

PSYC 5500 W – DEVELOPMENTAL PSYCHOLOGY METHODOLOGY

Course	PSYC 5500 W: Developmental Psychology Methodology
Instructor	Robert Coplan
Term	Winter 2021
Email Address	robert.coplan@carleton.ca
Office Location
Office Hours	TBA

COURSE DESCRIPTION/INSTRUCTORS STATEMENT

This course provides an overview of research methods in the study of developmental psychology. Topics may include: observational and interview techniques, longitudinal designs, basic assessment methods, and ethical issues in the collection of data with children.

EVALUATION

Class participation; Oral presentations; Assignments; Research paper

TEXT

There is not a specific textbook for this course. The weekly readings will be journal articles and book chapters. Some of these will be selected each week by a different student or group of students. These readings can be accessed via the library or course website.