This seminar, along with PSCI 6105, constitutes the core course in the sub-field of comparative politics within the Political Science PhD programme. The two courses provide the basis for the PhD comprehensive examinations in the field, but may also be of interest to M.A. students with a strong interest in comparative politics. Whereas PSCI 6105 deals mostly with “classic” debates and foundations within the sub-field of comparative politics, this course is more concerned with contemporary developments. Attention is given to the evolution of the field over the last few decades, particularly with how long-standing concerns of social theory have become contested. We also examine the choices involved in adopting different theoretical stances.

As with PSCI 6105, the emphasis is on developing a comprehensive and critical understanding of a broad range of literature. Each student should aim at developing a broad understanding of how the field has developed in the last few decades, and in developing their own perspective on the epistemological, methodological, and theoretical debates examined.

Course Requirements

1. Reading: Students should read all the set readings for each week. ‘Further reading’ is suggested for the purposes of developing the themes of each week, for writing papers, and for comprehensive exam preparation.
2. Writing: Papers should take the form of critical discussion of a theme, controversy or hypothesis related to the readings. The course is divided into three sections. You must write a paper from each of the sections. Paper 1 will be based on a topic within Section 1 and so on. For example, your first essay might assess the challenges of ‘constructivist’ approaches to comparative politics.
3. Class presentations, each based on one week’s reading. These will be allocated at the first meeting. Presentations must be no longer than 50 minutes. They should keep summary to a minimum, concentrating instead on the concepts, problems, claims, issues etc, raised by the reading. Presentations should raise questions for seminar discussions.

- 4 Class Participation: This is an advanced seminar class in which regular, active, and critical participation is expected from every member of the class. All students must show weekly that they have done all of the readings and reflected on them. Students are expected to be respectful of other seminar participants.

Academic Accommodations

For students with Disabilities: Students with disabilities requiring academic accommodations in this course must register with the Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (500 University Centre) for a formal evaluation of disability-related needs. Registered PMC students are required to contact the centre (613-520-6608) every term to ensure that the instructor receives your letter of accommodation. After registering with the PMC, make an appointment to meet with the instructor in order to discuss your needs at least two weeks before the first assignment is due or the first in-class test/midterm requiring accommodations. If you require accommodation for your formally scheduled exam(s) in this course, please submit your request for accommodation to PMC by November 7, 2008 for December examinations, and March 6, 2009 for April examinations.

For Religious Observance: Students requesting accommodation for religious observances should apply in writing to their instructor for alternate dates and/or means of satisfying academic requirements. Such requests should be made during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist, but no later than two weeks before the compulsory academic event. Accommodation is to be worked out directly and on an individual basis between the student and the instructor(s) involved. Instructors will make accommodations in a way that avoids academic disadvantage to the student. Instructors and students may contact an Equity Services Advisor for assistance (www.carleton.ca/equity).

For Pregnancy: Pregnant students requiring academic accommodations are encouraged to contact an Equity Advisor in Equity Services to complete a letter of accommodation. Then, make an appointment to discuss your needs with the instructor at least two weeks prior to the first academic event in which it is anticipated the accommodation will be required.

Plagiarism: The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another’s data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in “substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs.

Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course’s instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They include a mark of zero for the plagiarized work or a final grade of “F” for the course. The Department’s Style Guide is available at:

Oral Examination: At the discretion of the instructor, students may be required to pass a brief oral examination on research papers and essays.

Submission and Return of Term Work: Papers must be handed directly to the instructor and will not be date-stamped in the departmental office. Late assignments may be submitted to the drop box in the corridor outside B640 Loeb. Assignments will be retrieved every business day at 4 p.m., stamped with that day’s date, and then distributed to the instructor. For essays not returned in class please attach a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you wish to have your assignment returned by mail. Please note that assignments sent via fax or email will not be accepted. Final exams are intended solely for the purpose of evaluation and will not be returned.

Approval of final grades: Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by an instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

Course Requirements: Students must fulfill all course requirements in order to achieve a passing grade. Failure to hand in any assignment will result in a grade of F. Failure to write the final exam will result in a grade of ABS. FND (Failure No Deferred) is assigned when a student's performance is so poor during the term that they cannot pass the course even with 100% on the final examination. In such cases, instructors may use this notation on the Final Grade Report to indicate that a student has already failed the course due to inadequate term work and should not be permitted access to a deferral of the examination. Deferred final exams are available ONLY if the student is in good standing in the course.

Connect Email Accounts: The Department of Political Science only communicates with students via Connect accounts. Important course and University information is also distributed via the Connect email system. It is the student's responsibility to monitor their Connect account.
