COURSE DESCRIPTION/INSTRUCTOR'S STATEMENT

The goal of this course is for students to learn the basics of research methods in psychological research and develop their critical thinking. More specifically, the course will cover key aspects of research methods—such as research design and measurement—and how features of research methodology strengthen or limit the conclusions that can be drawn from the evidence.

All classes for this course will be in-person on campus. A typical class will consist of lecture, exercises, and discussion of the assigned readings. In-person attendance is required during the scheduled class times.

EVALUATION (SUBJECT TO CHANGE)

Participation, assignments, and exams.
