Course description:

The aim of this course is to provide an introduction to the study of comparative politics with a specific focus on mobilizing the comparative method and engaging in theoretical and applied analysis of core domains. This course is divided into three sections, which when combined with the study of comparative methodology will provide a basis for further study in the field. The first section will engage in the study of the state, focusing on the evolution of the modern state and the emergence of nationalism, as well as examining the role of the welfare state in contemporary politics. Building on the theoretical and methodological foundations of the first section, the second will delve into the study of the concepts and applications of democracy and institutions, drawing together readings on democratization, authoritarianism, constitutions, elections, political parties, institutionalism, and interest groups. The third will explore the themes of political culture looking into the intersections between ideologies and identities and the processes of the state. The course is delivered through weekly lectures and supplemented by teaching assistant-led seminar groups, in which students will have the opportunity to discuss course material.

Reading Material:

Dickovick, Tyler, and Jonathan Eastwood, Comparative Politics: Integrating Theories, Methods, and Cases, Oxford University Press, New York. (either 2nd or 3rd Edition is fine).

Other reading materials: available through CULearn (the course webpage) and the library's electronic resources.

Course Requirements:

Critical Review Essay 15%
Midterm Examination 20%
Research Paper Outline 10%
Final Research Paper 35%
Tutorial Participation 20%

Late Penalties

Students will be penalized up to 3% per day for late submissions, however should appropriate documentation be provided these penalties would be waived.

Critical Review Essay (15%)

Students will complete a 750-1000 word critical review of a supplementary reading (i.e. not in the textbook). This paper should a) summarize the key themes of the reading and b) engage in critical analysis. Due February 5th 2020.

Midterm Exam (20%)

Students will complete a midterm examination on course material, during the lecture time period on February 12th 2020.

Research Paper Outline (10%)

Students will complete an outline of their projected final comparative research paper, wherein they provide a research question, thesis statement, an outline of the body of the paper, as well as a sample bibliography. Students may choose from a list of topics provided on CULearn or choose their own in concert with the Instructor or TA. The TA will provide feedback and it is expected that students will integrate this feedback into their final papers. Due on March 11th 2020.

Final Comparative Research Paper (35%)

Students will complete a 2000-2500 word research paper on a topic pertaining to the Global North and employing the comparative method. Students may choose from a list of topics provided on CULearn or choose their own in concert with the Instructor or TA. This paper will make use of at least 6 peer-reviewed academic sources and students are encouraged to use statistics or government documents to supplement their arguments. Due on April 7th 2020.

Tutorial Attendance and Participation (20%)

Students are expected to read the assigned readings in advance of each class, and be prepared to discuss the readings in tutorial with the TA, where they will also be able to explore the themes of the course and engage in dialogue with their peers.

Intellectual Property

Classroom teaching and learning activities, including lectures, discussions, presentations, etc. – by both instructors and students – are copy protected and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s). All course materials, including PowerPoint presentations, outlines, and other materials, are also protected by copyright and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s).

Students registered in the course may take notes and make copies of course materials for their own educational use only. Students are not permitted to reproduce or distribute lecture notes and course materials publicly for commercial or non-commercial purposes without express written consent from the copyright holder(s).

In order to create a respectful learning environment, as well as to protect intellectual copyright, no audio or video recording of course lectures or presentations in any format, openly or surreptitiously, in whole or in part, is permitted without the instructor's prior permission.

Plagiarism

The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one's own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else's published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one's own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another's data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another's works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs.

Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course's instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They may include a mark of zero for the plagiarized work or a final grade of "F" for the course.

Student or professor materials created for this course (including presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the author(s). They are intended for personal use and may not be reproduced or redistributed without prior written consent of the author(s).

Submission and Return of Term Work

Papers must be submitted directly to the instructor according to the instructions in the course outline and will not be date-stamped in the departmental office. Late assignments may be submitted to the drop box in the corridor outside B640 Loeb. Assignments will be retrieved every business day at 4 p.m., stamped with that day's date, and then distributed to the instructor. For essays not returned in class please attach a stamped, self-addressed envelope if you wish to have your assignment returned by mail. Final exams are intended solely for the purpose of evaluation and will not be returned.

Grading

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor, subject to the approval of the faculty Dean. Final standing in courses will be shown by alphabetical grades. The system of grades used, with corresponding grade points is:

Percentage	Letter grade	12-point scale	Percentage	Letter grade	12-point scale
90-100	A+	12	67-69	C+	6
85-89	A	11	63-66	C	5
80-84	A-	10	60-62	C-	4
77-79	B+	9	57-59	D+	3
73-76	B	8	53-56	D	2
70-72	B-	7	50-52	D-	1

Approval of final grades

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor subject to the approval of the Faculty Dean. This means that grades submitted by an instructor may be subject to revision. No grades are final until they have been approved by the Dean.

Carleton E-mail Accounts

All email communication to students from the Department of Political Science will be via official Carleton university e-mail accounts and/or cuLearn. As important course and University information is distributed this way, it is the student's responsibility to monitor their Carleton and cuLearn accounts.

Carleton Political Science Society

"The Carleton Political Science Society (CPSS) has made its mission to provide a social environment for politically inclined students and faculty. By hosting social events, including Model Parliament, debates, professional development sessions and more, CPSS aims to involve all political science students at Carleton University. Our mandate is to arrange social and academic activities in order to instill a sense of belonging within the Department and the larger University community. Members can benefit through our networking opportunities, academic engagement initiatives and numerous events which aim to complement both academic and social life at Carleton University.
