

PSYC 1002 M : INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGY II

Instructor	Deanna C Whelan
Term	Fall
Course Delivery	In-Person
Email Address	Deannawhelan@cunet.carleton.ca
Office Location	Loeb A825
Office Hours	Refer to Syllabus for office hour information

COURSE DESCRIPTION/INSTRUCTORS STATEMENT

Psychology II offers students an engaging introduction to the social science side of psychology, emphasizing the study of human behavior in various contexts. As psychology bridges both natural and social sciences, this course focuses on the latter, providing a broad overview of key topics such as motivation, human development, personality, mental health, mental illness, and therapeutic approaches. Students will explore current research and learn how psychological concepts apply to everyday life, relationships, education, and workplace dynamics. Whether you're taking this course as a social science elective to complement another area of study, or you're planning to pursue further studies in psychology, Psychology II provides a strong foundation and valuable insights into the factors that shape human thought and behavior.

EVALUATION

Grades will be based on participating in psychology experiments (SONA), two in-class midterms, and a final exam.

TEXT

McCann, D., Weiten, W., Hunt-Matheson, D., & Wright, S. (2026). Psychology: Themes and Variations. Seventh Canadian Edition. Cengage Canada. ISBN: 9781778412899

You don't need anything other than just the textbook.

The Carleton Bookstore will carry print copies of this textbook. We negotiated with the publisher in order to get a better deal for our students. This textbook is a custom loose-leaf edition; it is hole-punched in order to fit easily into a three-ring binder (this drastically cuts down on the cost versus having it bound). If you are planning on buying a print copy of this textbook, the Carleton Bookstore may have the cheapest price (it comes bundled with 12-month access to MindTap, the publisher's student site). If you are thinking of buying just an electronic copy of this textbook, you may want to compare prices between the Carleton Bookstore versus buying direct from the publisher.

The textbook for Introduction to Psychology I and II (McCann et al. 7th edition) is available at the Carleton Bookstore for the following prices:

ebook (access to only the electronic textbook)	$65.95
MindTap (the publisher's student site, which includes the ebook)	$79.95
A printed loose-leaf (LLF) textbook, which comes with access to MindTap	$89.95