COURSE OBJECTIVES
The seminar has as its mandate “[e]xamination of selected theoretical and methodological models used in the interpretation of religious data.” Since the seminar is, with the exception of RELI 1730 “Interpretations of Religion,” the only such course offered undergraduates at Carleton it must survey a relatively broad selection of such models, both “classic” and recent. In keeping with developments in the academic study of religion in the last two decades (roughly), primary emphasis will be on theoretical questions, though these are frequently entwined with methodological issues. In keeping with the rich traditions of the academic seminar, the presentation of material by the instructor will be limited in favour of participation of all members of the seminar (on which, more below). Finally, wherever possible, the seminar will explore the contrasting positions and debates that are inevitably associated with any theory or method in the world of scholarship.

This course presupposes your acceptance of the principles of the modern research university, in particular: 1) that a seminar differs fundamentally from a lecture course; 2) that the academic study of religion is not the same thing as confessional theology. Your understanding of these will undoubtedly develop further during this course.

EVALUATION
Essay Proposal – 20% (3-5 pages; due 1 February, at the beginning of class)
Essay – 40% (15-20 pages; due 14 March, at the beginning of class)
Seminar presentation – 20%
Seminar participation/contribution – 20% (up to 2% per class)

Certainly, it is my aim as a teacher to get to know you as individuals, to recognize your individual strengths and weaknesses, and to foster individual intellectual development. At the same time, however, I am obliged to treat individuals equally in certain key respects. Therefore, as a marker I cannot take into consideration anything other than your actual performance on the items above.

Late work will be assessed a penalty of 2 marks per day or partial day, without exception. Extensions will be granted by me and only for very good reason. Except in emergencies, no extension will be granted within a week of the due date.

POLICY ON ATTENDANCE
Not only is it common practice to evaluate participation in discussion and contribution to a seminar, it is also customary that habitual non-attendance be considered unacceptable performance. Such non-attendance entails a failure to contribute that is simply un-collegial. Moreover, since it is impossible to make up a missed seminar, a member who does not attend regularly cannot really be said to have taken the course. Therefore, any member who is absent from more than 3 meetings of the seminar will not receive course credit. In other words, all members of the seminar must be present for three quarters of all meetings of the seminar.

READINGS
All required readings are available to seminar members through MacOdrum Library, either electronically or via the reserve system. Please note that readings are a prerequisite for seminar participation. Your ability to contribute effectively will depend on you keeping up with the reading. Furthermore, all members of the seminar are encouraged to “read around” the seminar topics as much as possible, and to share their scholarship with the seminar. The preparation of an essay proposal and term essay will also undoubtedly involve such further reading.

OFFICE HOURS
Office hours will be held Mondays from 1:00-2:00pm and Wednesdays from 1:00-2:00pm.

E-MAIL COMMUNICATION
In order to ensure compliance with the federal privacy act commonly known as FIPPA (i.e. for your protection), Carleton communications policy states that faculty must conduct email communications with students only through their Carleton Connect accounts. Please be advised, further, that students can normally expect up to a 24hour turn-around time on e-mail communication, especially during high volume times (i.e. before examinations, at essay time, etc.).

REGULATIONS COMMON TO ALL HUMANITIES COURSES

COPIES OF WRITTEN WORK SUBMITTED
Always retain for yourself a copy of all essays, term papers, written assignments or take-home tests submitted in your courses.

PLAGIARISM
The University Senate defines plagiarism as “presenting, whether intentional or not, the ideas, expression of ideas or work of others as one’s own.” This can include:

- reproducing or paraphrasing portions of someone else’s published or unpublished material, regardless of the source, and presenting these as one’s own without proper citation or reference to the original source;
- submitting a take-home examination, essay, laboratory report or other assignment written, in whole or in part, by someone else;
- using ideas or direct, verbatim quotations, or paraphrased material, concepts, or ideas without appropriate acknowledgment in any academic assignment;
- using another’s data or research findings;
- failing to acknowledge sources through the use of proper citations when using another’s works and/or failing to use quotation marks;
- handing in "substantially the same piece of work for academic credit more than once without prior written permission of the course instructor in which the submission occurs."

Plagiarism is a serious offence which cannot be resolved directly with the course’s instructor. The Associate Deans of the Faculty conduct a rigorous investigation, including an interview with the student, when an instructor suspects a piece of work has been plagiarized. Penalties are not trivial. They can include a final grade of “F” for the course.

This supporting documentation must specify the date of onset of the illness, the degree of incapacitation, and the expected date of recovery.

If you are applying for a deferral for reasons other than personal illness, please contact the Registrar’s Office directly for information on other forms of documentation that we accept.
