SOCI3050
Studies in the Sociology of Health

Instructor	Steven Prus
Term	Winter
Course Delivery	Online Synchronous
Email Address	Steven.prus@carleton.ca

COURSE DESCRIPTION

The health of individuals and populations is influenced by a host of personal, social, economic, environmental, and political factors. This course examines the "social" determinants of health, including income equality, gender, race/ethnicity, childhood experiences, social networks, lifestyle, and healthcare access.

EVALUATION

Quiz	10%
Midterm Exam	20%
Final Exam	20%
Course Paper	25%
Class Attendance	25%

TEXT

Alan Davidson. Social Determinants of Health: A Comparative Approach. Oxford University Press.