

Course Description

RELI 2741 B – Big Questions in Religious Studies with Andrea Lobel

In this Inquiry course, students will be introduced to the overarching topics of ritual and embodiment in Religious Studies, and will develop a research project related to these allied topics. The emphasis of this course will be upon fostering students' intellectual curiosity and ownership of their learning goals, helping students to formulate sound questions, and to then develop the research skills required to answer those questions. Students will also learn the practical skills of reading and writing within the framework of inquiry-based learning.

Precludes additional credit for RELI 2002 (no longer offered), RELI 1205 (no longer offered), RELI 1402 (no longer offered), and RELI 1730 (no longer offered).