Carleton University acknowledges the location of its campus on the traditional, unceded territories of the Algonquin nation. In doing so, Carleton acknowledges it has a responsibility to the Algonquin people and a responsibility to adhere to Algonquin cultural protocols.

Course Description and Objectives:

This is an interdisciplinary course, with an emphasis on ethnographic research, that is designed to provide students with a broad introduction to various important themes in Latin American and Caribbean research and introduce you to academic thinkers from the region. Throughout the semester we will also include visitors affiliated to the Latin America and Caribbean Studies faculty who will provide a short presentation on their related work and engage the class in discussion. Part of the class time will also be dedicated to supporting students either to develop their research project as part of their LACS specialization requirement or advancing independent interest in a topic related to Latin America and or the Caribbean.

Learning Outcomes (at least 3):

- Encounter important thematic social, political, economic, and cultural issues in the region and understand how these issues are part of the realities of specific Latin American or Caribbean countries.
- Learn about an important/influential Latin American or Caribbean scholar and explore some of their influence on contemporary Latin American and Caribbean thought.
- Develop a research project relevant to the region OR complete a research project using secondary research on one of the themes in the course.

Expectation for Learning Environment:

We all have different backgrounds and life experiences that provide different perspectives on issues and understandings about what is most important in our lives. Some topics in this class include explorations of how people have been politically and socially marginalized, excluded, and exploited based on their gender, sexuality, religion, economic class and through processes of colonization and racialization. My expectation is that we all work towards an inclusive classroom and society; this project requires all of us to think and act with care and be open to the possibilities of rethinking how our experiences should influence our own knowledge and actions with a goal of ending the ways in which people are marginalized, excluded, and exploited.

Use of Generative Artificial Intelligence (AI)

AI use in this course: Students may use AI tools for basic word processing and formatting functions, including:

- Grammar and spell checking (e.g., Grammarly, Microsoft Word Editor)
- Basic formatting and design suggestions (e.g., Microsoft Word's formatting tools, PowerPoint Design editor)

Students may also have a few other limited uses for AI tools:

- AI assistance as a research tool to find relevant resources. AI tools however when accurate tend to cite the most common and recognized sources; developing your own ability to seek out sources is a key skill of graduate school. Be aware that AI tools continue to incorrectly cite and may make-up citations. It is important that you download and read sources you are using, and to correctly cite your sources.
- AI tools may be helpful for creating summaries of readings, but such summaries are not a replacement for doing the reading yourself. For your own growth and success in the course, if you are using AI tools as reading aid, that you still complete the entire reading on your own.

Documenting AI use: It is not necessary to document the use of AI for the permitted purposes listed above. If you have questions about a specific use of AI that isn't listed above, please consult me.

Reading(s)/Textbook(s):

- All resources will be linked/posted on the Brightspace page.
- There will be no cost to access assigned materials for this course.
- Reading list provided below; some materials may be updated as we move through the course.

Assessed Activities and Assignments:

1. In-class Participation – 20%
2. Presentation / leading class discussion – 15% (starting January 27)
3. Regional Intellectual – Short Paper/Visual Presentation – 25% (due Friday Feb 13)
4. Final Assignment (Presentation and Paper) – 40% (due April 8)

In-class Participation:

- Your grade for participation will reflect your meaningful attendance and engagement with the class materials and the presentations by your peers.
 - Participation will include coming prepared to discuss the assigned materials – meaning you should be able to bring in-class discussion back to arguments, concepts, thinkers, and historical context raised by the authors and bring questions you have about the readings to the class each week.
- This is an in-person class and cannot be followed virtually.
- Over the course of the semester, you can miss up to two classes for personal reasons (family, work-related, minor illness, etc.) except the final conference presentation. If you have a more significant illness and/or major family emergency, please reach out to me as soon as possible to address accommodations.

Presentation / Leading class discussion

- You will be tasked with leading discussion on one or two readings once in the semester. You will prepare a short presentation / introduction to the reading that will give important context to the reading (potentially background on the author, historical context of the country relevant to the reading), a quick summary of the main argument(s), and your own reflections on a significant idea/concept from the reading. Presentation should be about 10 minutes in length (and I will give you a warning to wrap-up if going too long)
- You will then bring two questions that will form the basis of discussion – creating space for your colleagues to discuss relevant open-ended ideas about the reading.
- There will be 1 or 2 presenters per week
- Sign-up will happen through a Google Doc on Brightspace

Regional Intellectual – Visual Presentation / Short Paper – Due Friday, February 13

This assignment is about familiarizing yourself with the scholarship from Latin America and the Caribbean and emphasizing the need to provincialize academic knowledge produced by academics from/based in English North America and Europe.

- Choose an important intellectual from a country relevant to your interests (either your major research project for your degree or this course). The intellectual should have major publications from before the 2000s. Some suggestions will be provided to you on Brightspace but you are able to propose your own thinker.
- Read one major book OR collection of three articles from the thinker (if you are able to read in French, Portuguese or Spanish the text can be in the author's first language).
- Read at least four academic articles from scholars, preferably contemporary, who cite the intellectual in their work.

- Produce a visual representation (infographic / digital presentation / edited video clip) that communicates the major ideas of the intellectual and their influence on contemporary scholarship. You will write a short ~1000-word description to accompany your visual presentation. OR
- Write a book review-style paper (~3000-words) summarizing the intellectual's main arguments and their influence on contemporary thinking about/from the region.

Final Assignment – Due Wednesday, April 8

The final assignment is either a literature review or essay paper (30% of your final grade), with an accompanying academic presentation (10% of your final grade).

- If you are in the LACS specialization:
 - You will be writing a 15–20-page literature review towards your master's research project (either thesis or major research project). Over the course of the semester, you will be working towards a research question and establishing relevant thematic areas that your research project requires you to have a foundation in (history, political economy, theoretical perspectives from the region, etc.). You will be strongly encouraged to include research from the region. Your literature review will also ask you to reflect on how available research is going to shape your research project.
- If you are not in the LACS specialization or in the course-based LACS specialization:
 - You will be writing a 15–20-page essay on an area of Latin American and Caribbean research of your own interest and/or connected to your research agenda. You will be encouraged to use academic sources from the region where possible and accessible.

On the last day of class, we will organize a mini conference where each student will be asked to present (~8 minutes) on their research project / class paper to an invited audience of the Carleton LACS community.

More information will be provided in the evaluation criteria for the essay and presentation.

On days that we do not have a guest speaker we will try to reserve 30 minutes of class time to discuss appropriate methods, relevant concepts, and historical context, as well as individual progress towards your Final Assignment.

Late Penalty for assignments: 2% per day unless you have made arrangements with me before the due date or have a medical reason for late assignments.

Carleton is committed to providing academic accessibility for all individuals. You may need special arrangements to meet your academic obligations during the term. The accommodation request processes, including information about the Academic Consideration Policy for Students in Medical and Other Extenuating Circumstances, are outlined on the Academic Accommodations website (<https://students.carleton.ca/course-outline/>). For an accommodation request, the processes are as follows:

Academic Accommodations for Students with Disabilities

The Paul Menton Centre for Students with Disabilities (PMC: <https://carleton.ca/PMC/>) provides services to students with Learning Disabilities (LD), psychiatric/mental health disabilities, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorders (ASD), chronic medical conditions, and impairments in mobility, hearing, and vision. If you have a disability requiring academic accommodations in this course, please contact PMC at 613-520-6608 or pmc@carleton.ca for a formal evaluation. If you are already registered with the PMC, contact your PMC coordinator to send your Letter of Accommodation at the beginning of the term, and no later than two weeks before the first in-class scheduled test or exam requiring accommodation (if applicable).

*The deadline for contacting the Paul Menton Centre regarding accommodation for February/March examinations is February 1, 2026 and March 15, 2026 for April examinations.

For Religious Obligations:

Please contact your instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details, visit the Equity Services website: www.carleton.ca/equity/wp-content/uploads/Student-Guide-to-Academic-Accommodation.pdf

For Pregnancy:

Please contact your instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. For more details, visit the Equity Services website: www.carleton.ca/equity/wp-content/uploads/Student-Guide-to-Academic-Accommodation.pdf

For Survivors of Sexual Violence

As a community, Carleton University is committed to maintaining a positive learning, working and living environment where sexual violence will not be tolerated, and where survivors are supported through academic accommodations as per Carleton's Sexual Violence Policy. For more information about the services available at the university and to obtain information about sexual violence and/or support, visit: www.carleton.ca/sexual-violence-support

Accommodation for Student Activities

Carleton University recognizes the substantial benefits, both to the individual student and for the university, that result from a student participating in activities beyond the classroom experience. Reasonable accommodation must be provided to students who compete or perform at the national or international level. Please contact your instructor with any requests for academic accommodation during the first two weeks of class, or as soon as possible after the need for accommodation is known to exist. <https://carleton.ca/senate/wp-content/uploads/Accommodation-for-Student-Activities-1.pdf>

Plagiarism

Plagiarism is the passing off of someone else's work as your own and is a serious academic offence. For the details of what constitutes plagiarism, the potential penalties and the procedures refer to the section on Instructional Offences in the Undergraduate Calendar. Students are expected to familiarize themselves with and follow the Carleton University Student Academic Integrity Policy (See <https://carleton.ca/registrar/academic-integrity/>). The Policy is strictly enforced and is binding on all students. Academic dishonesty in any form will not be tolerated. Students who infringe the Policy may be subject to one of several penalties.

Generative Artificial Intelligence Tools (e.g. ChatGPT)

Unless explicitly permitted, either generally or for a specific assignment, any use of generative AI tools to produce assessed content is considered a violation of academic integrity standards. As our understanding of the uses of AI and its relationship to student work and academic integrity continue to evolve, students are required to discuss their use of AI in any circumstance not described here with the course instructor to ensure it supports the learning goals for the course.

Note: Students can also access resources related to citing Generative AI on the MacOdrum Library website.

What are the Penalties for Plagiarism?

A student found to have plagiarized an assignment may be subject to one of several penalties including but not limited to: a grade of zero, a failure or a reduced grade for the piece of academic work; reduction of final grade in the course; completion of a remediation process; resubmission of academic work; withdrawal from course(s); suspension from a program of study; a letter of reprimand.

What are the Procedures?

All allegations of plagiarism are reported to the faculty of Dean of FASS and Management. Documentation is prepared by instructors and departmental chairs. The Dean writes to the student and the University Ombudsperson about the alleged plagiarism. The Dean reviews the allegation. If it is not resolved at this level then it is referred to a tribunal appointed by the Senate.

Statement on Student Mental Health:

“As a student you may experience a range of mental health challenges that significantly impact your academic success and overall well-being. If you need help, please speak to someone. There are numerous resources available both on- and off-campus to support you. For more information, please consult <https://wellness.carleton.ca/>”
