

SOCI 3044A: Sociology of Sex and Sexuality

Instructor	Shuchi Karim
Term	Summer 2024
Course Delivery	Online, Synchronous
Email Address	ShuchiKarim@cunet.carleton.ca

COURSE DESCRIPTION

What is gender and what is sex? Why is sexuality so important? Does sexuality have a history? Where are the origins of sex and sexuality in various cultures? What constructs the perceptions and practices of gender and sexualities around the world? The main objectives of this course are to familiarize students with the past and current research in the sociology of sex and sexuality, to stimulate them in linking their own experiences with key theoretical concepts, and to reflect critically upon taken-for-granted knowledge about human sexualities.

EVALUATION

Weekly Reading Report	20
Class Work	20
Mid Term	20
Research Proposal	10
Final Term Paper	30

TEXT

No textbook (all reading/learning materials will be provided in Brightspace by the Instructor).