Course Description

In this student-directed course, you will be encouraged to bring your own intellectual curiosity and particular research interests to bear in our discussion of the transmission of Buddhism to East Asia, and the subsequent evolution of new and distinctive doctrines, iconography and practices within these geographical and cultural contexts. Throughout the course, you will propose, respond to, and refine your own personal inquiry questions, which will not only guide your engagement with course readings, but will also be used in the process of collaborative syllabus development. Some potential topics for investigation could include: poetry, material culture, sacred spaces, pilgrimage, self-immolation (“suicide”), gender and sexuality in Buddhist monasticism, and miracle stories.

Course Catalogue description: The rise of the Mahayana and the dissemination and development of Buddhist thought and practice outside of India.

Learning Objectives

Academic

By the end of this course, students should be able to:

- Comprehend the main beliefs, practices, and historical developments associated with Buddhism in China and Japan, from prehistory to the present day;
- Define key terms related to Chinese and Japanese Buddhism;
- Engage with relevant academic approaches to these topics;
- Apply this knowledge in class and in course assignments;
  - This, in turn, will prepare you for further research in the field and independent study, as well as to engage with Chinese and Japanese cultural materials (e.g., film, novels, news reports) in a more nuanced fashion.

Practical

By the end of the course, students will have practiced and received feedback on:

- Presenting academic articles to their classmates and leading discussions;
- Writing reflective essays;
- Formulating broad research questions and gradually refining them over the course of the semester;
- Fostering their own intellectual creativity and engagement;
- Reading primary sources (in translation).

<sup>1</sup> As per Carleton University policy, all communication between students and professors should be conducted via our Carleton email accounts.

Textbook

All class readings will be posted on Ares. It is your responsibility to come to class prepared to discuss the assigned readings, which includes bringing them with you to class (whether in hard copy or electronically).

Anatomy of a Class Session

Each class, I will make use of the first thirty to forty-five minutes to introduce key topics, concepts and terminology, and to answer student questions. In the second half of the class session, in standard seminar format, students will take turns leading the discussion on the assigned readings. These discussions will draw inspiration from each student's personal inquiry question(s). The rubric for grading discussion / participation will be determined collaboratively in our first class session.

Evaluation

Student performance in the course will be evaluated as follows:

- Class Passport (10% cumulative)
  - Each class, you will submit a short (3-4 line) summary of that day's assigned reading, including two discussion questions, based on issues you found challenging, unclear, or that otherwise piqued your curiosity. These questions will be used to foster class discussion. These assignments will be graded on a pass/fail basis, and will be used to gauge your participation in the course. You must save copies of these documents, as you will be using them as part of your final reflection project.
- Leading Class Discussions (5% x 3 = 15%)
  - Over the course of the semester, each student will be responsible for leading our the class discussion on the day's assigned reading three times, briefly summarizing its contents and context, discussing how the reading spoke to their own personal inquiry questions, and fostering the subsequent conversation via discussion questions. The grading rubric for these presentations will be posted on cuLearn.
- Reflection Papers (8% x 6 = 42%)
  - Students will write bi-weekly reflection papers (due as per the schedule outlined below) detailing their responses to the week's readings, lecture materials, in-class discussions, and activities, relating them back to their own particular inquiry questions.
    - It is recommended that all students take detailed notes during classes, ideally keeping separate page / file open containing their on-going inquiry questions. At the end of the two week period, you will be responsible for reflecting on how the prior two weeks' readings, class activities and presentations allowed you to modify or answer your current Inquiry questions, and whether they prompted any new ones. Your "Class Passports" will also help you keep track of these developments.
    - A full grading rubric will be posted to cuLearn one week prior to the first due date.
- Learning Portfolio (33%) (Due: April 20th)
  - Students will synthesize their bi-weekly reflections and "Class Passports" into a curated portfolio, demonstrating the evolution of their understanding of Chinese and Japanese Buddhism (as well as their critical engagement with it) over the course of the semester.
  - While you will be presenting a preliminary version of this project in our final class, you will then have an additional ten days to revise your portfolio based on the feedback that you received on your presentation.
    - Full instructions and grading rubric will be posted to cuLearn one month prior to the due date.

(Collaboratively Designed) Course Policies

Note: We will discuss these policies in our first class meeting. I will then post a revised version of the syllabus to cuLearn.

- As your instructor, I will respond to emails within _____.
  - Given that our class is predicated on discussion and the free exchange of ideas, we must endeavour to create a respectful, critical classroom. We will encourage this sort of discussion by: _____.
  - Our policy on using computers / smart devices in class is: _____.
  - Our course's policy on late assignments is _____.
  - Given that a portion of the grade for this class is based on group work, attendance and participation are clearly vital. Our attendance policy is _____.

University Regulations for All Humanities Courses

Copies of Written Work Submitted

Always retain for yourself a copy of all essays, term papers, written assignments or take-home tests submitted in your courses.

Academic Integrity at Carleton

Plagiarism is presenting, whether intentionally or not, the ideas, expression of ideas, or work of others as one's own. Plagiarism includes reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else's published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one's own without proper citation or reference to the original source. Examples of sources from which the ideas, expressions of ideas or works of others may be drawn from include but are not limited to: books, articles, papers, literary compositions and phrases, performance compositions, chemical compounds, art works, laboratory reports, research results, calculations and the results of calculations, diagrams, constructions, computer reports, computer code/software, and material on the internet. More information can be found on <https://carleton.ca/registrar/academic-integrity/#AIatCU>.

Academic Accommodation Policy

Academic Accommodation

You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request the processes are as follows:

Pregnancy obligation: write to the instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details see the Student Guide

Religious obligation: write to the instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details see the Student Guide

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send me your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable). After requesting accommodation from PMC, meet with me to ensure accommodation arrangements are made. Please consult the PMC website for the deadline to request accommodations for the formally-scheduled exam (if applicable).

Grading System at Carleton University

Standing in a course is determined by the course instructor, subject to the approval of the faculty Dean. Standing in courses will be shown by alphabetical grades. The system of grades used, with corresponding grade points and the percentage conversion is below. Grade points indicated are for courses with 1.0 credit value. Where the course credit is greater or less than one credit, the grade points are adjusted proportionately.

Grading System Chart

Course Sharing Websites and Copyright

Classroom teaching and learning activities, including lectures, discussions, presentations, etc., by both instructors and students, are copy protected and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s). All course materials, including PowerPoint presentations, outlines, and other materials, are also protected by copyright and remain the intellectual property of their respective author(s).

Students registered in the course may take notes and make copies of course materials for their own educational use only. Students are not permitted to reproduce or distribute lecture notes and course materials publicly for commercial or non-commercial purposes without express written consent from the copyright holder(s).

Statement on Class Conduct

The Carleton University Human Rights Policies and Procedures affirm that all members of the University community share a responsibility to:

- promote equity and fairness,
- respect and value diversity,
- prevent discrimination and harassment, and preserve the freedom of its members to carry out responsibly their scholarly work without threat of interference.

Deferred Term Work

In some situations, students are unable to complete term work because of illness or other circumstances beyond their control, which forces them to delay submission of the work.

Students who claim illness, injury or other extraordinary circumstances beyond their control as a reason for missed term work are held responsible for immediately informing the instructor concerned and for making alternate arrangements with the instructor and in all cases this must occur no later than three (3.0) working days after the term work was due.

The alternate arrangement must be made before the last day of classes in the term as published in the academic schedule. Normally, any deferred term work will be completed by the last day of term. More information is available in the calendar.

Deferred Exams

Students who do not write/attend a final examination because of illness or other circumstances beyond their control may apply to write a deferred examination.

1. be made in writing to the Registrar's Office no later than three working days after the original final examination or the due date of the take-home examination; and
2. be fully supported by appropriate documentation and in cases of illness by a medical certificate dated no later than one working day after the examination or by appropriate documents in other cases. Medical documents must specify the date of the onset of the illness, the (expected) date of recovery, and the extent to which the student was/is incapacitated during the time of the examination. The University's preferred medical form can be found at the Registrar's Office forms and fees page.

The granting of a deferral also requires that the student has performed satisfactorily in the course according to the evaluation scheme established in the Course Outline, excluding the final examination for which deferral privileges are requested. Reasons for denial of a deferral may include, among other conditions, a failure to (i) achieve a minimum score in the course before the final examination; (ii) attend a minimum number of classes; (iii) successfully complete a specific task (e.g. term paper, critical report, group project, computer or other assignment); (iv) complete laboratory work; (v) successfully complete one or more midterms; or (vi) meet other reasonable conditions of successful performance.

More information can be found in the calendar.

Any questions related to deferring a Final Exam or Final Assignment/Take Home Examination should be directed to: Registrar's Office

Withdrawal From Courses

Withdrawn. No academic credit, no impact on the CGPA.

NEW FALL 2017: WDN is a permanent notation that appears on the official transcript for students who withdraw after the full fee adjustment date in each term. Students may withdraw on or before the last day of classes.
