Course description
This course introduces students to the history, development, and current form of environmental issues, focusing on the Canadian context. It examines how environmental issues are framed and what some of the implications of those framings are. The aim of the course is to provide an overview of significant environmental actors, writers, events, and processes and an understanding of key concepts and debates in environmental politics.

Class Structure
Each class will be structured around a lecture, an analysis of current environmental news headlines (where relevant), a film or part of a film, and a discussion of the readings for that class.

Learning objectives
• Become familiar with the development of environmental issues and debates, particularly in Canada
• Build the skills of critical environmental policy analysis
• Apply critical analysis to current events

Texts
All reading materials are either on reserve at MacOdrum Library or available through cuLearn

Participation/Quizzes (20%)
Class attendance is mandatory for this course. Absences will only be excused if you can provide suitable documentation (e.g. a doctor’s note). From time to time there will be quizzes in class that will be based on the readings or the previous lecture. I will use these quizzes to help me determine the class participation mark.

Essay Outline (15%)— 1000 words
This assignment is to develop an outline for your final paper. You will need to identify the article(s) you will be using and provide a preliminary bibliography. Your outline should state your tentative thesis, and provide the topic sentences for 5-6 paragraphs that will sustain your thesis. Your final essay project is to critically analyze how a news article has been framed. Your outline should clearly identify the logical steps that you will take to do this. As well, it should include a hard copy of the article you are using for your paper. The essay outline is due at the beginning of class on Feb. 8th with the word count noted on the cover page.

Essay (35%) – 2000-2500 words
For this assignment, your task is to take a current environmental news article and analyze it drawing from the insights you have gained from the study of environmental issues this term. You will need to find an appropriate news story in the Weekly Guardian or The Daily Climate that has been published since 1 September 2018. You will need to reference the article in your bibliography and include a hard copy of it when you submit your paper. If you wish to use another source, you will need to clear it with me first. Your paper should provide a critique of how the article was framed and an analysis of the potential consequences of that framing. I will provide examples of how you might do this from time to time in my lectures. You will need to use at least 5 academic sources to support your analysis with one of those sources being either the reading by William Cronon or the reading by James Scott. The essay is due at the beginning of class on March 22nd with the word count noted on the cover page. You are expected to submit your graded essay outline along with this second essay. Failure to do so will result in the loss of 2/3 of a letter grade (e.g. B- to C).

Marking: Your paper will be marked on the basis of content, organization, argumentation, spelling, punctuation and grammar. Papers that fail to state and develop a thesis will not receive a passing grade.

Late essays (only) may be submitted to the Political Science department’s mail box outside B640 Loeb and will be penalized one-third of a letter grade per business day (e.g. a B paper handed in two days late would be reduced to a C+). Retain a copy of all written assignments. The departmental drop box cut off time is 4pm. Any assignments submitted after 4pm will be date stamped for the following weekday.

Plagiarism
The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another’s data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in “substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs.

Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course’s instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They may include a mark of zero for the plagiarized work or a final grade of "F" for the course. Student or professor materials created for this course (including presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the author(s). They are intended for personal use and may not be reproduced or redistributed without prior written consent of the author(s).

Submission and Return of Term Work
Papers must be submitted directly to the instructor according to the instructions in the course outline and will not be date-stamped in the departmental office. Late assignments may be submitted to the drop box in the corridor outside B640 Loeb. Assignments will be retrieved every business day at 4 p.m., stamped with that day's date, and then distributed to the instructor. For essays not returned in class please attach a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you wish to have your assignment returned by mail. Final exams are intended solely for the purpose of evaluation and will not be returned.

Grading
Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor, subject to the approval of the faculty Dean. Final standing in courses will be shown by alphabetical grades. The system of grades used, with corresponding grade points is:
