Course Description:
Phenomenology, often referred to as “the philosophy of lived experience”, has influenced anthropological theories and methods in multiple ways. In this seminar, students are introduced to phenomenological key concepts like intentionality, embodiment, and otherness, and learn how to apply them in empirical contexts.