Course Description and Objectives: This course will provide a broad overview on the contemporary development issues, theoretical debates and practical challenges in international development and globalization. It aims at familiarizing the students on different concepts, theories and practices of development as well as the methodological challenges and issues in the international development. The theoretical debates on international development will be examined and analyzed in relation to social and political contexts of the developing countries. A few case studies will be explored to highlight the theoretical gap that has impacted the lives of working people, women, and indigenous peoples in the developing world. This course will also examine the extent of development aids that are culturally informed and draw upon local knowledge and partnerships.

Learning Outcomes:

a) Students will be able to understand the development concept, theories and practices and their relevance in international development,
b) The students must demonstrate the ability to analyze the critical process of development and methodological challenges of development in practice,
c) The students will be able to integrate the learning outcome of this course with their overall learning.

TEACHING METHODS

This course will consist of one weekly session of three hours. The classes will be combined with lectures and discussions. The first half of the class will be focused on lectures from the text book and the second half of the class will be in a seminar form to discuss the different aspects of development theories and practices from the readings of articles and films.
This method of pedagogy is essential for learning this course as most of the article readings will be discussed in class, and the chapters from the books will be delivered as lecture sessions while encouraging for questions and discussions during the session.

It is the responsibility of the students to keep up with the readings throughout the semester and to engage scholarly. The students should read the weekly readings BEFORE the class discussions. It is expected that students will engage actively with the scholarly literature in a critical way. The ideas, opinions and thoughts of all students are to be respected and are all valid.

Research Topic/Outlines: The students will select a research topic of their interest on particular issues related to development theory and practices. A brief outline (4 pg.) explaining the research questions, rationale, key arguments, and a brief research plan must be submitted by Oct. 9. A detailed guideline for the research topic is attached.

Final Research Paper: A final paper including the research questions, context, issues and problems, rationale, key arguments and opinions supported by at least three peer-reviewed journals, and recommendation and strategies is due on Nov. 20. A detailed description of the research paper is attached (See Annex I) at the end of this course outlines. This will also be posted in Culearn.

Final Exam: Final exam will include short answer questions and at least one essay question.

Participation and Discussion: Students are required to participate actively during the seminar (question/answer session) class based upon the assigned readings for the week as well as after the presentation of a film. Groups are assigned for the readings for each week for which they will need to produce two pages summaries and present them in the class. Attendance will also be taken every week excluding the first two weeks. In order to get full mark in participation, it is essential that you have got full attendance, and completed the group summaries and presented them in the class.

Course Requirements and Expectations:
1. Students are required to be punctual in all lectures and discussions.
2. Students must read all of the assigned readings in order to be able to participate in class.
3. Students must complete all of the assignments as instructed.
4. It is important to listen to the lectures and discussions, and the instructions from the Professor.
5. Please make sure that you turn off your cell phones, and also you are not permitted to use Facebook during class.

Note on the Preparation of Assignments: All written work should be prepared in accord with the conventions of scholarly writing. Assignments should:
- be properly formatted (1" margins, readable 12pt. font, double-spaced).
- be rigorously checked for spelling and grammar
- include a title page with the title, your name(s), student #, course # and the name of the professor
- include page numbers
- provide citations for all sources and quotations – see the departmental style guide for guidelines (http://www.carleton.ca/socanth/anthropology/undergraduate/style_guide.html)
- include a bibliography at the end

Late assignments are subject to a deduction of 10% of the total grade per week beginning the day after they are due. Assignments are always due in-class. Should your absence from class on that day be unavoidable, you can submit your assignment through the departmental drop box (located in the door of the main office (Loeb B750). Consult the department’s drop-box policies for more details (https://carleton.ca/socanth/contact-us/). It is your responsibility to confirm that assignments submitted to the drop-box have been received by the Professor.

Academic Regulations, Accommodations, Plagiarism, Etc.
University rules regarding registration, withdrawal, appealing marks, and most anything else you might need to know can be found on the university’s website, here: http://calendar.carleton.ca/undergrad/regulations/academicregulationsoftheuniversity/

You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. For an accommodation request, the processes are as follows:

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities
The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable).

*The deadline for contacting the Paul Menton Centre regarding accommodation for final exams for the Fall 2018 (December) exam period is November 9, 2018. The deadline for contacting the Paul Menton Centre regarding accommodation for final exams for the Winter 2019 (April) exam period is March 15, 2019.

For Religious Obligations:
Please contact your instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For Survivors of Sexual Violence
As a community, Carleton University is committed to maintaining a positive learning, working and living environment where sexual violence will not be tolerated, and is survivors are supported through academic accommodations as per Carleton's Sexual Violence Policy. For more information about the services available at the university and to obtain information about sexual violence and/or support, visit: www.carleton.ca/sexual-violence-support

Accommodation for Student Activities
Carleton University recognizes the substantial benefits, both to the individual student and for the university, that result from a student participating in activities beyond the classroom experience. Reasonable accommodation must be provided to students who compete or perform at the national or international level. Please contact your instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. https://carleton.ca/senate/wp-content/uploads/Accommodation-for-Student-Activities-1.pdf

Plagiarism
Plagiarism is the passing off of someone else's work as your own and is a serious academic offence. For the details of what constitutes plagiarism, the potential penalties and the procedures refer to the section on Instructional Offences in the Undergraduate Calendar. Students are expected to familiarize themselves with and follow the Carleton University Student Academic Integrity Policy (See https://carleton.ca/registrar/academic-integrity/). The Policy is strictly enforced and is binding on all students. Academic dishonesty in any form will not be tolerated. Students who infringe the Policy may be subject to one of several penalties.

What are the Penalties for Plagiarism?
A student found to have plagiarized an assignment may be subject to one of several penalties including but not limited to: a grade of zero, a failure or a reduced grade for the piece of academic work; reduction of final grade in the course; completion of a remediation process; resubmission of academic work; withdrawal from course(s); suspension from a program of study; a letter of reprimand.

What are the Procedures?
All allegations of plagiarism are reported to the faculty of Dean of FASS and Management. Documentation is prepared by instructors and departmental chairs. The Dean writes to the student and the University Ombudsperson about the alleged plagiarism. The Dean reviews the allegation. If it is not resolved at this level then it is referred to a tribunal appointed by the Senate.

ANNEX I: Descriptions of Research Project

Step 1: Choose a research Topic: Decide on what do you want to research on? At this point you must have clear questions in your mind that needs to be elaborated for your outlines. This can be emerged either from your readings or observations in the current perspectives of development, the challenges, processes and the practices. Choose one that interests you most, and develop a paper in a regional context.

Step 2: Research Outlines (Due on Oct. 9): The next step is to elaborate your research questions identifying the major issues and challenges, and explaining the rationale of doing your research. Your research outlines must include the following;

1. Topic statement: Why is it of interest and how it fits within the broader perspectives of sociology and anthropology of development?
2. Thesis statement: What is your preliminary thesis that suggests a direction to pursue your paper?
3. Rationale of your paper: Why your thesis and topic is significant?
4. Statement of key arguments: What are the key issues that you have learned from the scholarly debate in literatures?
5. Methods: How do you plan to carry out the rest of your research?

Notes: Your research outlines should not exceed four pages (1.5 line spacing) including bibliography. The outlines should be handed in class.

Step 3: Final Research Paper (Due on Nov. 20): At this point, you will develop a comprehensive scholarly paper explaining your research questions analyzing the information and the case histories, and present/discuss your arguments with evidence from literatures. (Please make sure that you have referred at least three peer-reviewed journals articles). On the whole, your paper includes the following;
1) Title of research (You must have a title page including your research title, your name and ID)

2) Introduction (Elaborate the title providing the context and your preliminary thesis),

3) Body: Analyze the key arguments with critical observation of facts and figures, and develop your arguments and opinions referring to the literatures in relation to contemporary context of development. You may use the subheadings for highlighting the key discussions,

4) Conclusion: Your conclusion should summarize the preliminary thesis, key arguments and your personal stake in the discussion. You must also provide one or two points suggesting alternative approaches and strategies dealing with the key challenges,

5) Bibliography: Your paper must include the complete set of bibliography with proper citations. You can use either APA style or MLA style of citations. Please be consistent in using the citations throughout the paper.

Notes:
- Paper length should not exceed 8 pages (1.5 line spacing) including bibliography.
- The paper should be handed in class; email submission is not accepted.
- Criteria for Assessment: clarity of thesis, logical presentation, originality of arguments, effective use of relevant readings and proper citations, and balance sentence with proper use of grammar and spellings.
