

PSCI 5915 A

Selected Topics in Political Science

“Politics, Law and Space”

This seminar explores how political geographers have conceptualized the law as a socio-spatial problem. We will ground the course by working our way through signal 1980s and 1990s “legal geography” scholarship, heavily influenced by “law and society” research in Sociology, Critical Legal Studies, and Criminology.

Instructor: Professor Mathew Coleman

Schedule: May to June 2013

Time & Location: Tuesdays & Thursdays 9.35 am -12.25 pm
(Check Carleton Central for location)