ANTH 5809A/4215A [0.5 credit]

Anthropology of Natural Resources in the Global South

This course examines the political economies, political ecologies, cultural politics, and/or governmentalities shaping access towards and uses of “natural resources.” Although the readings will be focused more on mining and agriculture in sub-Saharan Africa, topics will include forests, oil, wildlife, etc. in the Global South.