COURSE DESCRIPTION

Sociology is one of the most relevant and useful subjects for helping us to better understand the profound changes occurring today in societies around the world; climate crises, wars and armed conflicts, unprecedented changes in media and technology, crises in democratic institutions and rising authoritarianism, heightened economic inequalities and social tensions, etc. By investigating the classical problems, contemporary issues and current debates within sociology, students will develop their theoretical and analytical skills throughout the course and deepen their knowledge of sociology as an academic discipline.
