

PUBLIC LECTURE AND BOOK LAUNCH

Listening to the Echo

How young adults are talking about religion, spirituality, God, gods and their world

Cover artwork by Laura Lake

Tom Sherwood teaches at Carleton University in the College of the Humanities, the Department of Sociology and Anthropology, and the Centre for Initiatives in Education. He is also a minister with the United Church of Canada. His research interests include religion in Canadian Society, interfaith relations and multifaith activities, multiple religious belonging, and youth and young adult spirituality.

The College of the Humanities, Carleton University

Thursday, February 2, 2017

7:00 pm, 303 Paterson Hall

All are welcome to attend the lecture and discussion session.

Admission is free and refreshments will be served.

College of the Humanities
CARLETON UNIVERSITY