6. ITEM(S) FOR APPROVAL

6.1 Indigenous Strategic Initiatives Committee

The following documentation was circulated in advance:

- Working Paper for Carleton University Indigenous Strategic Initiatives Committee: Approval of Motion
- Presentation entitled From Strength to Strength

The Board was advised that Carleton is launching a process to revitalize its indigenous strategy and its relationship with indigenous peoples on and off campus. The President expressed that Carleton is building on strength and embarking on a consultation process over the winter term to define Carleton’s Indigenous Strategic Initiatives. The President is expecting clear recommendations that can be implemented towards creating positive lasting change.

Dr. Jerry Tomberlin, Dr. Kahente Horn-Miller and Mx. Benny Michaud were introduced as the co-chairs of the Carleton University Indigenous Strategic Initiatives Committee to speak to the Board about the important work they are embarking on.

This included an overview of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission’s 94 Calls to Action and how education holds the key to conciliation with a need for individuals and institutions to change. It was stated that Carleton needs to be a place of equitable education for all and a safe place for Indigenous students, faculty and staff. Involvement of the community will be key to implementation. The recommendation development and implementation team will involve Indigenous elders.

The 2011-12 Aboriginal Coordinated Strategy was a statement of values and principles for Carleton to support Indigenous students, faculty and staff. Cultural programming, student support and safe space is provided at the Ojikwanong Centre.

The Carleton University Indigenous Strategic Initiatives Committee is reviewing nominations for membership with the goal of having cross-sectional representation. A project coordinator will be hired in the coming months and an engagement plan for consultation will be developed with the committee.

It was noted that Ottawa has a unique leadership role to play as the nation’s capital and support for all Indigenous students is needed.

The timeline for the work of the committee was outlined and it is hoped that a report with recommendations for implementation will be available by December 2019.

Opportunities for education across campus were highlighted including Carleton University’s Collaborative Indigenous Learning Bundles which were conceived by Dr.
Horn-Miller as a way to gather Indigenous ways of knowing and make them available to the learning community without overburdening Indigenous experts. Designed as both a resource for instructors and learning tool for students to use in the classroom, the bundles provide the necessary factual and theoretical basis for understanding Indigenous history and politics in Canada, while also prompting students to consider how this knowledge might be applied in their area of study.

Indigenous Cultural Awareness Workshops are also regularly hosted that help participants understand their own cultural assumptions, beliefs and attitudes with respect to Indigenous peoples and provide them with an awareness of appropriate language use.

Mr. Fortin moved, and it was seconded by Mr. Wener, to approve that the Board of Governors fully supports and endorses the work of Carleton University Indigenous Strategic Initiatives Committee (CUISIC) and its work towards revitalizing our Indigenous strategy and our relationship with Indigenous peoples on and off campus, as presented. The Board noted that it looks forward to receiving the report and recommendations of the Committee, and to support implementation towards positive, long-term change.

7. ITEM(S) FOR DISCUSSION

7.1 Framework for the 2019/2020 Operating Budget

The following documentation was circulated in advance:
- Presentation entitled Planning Framework 2019-2020

The Administration made a fulsome presentation at the Finance committee on Nov. 8, 2018, which was followed by in-depth discussions. The framework has a measure of uncertainty on the revenue side, in particular an unknown tuition framework and uncertain base funding. A number of scenarios have been modeled for the operating budget. It was noted that while there is some uncertainty in the budget framework, the university has maintained a mandate for management to maintain a balanced budget.

The budget planning process is similar to previous years except the Provost will now be leading the budget process, as has become the norm in the sector. The change is to ensure alignment of resource allocation with academic priorities. The team leading the process has been renamed the Provost Budget Working Group, and is chaired by the Provost and Co-Chaired by the Vice-President (Finance and Administration). There is also expanded membership.
The key planning dates were outlined for the creation of the 2019/2020 operating budget. The Board of Governors will receive the Ancillary Budget (March 2019) and the Operating Budget (April 2019) for review and approval.

The budget process will include budget presentations to all budget holders which will increase the collective understanding of budget allocations across the university. In May 2019 all budget holders will also share strategic plans and identify lessons learned.

Alternative revenue streams were discussed including intensifying recruitment efforts which has already begun by allocating extra resources in key markets (including visiting over 800 high schools already) and sending out early offers.

8. ITEM(S) FOR INFORMATION

8.1  Free Speech Policy

Senate has been working towards the development of a free speech policy that supports Carleton’s academic mission. Carleton’s process has been led by the Clerk of Senate, Professor Betina Appel Kuzmarov, with a task force of Senate that also included Board and Senate member Elinor Sloan. The President thanked the Task Force members who have taken the time to contribute to the consultation process.

Dr. Appel Kuzmarov was invited to speak to the process and substance of Carleton’s proposed Free Speech policy which is in draft form for presentation to Senate on Nov. 30, 2018. On Aug. 30, 2018 the Premier’s office issued a statement advising all Ontario colleges and Universities to develop and post publicly a free speech policy by Jan. 1, 2019. This statement contained eight minimum standards that should appear in the policy. Finally, Universities not in compliance were advised they could face budget cuts.

Senate, discussed the issue at its meeting on Sept. 28, 2019. Given the tight timeframe, Senate established a task force comprised of two student members, three faculty members and one contract instructor. The task force met on Oct. 5, 2018 to establish a general direction for the policy and again on Oct. 12, 2018 to review a draft of the policy. This draft was circulated for the Senate meeting on Oct. 19, 2018, where Senate moved the draft to a consultation phase. The draft policy was made public on Oct. 23, 2018 and an online form for comments was opened to the Carleton Community until Nov. 6, 2018. Comments could be made anonymously, but submitters had to identify a constituency – students, faculty or staff. An email advising of the consultation process and the draft policy was sent to all faculty, staff and students. Following the completion of the consultation period, the task force then reconstituted for two meetings, on Nov. 9, 2018 where comments were reviewed and revisions were suggested. On Nov. 16, 2018 the task force approved a revised policy and a report on the work of the task force and the main themes identified in the comments. The documents have now been finalized and will be circulated for the Senate Executive meeting Nov. 20, 2018 to be placed on the Senate agenda for the Nov. 30, 2018 meeting for review and approval.

The task force benefitted greatly from both information from the Council of Ontario Universities and other universities and took advice closely from General Counsel.

The task force received 135 comments and one open letter which shows engagement by the community. The general consensus was supportive and positive of the policy, although there were some expressed concerns both that that policy didn’t go far enough, and that it went too far in protecting speech. Many comments followed certain themes, such as requests to define certain terms, using examples for clarity and clarifying the complaints process. There were also substantive concerns expressed about the limits on free speech, protests and criticism of controversial speakers, concern about marginalized groups and authority over visitors. The revised policy addressed concerns to the extent that was both appropriate and possible. In addition, the task force has prepared a report to be made available both to Senate and on the Senate website reinforcing that the policy is a framework document designed to enhance Carleton’s strong existing policy framework, complies with the law and introduces no new changes or restrictions.

8.2 Report from the Chair

The Chair thanked the members for attending the Oct. 20, 2018 planning session. A full report has been drafted to be considered at the next meeting.
