographic style?); communication (is the report organized and written as clearly and concisely as possible?). Also the final knowledge synthesis report should be free of spelling and grammar errors. Knowledge syntheses that do not address the topic which was previously discussed (see above) and assigned by the instructor will receive a failing grade and not pass this course.

Bonus percentage (March 1st)
Students in this class have the chance to attend an international workshop held at Carleton University during FPA’s research month. The event is closely related to this course. Bonus percentage points are available to students that assist in conference logistics and/or provide short briefing notes to their class colleagues on topics discussed during the event and individual speaker presentations. Some students might also be asked to ‘interview’ some of the conference/workshop speakers. Detailed information will be provided at the beginning of the term and closer to the workshop/conference date. The bonus percentage of up to 3% will be added to each student’s final grade at the end of the term, once all assignments have been received and graded.

4.3 Classroom policies and policies on assignments and emails

The use of laptops, tablets and phones during class time will only be permitted for purposes closely related to the course, including note-taking, accessing readings and other course materials. There will be a break during which students can write text messages, use their phones and access Facebook and other social media sites. The instructor may apply a one-time penalty (five percent, to be deducted from the final grade) for any unsanctioned and not class-related use of electronic devices.

The University takes instructional offences (including plagiarism) very seriously. Please make sure that you are familiar with the regulations regarding instructional offences, which are outlined in the Undergraduate Calendar. It is also not acceptable to submit the same assignment in two or more different courses.

Classroom teaching and learning activities, including lectures, discussions, presentations, etc., by both instructors and students, are copy protected and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s). All course materials, including PowerPoint presentations, outlines, and other materials, are also protected by copyright and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s). Students registered in the course may take notes and make copies of course materials for their own educational use only. Students are not permitted to reproduce or distribute lecture notes and course materials publicly for commercial or non-commercial purposes without express written consent from the copyright holder(s).

All assignments in this course should be free of spelling and grammar errors. They must include appropriate citations (endnotes or footnotes) and a bibliography. Assignments are due on the dates specified in the course outline or as they were agreed upon between instructor and student(s).

Late submissions will be subject to a penalty of 5% of the assignment grade per 24 hours (not including weekends). Assignments will not be accepted later than seven business days after the due date. Exceptions to this policy will only be made for academic accommodations, as outlined below, or for medical or personal emergencies substantiated by official documentation. If you anticipate any problems, please approach the instructor as soon as you can and well in advance of the respective assignment.

In case you are using email as a way of communication with the instructor and for submitting assignments, make sure that you always use your personal Carleton email address. All email communication to students will be via official Carleton university email accounts and/or cuLearn. As important course and University information is distributed this way, it is your own responsibility to monitor your Carleton and cuLearn accounts.

Emails from other accounts might end up in spam folders and will also not be answered because it is not possible to verify that it was really you writing, replying or submitting an assignment through this different email account. This also applies for forwarded messages to/from other accounts than Carleton accounts.
5) Schedule

January 10th: Making sense of global migration. Migration in historical perspective.
Course requirements and assignments
Lecture
Mandatory readings:

Attendance is required. If you cannot attend today, contact the instructor immediately.

January 17th: Migration: Theory and historical experiences.
Lecture
Mandatory readings:

Attendance is required. Remaining class assignments will be handed out today. Students who wish to stay in this course but were not able to attend last week’s meeting: you need to attend today or contact the instructor immediately. There are important deadlines all students are required to meet.

January 24th: Immigration control and border politics. Citizenship and integration.
Lecture
Mandatory readings:
January 31st
Mid-Term Test (45 mins.), in-class.

Students who have missed classes, failed to report and/or have not signed up for a knowledge synthesis assignment and as feedback-provider by today will receive a failing grade and not pass the course.

February 7th: Denationalization and securitization of migration politics
Lecture
Mandatory readings:
Training I: How to research for and write a knowledge synthesis

February 14th: Migration governance vs. management
Lecture
Mandatory readings:
Training II: Effective research dissemination

February 21st
No class today (reading week).

February 28th: Training on knowledge dissemination (sharing circles feat. guest speakers)
Training on effective knowledge dissemination (sharing circles, providing feedback)
Mandatory readings will be provided by guest speakers

Ottawa 11:59 p.m. – Deadline for the electronic submission of a preliminary knowledge synthesis, via email: martin.geiger@carleton.ca

Optional – March 1st: “Migration, Identity and Politics in Europe”
International research workshop/conference at Carleton University with invited speakers from Europe and North America. Full day event. Students in this course can receive up to three bonus percentage points when attending and assisting in the event’s organization.
March 7th: Immigration and emigration countries
Sharing circles based on preliminary knowledge syntheses
Mandatory readings to be provided by presenters (= knowledge syntheses)

March 14th: Global migration governance and management
Sharing circles based on preliminary knowledge syntheses
Mandatory readings to be provided by presenters (= knowledge syntheses)

Ottawa 11:59 p.m. – Deadline for written summary and feedback (meeting of March 7th), via email:
martin.geiger@carleton.ca

March 21st: National and regional migration governance and management (I)
Sharing circles based on preliminary knowledge syntheses
Mandatory readings to be provided by presenters (= knowledge syntheses)

Ottawa 11:59 p.m. – Deadline for written summary and feedback (meeting of March 14th), via email:
martin.geiger@carleton.ca

March 28th: National and regional migration governance and management (II)
Sharing circles based on preliminary knowledge syntheses

Ottawa 11:59 p.m. – Deadline for written summary and feedback (meeting of March 21st), via email:
martin.geiger@carleton.ca

April 4th
No class today (to accommodate extra work of students providing feedback notes and attending international research workshop on March 1st).

April 27th
Ottawa 11:59 p.m. – Deadline for the electronic submission of final knowledge synthesis (take-home paper/exam), via email: martin.geiger@carleton.ca
Requests for Academic Accommodation
You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request, the processes are as follows:

Pregnancy obligation
Please contact your instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details, visit the Equity Services website: carleton.ca/equity/wp-content/uploads/Student-Guide-to-Academic-Accommodation.pdf

Religious obligation
Please contact your instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details, visit the Equity Services website: carleton.ca/equity/wp-content/uploads/Student-Guide-to-Academic-Accommodation.pdf

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities
If you have a documented disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact the Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation or contact your PMC coordinator to send your instructor your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term. You must also contact the PMC no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with your instructor as soon as possible to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. carleton.ca/pmc

Survivors of Sexual Violence
As a community, Carleton University is committed to maintaining a positive learning, working and living environment where sexual violence will not be tolerated, and is survivors are supported through academic accommodations as per Carleton's Sexual Violence Policy. For more information about the services available at the university and to obtain information about sexual violence and/or support, visit: carleton.ca/sexual-violence-support

Accommodation for Student Activities
Carleton University recognizes the substantial benefits, both to the individual student and for the university, that result from a student participating in activities beyond the classroom experience. Reasonable accommodation must be provided to students who compete or perform at the national or international level. Please contact your instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. https://carleton.ca/senate/wp-content/uploads/Accommodation-for-Student-Activities-1.pdf

For more information on academic accommodation, please contact the departmental administrator or visit: students.carleton.ca/course-outline

Plagiarism
The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:
• reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
• submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
• using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
• using another’s data or research findings;
• failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
• handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs.

Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course’s instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They may include a mark of zero for the plagiarized work or a final grade of "F" for the course. Student or professor materials created for this course (including presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the author(s). They are intended for personal use and may not be reproduced or redistributed without prior written consent of the author(s).

Submission and Return of Term Work

Papers must be submitted directly to the instructor according to the instructions in the course outline and will not be date-stamped in the departmental office. Late assignments may be submitted to the drop box in the corridor outside B640 Loeb. Assignments will be retrieved every business day at 4 p.m., stamped with that day’s date, and then distributed to the instructor. For essays not returned in class please attach a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you wish to have your assignment returned by mail. Final exams are intended solely for the purpose of evaluation and will not be returned.

Grading

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor, subject to the approval of the faculty Dean. Final standing in courses will be shown by alphabetical grades. The system of grades used, with corresponding grade points is:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

Approval of final grades

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by an instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.
Carleton E-mail Accounts

All email communication to students from the Department of Political Science will be via official Carleton university e-mail accounts and/or cuLearn. As important course and University information is distributed this way, it is the student’s responsibility to monitor their Carleton and cuLearn accounts.

Carleton Political Science Society

"The Carleton Political Science Society (CPSS) has made its mission to provide a social environment for politically inclined students and faculty. By hosting social events, including Model Parliament, debates, professional development sessions and more, CPSS aims to involve all political science students at Carleton University. Our mandate is to arrange social and academic activities in order to instill a sense of belonging within the Department and the larger University community. Members can benefit through our networking opportunities, academic engagement initiatives and numerous events which aim to complement both academic and social life at Carleton University. To find out more, visit us on Facebook https://www.facebook.com/CarletonPoliticalScienceSociety/ and our website https://carletonpss.com/, or stop by our office in Loeb D688!"

Official Course Outline

The course outline posted to the Political Science website is the official course outline.
