ANTH4100: Digital Ethnography and Hybrid Field Research
Winter 2024

Instructor: Dr. Carolyn Ramzy
Office Hours: By appointment
Email: Carolyn.Ramzy@carleton.ca
Course Schedule: M/11:35 - 2:25
Method of Delivery: In-Person, One lecture per week (3 hours)

Course Description:
An introduction to hybrid ethnographic methods that combine digital and offline ethnographic research, and the examination of various virtual soundscapes and expressive cultures that straddle virtual and IRL spaces through an ethnomusicological and anthropological perspective. Course sessions will include close and critical discussion of selected texts, audio-visual examples, and documentary films.

Prerequisites: None
Reading (s)/Textbook (s):

Przybylski, Liz. Hybrid Ethnography: Online, Offline, and In Between. Thousand Oaks, California: SAGE Publication, Inc, 2021.
Course Requirements & Methods of Evaluation:
Class participation, Mock Ethics Application, Midterm Check in, Final Project